Brought into Competition with the World, the Best Carries off the Honors.

At the great Contennial Exhibition of 1878, the leading products of all the branches of the World's industry were assembled at Philadelphia. To carry off a prize in the face of ordinarystificulty. Inventions and preparations for the alleviation of pain and the cure of disease were present in the greatest possible variety, representing the skill and the pro foundest atuly of the age, and it may be of vital importance to you, personally, to now that the highest and the only medal giver to rubber Porus plasters, was awarded to the manu'acturers of BENSON'S CAPCINE PO-BUS PLASTER, by the follow'n ; jury:

C B. WHITE, M D., New Orleans.

ERNE T FLBISCH, M. D., Austria.

The decision was afterwards confirmed by the medical jury at the last Paris Exposition Knowing the value of such high and unbiased tectimony, the medical profession, both in the United States and in Europe, quickly threw aside the old, slow-acting plasters they had been using, and adopted Benson's in their regular practice. That physicians and surgeons of the broa-lest reputations did this, disthough proves the intrinsic me it of the article. Just as Bad as Ever ..

"Ha! ha! Now I have got you," said the groceryman to the bad boy the other morning, as he came in and end of a call of twine to the tail of a dog, and "sicked" the dog on another dog that was following a passing sleigh, causing the twine to the tail of a had the colic, too, but he didn't call up his folks. It was all he could do to causing the twine to pay out until the call up hisself. Why don't you some whole ball was scattered along the block. "Condemn you; I've a notion to choke the liver out of you. Who tied that twine to the dog's tail?"

The boy choked up with emotion. and the tears came into his eyes, and he said he didn't know anything about the twine or the dog. He said he noticed the dog come in and wag his tail around the twine, but he supposed the dog was a friend of the family, and did not disthat tremendous competition was a task of no turb him. "Every body lays everything that is done to me," said the boy, as he put his hankerchief to his nose, "and tney will be sorry for it when I die. I have a good notion to poison myself by eating some of your glucose sugar." "Yes, and you do about everything that is mean. The other day a lady came in and told me to send up to her house some of my country sausages. done up in muslin bags, and while she was examining it she noticed something wives." hard inside the bags, and asked me what it was, and I opened it, and I hope to die if there wasn't a little brass pudlock and a piece of red morocco dogcollar imbedded in the sausage. Now how do you suppose that got in there?" and the grocery man looked savage

The boy looked interested, and put on an expression as though in deep thought, and finally said. "I suppose the farmer that put up the sausage did not strain the dog meat. Sausage meat ought to be strained."

The grocery man pulled in about half a block of twine, after the dog had run against a fence and broke it, and told the boy he knew perfectly well how the brass padlock came to be in the san-age. bu thinking it was safer to have the good will of the boy than the ill will he offered him a handful of prunes.

"No." says the boy. "I have swore off on musty prunes. I am no kinder-garten any more For years I have eaten rotten peaches around this store es and adopts demonstrated healing agents and everything you couldn't sell, but I nave turned a new of now, and after this nothing is too good for me Sine pa has got to be an inventor, we are

"What's your pa invented? I saw Let the purchaser, however be on his guard it hearse and three backs go up on your against imitations. The genuine has the word Street the other day, and I thought may be you had killed your pa."

"Not much. There will be more than three h cks when I kill pa, and don't you torget it. Well, sir, pa has struck a fortune, if he can make the tung work. He has got an idea about coal stoves that will bring him in sev e al unillion dollars, if he gets a royalt; of $5 on every coal stove in the world His idea is to have a coal stove on cators with the pipe made to telescope ou and in, and rubber hose for one joint. so you can pull the stove all around the room and warmeany particular place. Well, sir to hear pa tell about, you would think it would revolutionize the country, and maybe it will when he gets it perfected, but he came near burning the house up, and scared us al! ha.f to death this morning, and burned his shirt off, and he is all o vered with cotton with sweet oil on it, and he smells like salad dressing. You see, pa had a pipe made and some castors put on our coal stove, and he tied a rope to the hearth of the stove and had put in some kindling wood and coal last night, so he could draw the stove up to the bed and light the fire without getting up. Ma told him he would put his foot in it, and he told her to dry up, and let him run the stove business. He said it took a man with brains to run a patent right, and ma she pulled the clothes over her head and let pa do the fire act. She has been building the fires for twenty years, and thought she would let pa see how good is was. Well, pa pulled the stove to the bed and touched off the kindling wood. I guess I got a bundle of kindling wood that the hired girl had put kerosene on, cause it blazed up awful and smoked, and the blaze bus ed out the doors and windows of the stove, and pa yelled fire, and I jumped out of bed and rushed in, and he was the scardest man you ever did see, and you'd a dide to see how he kicked when I threw a pail of water on his legs and put his shirt out. Ma did not get burned, but she was pretty wet. and she told pa she would pay the $5 royalty on that stove and take the castors off and let it remain stationary. Pa says he will make it work if he burns the house down. I think it was real mean in pa to get mad because I threw cold water on him instead of warm water to put his shirt out. If I had waited till I could heat water to the right temperature. I would have been a orphan and pa would have been a burnt offering. But some men always kick at everything. Pa has given up business entirely, and says he shall devote the remainder of his life to curing himself of the different troubles that I get him into. He has retained a doctor by the year, and buys liniment by the gal-

"What was it about your folks get ting up in the night to eat? The hired girl was over here after some scap the other morning, and she said she was going to leave your house,"

"Well, that was a pienic. Pa said he wanted breakfast earlier than we had been in the habit of having it, and he said I might see to it that the house was awake early enough. up and got breaktast to wing, and then I rapped on pa and mak door and told them the breakfast was getting cold, and they got up and came, down. We are breakfast by gas light, and pa yawns ed and said it made a man feet good to get up and get ready for work before daylight, the way he used to on the farm, and ma she yawned and agreed with pa 'cause she has to, or have a row. After breakfast we sat around for an hour, and pa said it was a long time getting daylight, and bimeby pa to pull out his watch. When he began to pull out his watch I lit out and hid in the store room, and pretty soon I heard pa and ma come up stairs and go to bed. and then the hired girls, they went to bed, and then it was all still, and the pain had stopped inside of my clothes, I went to bed, and I looked to see what time it was and it was 2 o'clock in the morning. We got dinner at 8 o'clock in the morning, and pa said he guessed he would call up the house after this, so I have lost another job- and it was al jumped upon the counter and tied the on account of that bottle of pickled oystimes give away something that is no spoiled?" ..

The grocery man said he guessed h knew what to give away, and the bo went out and hung up a sign in fron of the grocery, that he had made or wrapping papers with red chalk, which read: "Rotton eggs, good enough fo custard pies, for eighteen cents a dozen. -Peck's Sun.
