of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and tver and it strikes at once at the root of the fifficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a FOOD and RESTORER, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and vain from the system. For the innumerable troubles caused by un

LOG ROLLING.

Tree a Lumberman Receives Consequential Damages.

While on a hunting excursion in the great coal and wood region near Carbondale, Pa., the writer met William Coil, a lumberman. Accustomed to life and labor in the forest from early manhood, he was a true Knight of the Axe. Many a tree had fallen before his into liar." ringing strokes, and fleets of rafts had borne away to market the sawed products. Coll is a character, and if Oscar Wilde is right in saying that all movements in unhindered labor are graceful, our friend William, stripped for his work, and attacking a tree as Richard I. assaulted the heavy doors of Front de Boruf's Castle, must have presented an admirable pic-

One day, however, -but let him to'l the story hims If, as he told it to me :

"I was out in the woods, you know, trying to start a log down a hill. Thinking I could get a better purchase on it from the lewer side, I tackled it there with my log-rolling hook and threw my weight on the lever | She started, she did, but as lack would have it, before I could get out of the way, she rolled right over me. If it hadn't been for a lot of small limbs and brush lying in the road, which lifted her up, she'd a crushed me flat. As it was I got up without a broken bone, but with some mighty bad bruises."

"Then you were all right," said his auditor. cold, rheumatism set in, and, if I had'nt heard of BENSON'S CAPCINE PORUS PLASTERS and used 'em it's my opinion I should never made another chip fly. But the Capelue took bold quick, and I'm 'bout as good as new. But there's one thing you kin calkilate on -I shall never wrastle with another log unless I have the advantage of the ground. #### Wanted to be a Newspaper Writer.

The other day Col. Gillit, of Black Fork, accompanied by his son, visited the Traveller office. "I've been layin' off for some time," he said, "to tetch my boy in, but we've had to save the fodder and git the fattenin' hogs outen the woods. I know that you want somebody to help you on this sheet, for it's man's natur' to git tired. Now, my boy Tom, here, has had a heap of money spent on his eddycation, and I don't think that it's right to waste him on the farm. The fust indication we had that he was fitted fur newspaper work was when he writ somethin' on the fence with a piece of charcoal an' got into a fight about it. What was it you writ, son?"

"I writ that Ben Buckle was a har." answered the boy.

"Now, don't you see what stuff there's in him? Just look, a boy only-how old are you, son?"

"Twelve, goin' on thirteen." "Just look at a boy only twelve goin' on thirteen writin' sich a political artickle as that. The man who writ the While Wrestling with a Fallen pa er of independence couldn't do any better than that. And you ought to see him with a pen. Son, show the gentleman how you can freeze to the eend of a pen and rar like a hoss." The boy took up a pen, pressed it upon the table and capered around. "That's what I call 'complishment' continued the tather. "That's what call snap. Son, show the gentleman how you can throw your whole nature

The boy took the pen and wrote 'liar" with a bold smear.

"Now, son, write hoss thief." The boy wrote "hoss thief," and capered around with a juvenile grin of

"That's what I call the result of ed dycation," resumed the father. "That's what I call newspaper ability. Now sir, how much is he worth a month?" "I would dislike to place a hurried estimate of value upon such active service as the young man could render.' said the editor. "Besides, we could not utilize him here, for this is not a political paper. Your son is a political writer, and I would advise you to see the proprietor of a daily sheet." "I reckon you are right. This is a sorter tame establishment. Come on, son, I mus' git a place whar you can sling your jints." The young man will no doubt become an eminent campaign writer, and will eventually exercise great influence "Not by a blamed sight, stranger. I took in local politics.—Arkansas Traveller.

A Wonderful Invention.

The Legge patent sends as many send in a hour, delivers at the receiving The Capcine is the thing for rheumatism. It station a fac simile of the copy furnishturn a crank can send a message, in his Pocket Knives, own handwriting, with any private marks or other devices he pleases, simply by first writing his message on a chemically prepared piece of paper furnished by the company- Practical trials of this apparatus have shown a speed of 2,500 words a minute, but it can be enlarged so as to do even better. A Morse operator who can send er re-ceive 2,000 or 2,500 words an hour can command the highest salary, and even then there is nothing to guarantee him against making a mistake—a thing which by the Legge process is impossithis way, and an enterprising reporter can send, not only the words, but the music of the new opera by wire; but the great advantage the company claims for it is the transmission of correspondence. It is expected that the energetic business man who has an important letter to send to a distance will no longer drop it in the postoffice-unless, indeed, an arrangement can be effected by which the postoffices will be made receiving and delivering stations for the postal telegraph—but will bring it to the company's office, place it with his own hands in the machine, and send it humming in a moment to its destina-tion.—Philadelphia Times.

Tomsy.

He was just a little colored boy, but the announcement of his death will FINE make many hearts sad.

For six years his bright black face had been familiar to all callers at Trinity Rectory, and to all friends of the family. He was a courteous, gentlemanlike little fellow, and looked on himself, as, indeed, everybody did, as one of the family. He believed his great mission in-life was "to take care of the Doctor."
