THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1883. NO. 46

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The oysters which grow on the coast of E. I. are, it is said, poisonous.

The next annual meeting of the Evangelical Alliance will be held in Stockholm, Sweden.

The Supreme Court of Illinois decides that no man is obliged to clean the sidewalk opposite his house.

Green hair is coming into fashion and lots of green-headed women have appeared in public with green-eyed men.

The New England bookmakers (not the turtles) are in favor of free books for the people.

The municipality of Rome has placed a memorial tablet in the house which Professor Morse inhabited in that city in 1830.

And old colored woman by the name of Phyllis Williams died at Binghamton, N. Y. on Friday last aged, it is said, 111 years.

The funeral of Wagner took place at Bayreuth Sunday. The entire town was in mourning. A long procession followed the body to the grave.

At St. Louis $250,000 has been subscribed towards the Exposition fund. The required amount of $500,000, it is expected, will be raised this week.

In proof spirits, 46,928,110 gallons, and in malt liquors, 527,051,236 gallons, were consumed in the United States in 1882. This makes a frightful sum total.

Ex Governor Morgan was twice tendered the position of secretary of the treasury, first by Grant and afterwards by Arthur, and in both instances declined.

In 1882, there were 213,312 tons of coffee imported into the United States. At an average cost of ten cents per pound, the amount of money that went out of the country to pay for it would be $42,668,400.

A colored woman named Martha Johnson, residing in Marshall, Texas, while lying down smoking her pipe, suddenly rose and saying she was smothering, gasped and fell dead. A coroner's inquest returned a verdict of death from suffocation, caused by nicotine in the throat. Warning.

The lower house of the Illinois Legislature has passed a resolution asking Congress to pension veterans of the Texan and Black Hawk wars, Jefferson Davis excepted, and yet, if history is correct, Davis' Mississippi rifles stood the brunt of the fight at Buena Vista while Bissell's Illinois regiment stuck their tails between their legs and made for the rear!

Macon Telegraph: We take this occasion to repeat the opinion which has stirred up the bile of Southern flunkies and Northern hyenas: No true Southern Congressman, or honest Northern one, will vote to pension any roll of Mexican war veterans that publishes to the world the lie that Jefferson Davis does not stand among them, in the front rank of honor.

The bill "to punish drunkenness," which recently passed the Alabama House of Representatives imposes a penalty on persons drunk and disorderly in any public place, of a small fine for the first offense, twenty dollars for the second and five days, imprisonment for the third, and gives jurisdiction of such cases to justices of the peace.

The Emperor of Austria has just granted concession for the construction of an elevated railway in Vienna which is to connect all the railway termini, with the principal thoroughfares, as well as with the suburbs. Four years is the time stipulated for the completion of the whole work, and the first portion is to be ready in two years and a half. The estimate of this undertaking amounts to £5,000,000.

The extension of the Enterprise cotton factory, at Augusta, Ga., doubling its capacity, has been completed and operations in the new portion have commenced. It now has 25,000 spindles, and it is proposed to increase this number to 40,000 spindles in a short time, making it one of the largest mills in the South. The new King mill in the same city commences operations this week, with a capacity of 25,000 spindles.

River News.

There has been a sudden and unusual freshet in the Cape Fear, the rise at Fayetteville being reported at 25 feet. We are informed by steamboat men, however, that when they left that place yesterday morning the river was falling, and had subsided ten or twelve inches and was still on the decline.

Almost a Fire.

At about 1 o'clock this afternoon the kitchen of the house occupied by Mr. E. W. Hewlett, on Dock, between Seventh and Eighth streets, was discovered to be on fire on the roof. The family was at dinner at the time, but that important and agreeable duty was at once suspended, and vigorous efforts made to subdue the flames, which willing hands soon succeeded in accomplishing by the application of a few buckets of water. A small hole burned in the roof and a delayed dinner were the only damages. The fire originated from a spark from the chimney.

Commissions and Charges.

A friend has resurrected an old printed list of the tariff of commissions and charges at this port adopted by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce which went into effect July 1st, 1853. We find in the list of names signed to the tariff many prominent citizens who have since taken their departure for the silent land, some who have left our city and are residing elsewhere and a few, a very few, who are still with us, although there are but two business houses of those days in existence now, as constituted then and under the same firm name. We publish the list entire as representative of the business of Wilmington at that date. It is as follows:

P. K. Dickinson & Co. DeRosset & Brown, Rankin & Martin, Anderson & Savage, Wm H. McKay, J. & D. McKee & Co. Wm. Neff & Sons, Kidler & Martin, Russell & J. H. Hathaway & Son, Wm A. Gwyer, B. H. Chadbourne & Co., John C. Latta, W. H. McIlrany, Edward J. Lutterloh, Z. Lati, Wm. C. Howard, Pierce & Dudley, Parsley, McKee & Co., Freeman & Houston, T. J. Cotton, Charles D. Ellis, George H. Harris, J. H. Finner, Joseph J. Lippitt, H. Nutt, Wessell & Eilers, Joseph R. Blossom, Adams, Brother & Co., T. C. Worth, Nelson & Keith, George W. Davis, Miles Costin, A. H. Vanbokkelen, John Dawson, Polley & Hart, James Cassidy, Thomas W. Brown, C. DuPre, Alex. McKee, Robert W. Brown, J. M. Robinson.

