The "sacred tariff" sticks in Judge Pig Iron Kelly's extension maw. He is willing to abolish all internal revenue taxes if thereby he can save the tariff on iron and steel.

Governor-elect Cleveland has announced his staff appointments, and the New York papers commend them as being judiciously distributed, both politically and geographically.

It is stated that ex-Senator Hendricks, of Indiana, has put political ambition for himself on side and has become a staunch advocate for the nomination of ex-Senator McDonald for the Presidency in 1884.

The tariff, civil service reform and Mahone, of Virginia, are three burdens upon Republican shoulders which that party would be glad to rid of, but which, especially the last, bid fair to cause a great deal of trouble.

Mrs. Labouchere sailed from New York on the steamship Servia on Wednesday, but her name did not appear on the list of passengers. She was accompanied by her maid, Miss Roberts, and the record made was "Miss Roberts and friend."

News and Courier: In Southern Alabama and Eastern as well as Middle Tennessee, by reason of cheap coal and iron, pig iron can be made from $11 to $14 a ton, while the cost in the Northern States is from $20 to $25 a ton. And so of cotton.

Mr. Robert L. Stuart, the last member of the celebrated sugar-refining firm of New York, who died on Tuesday, had nearly completed a magnificent residence on Fifth avenue, costing $350,000. He expected to occupy it in the spring.

An underground railroad is seriously projected in New York city. At the meeting of the commissioners, Saturday, several eminent engineers testified to the feasibility of building an underground railroad under Broadway, though it will cost an immense sum owing to the moving of gas and water pipes that would be necessary. In this issue a handsome advertisement, one-half column in length. He has an excellent stock of goods, much of which has been laid in especially for the holiday trade. Purchasers from the country, as well as those from the city, will find there many useful as well as pretty things for Xmas gifts.

Col. Jno. J. Hedrick appears in this issue in a handsome advertisement, one-half column in length. He has an excellent stock of goods, much of which has been laid in especially for the holiday trade. Purchasers from the country, as well as those from the city, will find there many useful as well as pretty things for Xmas gifts.

The Boston correspondent of the London Times is credited with furnishing the Boston Evening Star with the real reason why New York society refused to open the doors to Mrs. Langtry. According to this statement, when Sir George Chetwynd learned of Mrs. Langtry's departure for America he announced his intention of following her. His wife thereupon caused her friends to write to the leaders of New York society stating that, no woman who called upon Mrs. Langtry need expect to be received in England. When Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Labouchere reached New York they found that the fashionable ladies had received these warnings and held aloof from them. Mrs. Labouchere then threw her letters of introduction into the fire.

"How old are you," said an ancient dame to a little grinning tar-pot. "Well, if goes by what mudler says, I is most ten, but if I goes by do fun I es had, I es most a hundred. O! that all could measure their years in this way, but how many measure them by long night watches, and almost fatal coughing spells, which could have been cured by a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup taken in season."

Magistrate's Court. Pat Morris, colored, charged with an assault and battery on W. H. Harris, also colored, was before Justice Mills this morning. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs.

City Court. George Halsey, colored, for disorderly conduct, was fined $1, which he paid and was discharged. Pompey Harris, colored, for disorderly conduct, had the hearing in his case continued until to-morrow.

Mr. Curr in the Pulpit. Rev. Allan Curr, the eminent Scotch clergyman and lecturer, preached last night at the First Baptist Church, his discourse being intended for the instruction and benefit of the young. Notwithstanding the excessively cold weather, a large audience was in attendance, and his sermon was listened to with the most profound and marked attention. Mr. Curr is an impressive and impassioned speaker, and possesses the rare faculty of being both entertaining and instructive at the same time.
