

The Daily Review.

JOS. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop. WILMINGTON, N. C. MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1883.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as second-class matter.

Peter Cooper refuses to permit his friends to build a monument in his honor during his lifetime. He wants them to send their spare money to swell the Bartholdi pedestal fund, to which he has contributed $1,000.

Since the annexation of Alsace to Germany the consumption of brandy has increased more than tenfold, and there is a proportionate increase of drunkenness, in consequence of the North German brandy being admitted free of duty.

A work is now in progress in New York which is worthy of imitation in other cities. The inspector of buildings is making a careful inspection of all the hotels, large and small. So far none of these hotels has been reported to be in a dangerous condition for want of means of escape. There is therefore no cause for immediate anxiety on their account, but many suggestions in the way of additional exits will doubtless be made and acted upon.

Dr. Cathart, lecturer on anatomy in the Edinburgh School of Medicine, gives some striking facts as to the effect of systematic exercise in expanding the chest. At a school for boys where regular exercise was compulsory, new pupils aged 14 were found to have an average chest measurement of 29 3/4; at 15 they measured 30, 16, at 17, 32, 18, and 19, 32.5. Pupils who had been for some time in the school measured, at the same ages, 30 1/2, 32 1/2, 34.9, 35.8 and 36.8.

The Ohio Legislature is likely to make a special effort to stop the adulteration of food, and formidable lists of abuses are being printed. Thus an eminent Cincinnati chemist says that the liver and kidney complaints which destroy so many lives are largely due to the use of sulphuric acid in sugar manufacture; the aim is to extract the substance in its final processes, but that cannot be done perfectly. Then, among smaller matters, honey-comb is made artificially, and bees fed on glucose to fill it, and even eggs are produced mechanically, so far without shells.

Undoubtedly an excess of imports over exports may indicate that a country is very prosperous, but however prosperous a man may be he cannot always pay out in a year more than he receives. France imported $1,480,000 more than she exported last year, and although the unfavorable balance is not great, it is sufficient to indicate the tendency of things in the republic. There has been extravagance in the administration of the government, and recklessness in speculation and private expenditure has been rapidly spreading among a people famous for thrift. The ruin of the republic is not likely to result from schemes of "Pion-Pion" or other pranks, but extravagance in public and private affairs combined may result in its downfall. France has need to learn the same lesson of economy which is set for the United States.

The "306" medal struck in commemoration of the Grant defeat in 1860 does not seem to have been a popular success, if we may judge from the peculiar contest that is going on about the authorship of the idea. That contest does not consist in several people claiming the honor of the invention, but bids fair rather to degenerate into anxious disclaimers on the part of those upon whom that honor had been thrust by public opinion. It has been generally supposed that the idea originated with that remarkable statesman of Missouri, Mr. Chaney I. Filley. But the Herald reports that Mr. Filley, after having been a silent sufferer for a long time, now repels the imputation "in self-defense." And to leave no doubt about it, he also reveals the name of the guilty party. It is Senator Don Cameron, as is very ludicrous that the man who, as the then chairman of the National Committee, suffered the most ignominious personal defeat at the Chicago Convention, should have been most anxious to perpetuate the memory of it in brass.

Besides the libraries connected with institutions of learning, say the New York Mail, the city of New York has about twenty-five libraries more or less accessible to the public. Of these the Astor and Mercantile have the greatest number of volumes, although neither has 200,000. The other libraries having 50,000 volumes or more are the Society, the Apprentices and the Historical Society. The Electric has nearly 50,000 and the Law Institute has about half as many. Cooper Union is growing rapidly, but its utility is attributable to the quality of its books and to their accessibility, rather than to the greatness of the collection. The Young Men's Christian Association ranks next to the Cooper Union in number of volumes, and it is increasing very fast. Excepting the Geographical Society, the American Institute and the New York Hospital, there are no other public libraries in the city which have more than 10,000 volumes. There are less than a million books in all the public libraries of the city.