A Wilmingtonian Abroad.

We are permitted through the kindness of Mr. W. L. DeRosset, Jr., to give the following extract from a letter received here from our former townsmen, Mr. E. S. Nash, who is now traveling in Europe on business:

I left Berlin and went to Stettin on the 22nd of January and spent two days there. I was most hospitably entertained and had an enjoyable visit. There is not much in the way of art, but I was quite interested in the industries of the place, the most notable of which I visited being the ship building yard of an immense company. There I saw two nearly completed ironclads which gave me some idea of impregnability. From Stettin I came here (Danzig) where I have been also cordially received and hospitably entertained. This is an exceedingly interesting old town, containing many curiosities and pleasing objects. It is still surrounded by the old ramparts of immense extent and strength, and I have just passed through one of the old fortified gates erected in 1588. The buildings are of quaint design and many of them centuries old. The old church is immense and of unique, though very fine design. Its erection is said to have begun in the 13th century. Its contents in the way of paintings, sculpture, &c., are not so well known as those in the Cathedral of Notre Dame, which I have mentioned, but are really more interesting and more enjoyable to me. Two objects there are of special note, one a painting, "The Last Judgment," which was carried to Paris by the old Napoleon, but afterwards restored. It contains a multitude of figures about a foot in length, which are wonderful for beauty of coloring and skill of execution. They are almost like miniature portraits and can be examined at the distance of a few inches without drawback from the propriety. The other object is a wood carving of the Crucifixion, life-size, and more perfectly natural than anything I ever saw. The figure of the Saviour is wonderfully true to nature, and the depicted suffering almost imparts itself to the beholder. The production is several centuries old, and the story is handed down that the artist, in order to get the perfect attitude and expression of suffering, crucified his own brother. Those skilled in such matters say that the anatomical and physical accuracy render the story not improbable.

Magistrate's Court.

Solomon Anderson, colored, was brought before Justice Mills this morning charged with a willful trespass upon the premises of Alonzo Durant, also colored. The defendant was found guilty, but judgment was suspended upon the payment of costs. This, Anderson failed to do, and he was committed to jail.

Before the same magistrate Alonzo Durant (above named) was charged with an assault and battery upon the aforesaid Anderson and was found guilty, but judgment was suspended upon the payment of costs.

Prof. Willoughby Reads.

There was not a large audience, we regret to say, at Library Hall last evening to listen to the literary entertainment furnished by Prof. Reade. Those who did attend enjoyed a fine treat and those who did not missed a rare opportunity. The recitations, both pathetic and humorous, were exquisitely rendered and highly appreciated by the audience. Prof. Reade has a remarkably mobile face which greatly aids gesture and voice in the proper interpretation of the subject he recites. In fact his protean facial expressions were tully equal to his excellent elocutionary efforts. We regret that the hall was not crowded to hear him. The Library Association are making commendable efforts to furnish literary entertainments of a high order, and we hope that an appreciative public will give a cordial encouragement to the undertaking.

Criminal Court.

This tribunal closed its labors for the present term yesterday afternoon, after the grand jury had completed its work. The time of the court yesterday was chiefly occupied in adjusting the costs in cases which had already been determined. The grand jury found a good many true bills during the day, and during the term it has been industriously and energetically at work in the discharge of its duties, having found 60 true bills among all the cases brought before it for inquiry. At the conclusion of its labors the members were very highly complimented by Solicitor Moore, in the presence of the Court, for the efficient manner in which they had discharged their important duties as grand jurors.

Col. Moore, the Solicitor, has drawn all the bills (with two or three exceptions) which, in addition to his duties in the court room as prosecuting officer, entailed an immense amount of labor upon him. In a few cases he was assisted by Mr. John C. Davis, who kindly volunteered to aid him and rendered valuable service. Mr. Davis is young in the profession, but in assuming the duties of prosecuting officer he gave evidence of keen legal acumen which promises a bright future in the profession. Mr. Davis conducted the prosecution in the case of the State vs. Willborn, (the Liverpool cotton merchant) with much skill and ability, for which he was complimented by the members of the New Hanover bar.
