We copy from the News and Observer the reports of Secretary of State Saunders and Treasurer Worth, as they appear in a condensed form in that paper. Col. Saunders, after referring to the crowded condition of his office and the necessity which exists for more room, says, in effect:

It is pointed out, however, that the number of acres given above is not accurate, as the piece of property has more than once, in some cases, been sold for delinquent taxes.

The Secretary specially requests the General Assembly to provide addition al legislation by which offenders against the insurance law may be punished, the present law having been found in snfficient by the courts.

city credit is fully recognized by every a part of the contract under which our bonds were issued. For it must be borne in mind, that the several acts of the Legislature authorizing the city to issue bonds, provided for the creation and maintenance of a Sinking Fund for their gradual payment. But it was not until the creation of the Board of Audit and Finance-whose chairman was made ex officio Commissioner of the Sinking Funking-that any attention was ever given to the subject. Hence, in 1877, when the Board of Andit and Finance was organized, its chairman found no such fund in existence. While the pressing demands upon the City Treasury—which was then laboring under the heavy burden of over a hundred thousand dollars past due indebtedness, gave no encouraging prospects of es- sary. tablishing one yet the law required it should be done, and the necessary ma chininery was set to work by tax assesment for that purpose. As the money is cellected and paid over to the Commissioner of the Sinking Fund, it is inrested in the City Bonds, which are registered and stamped—both bonds and coupons—"Sinking Fund, City of Wilmington," and now form a permanent fund, the interest of which is invested semi-annually. That it has grown to its present proportions is cer tainly a matter for congratulation and, if prudently managed, it will go on increasing until our bonded debt is entirely absorbed by it. while it gives as-surance meanwhile to our creditors ble on and after the 15th inst., has been that the city is mindful of its obligations declared on the stock of the Wilming-