The people of Georgia and the Carolinas, says the Augusta Chronicle & Constitutionalist, will certainly feel easier if the Senate amendment to the postal appropriation bill, allowing $185,000 for the last mail service, passes the House. One of these lines extends from Maine to Florida, and includes the Southern service from New York to Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah and Jacksonville, being the principal dependence of Augusta and neighborhood for the Northern mail. By means of the fast trains from Charleston by way of Augusta to Atlanta and Athens, there is no reason why this arrangement should not be as satisfactory to the interior of the State as when the Richmond and Danville Road was the carrier. The Atlantic Coast Line is now the only road which can do the work, and it seems to be doing it well. Senator Butler, of South Carolina, who knows the value of the fast line from the North to Florida, advocated the appropriation. He showed that the newspapers were a very small part of the matter carried by the last mail Southward. Senator Barrow, who seems to have had rather the point of the repartee than the force of the argument in debate, is mistaken about the value of this mail to the city of Augusta and vicinity. The New York papers constitute a small portion of this matter compared with the number of letters received by commercial men. Let the fast mail, by all means, be continued.

MOONSHINE. It is said no less than twenty six widows offered to keep house and do the honors of the Executive Mansion for Gov. Stephens. He bewares of the widders, however.

"Don't mind me, but save that bonnet," was the exclamation of a woman who fell into the river at Madison, Ind., and they were so long saving the bonnet that she did not live to wear it.

"Ah," moaned a widow recently bereaved; "what a misfortune! I know what kind of a husband I have lost, but how can I know what kind of a husband his successor will be?"

Remarking upon the "comet parties" in Washington, the Norristown Herald says: "A good idea, by Jupiter, for the boys can now plan to get the girls away from their Mars."

We understand that church oyster festivals were first introduced by the hard shell Baptists.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE of the Kidneys, Diabates and other Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver, which you are being so frightened about Hop Bitters is the only thing that will surely and permanently prevent and cure. All other pretended cures only relieve for a time and then make you many times worse.

MISCELLANEOUS. The Secret of the universal success of Brown's Iron Bitters is simply this: It is the best Iron preparation ever made; is compounded on thoroughly scientific, chemical and medicinal principles, and does just what is claimed for it—no more and no less.

By thorough and rapid assimilation with the blood, it reaches every part of the system, healing, purifying and strengthening. Commencing at the foundation it builds up and restores lost health—in no other way can lasting benefit be obtained.

75 Dearborn Ave., Chicago, Nov. 7. I have been a great sufferer from a very weak stomach, heartburn, and dyspepsia in its worst form. Nearly everything I ate gave me distress, and I could eat but little. I have tried everything recommended, have taken the prescriptions of a dozen physicians, but got no relief until I took Brown's Iron Bitters. I feel now like a new man. I am getting much stronger, and feel first-rate. I am a railroad engineer, and my regular trip, I can not say too much in praise of your wonderful medicine. D. C. Mack.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not contain whiskey or alcohol, and will not blacken the teeth, or cause headache and constipation. It will cure dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, sleeplessness, dizziness, nervous debility, weakness, &c.

MISCELLANEOUS. THE SUN. NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read The Sun during the year just now passing than ever before. It was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women, among others.

We are credibly informed that people who read, and like The Sun for the following reasons, among others: Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for human kind; because it is the best and most reliable source of the philosophy, the notable fall of the mind, the improving nonsense—all the news of the best world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its marks concerning persons and affairs The Sun makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability; three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whifles as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plain and fearless as when writing for general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purpose to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that The Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it calls him injurious to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes most alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the present overwhelming popular verdict against the rotten and corruptest government. No matter what party in power, The Sun stands and will continue to stand for the rights and interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the intrigues of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

All this is what we are told almost daily by our friends. One man holds that The Sun is the best religious newspaper ever published because its Christianity is undiluted with cant. Another holds that it is the best Republican newspaper printed, because it has already whipped half of the rascals out of that party, and is proceeding against the other half with unflinching vigor. A third holds that it is the best magazine of general literature ever published, because its readers miss nothing worthy of notice that is current in the world of thought and letters. The Sun does not cover one of its many sides that appeals to a particular force to its individual liking.

If you are ready to know The Sun, you will observe that it is a little better than ever before. If you do not already know The Sun, you will find it to be a mirror of all human activity, a storehouse of the choicest products of contemporary thought, a magazine for the cause of honest government, a sentinel of genuine Jeffersonian Democracy, a scourge for wickedness of every species, and an uncommonly good investment for the coming year.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS. The several editions of The Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: DAILY—55 cents a month, $6.50 a year, with Sunday edition, $7.50. SUNDAY—10 cents a copy, $2.00 a year. WEEKLY—$1 a year. Eight pages of the best matter of the daily issues; an Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, market reports, and literary and scientific intelligence make THE WEEKLY SUN the newspaper for the farmer's household. To clubs of ten with $10 an extra copy free. Address: I. W. ESTLIN, Publisher, Nov 22 The Sun, N. Y. City.
