

The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop. WILMINGTON, N. C. SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1883.

Published at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as second-class matter.

Almost before we realize it the world will be called upon to witness two gigantic engineering feats. It is estimated that within a year and a half the tunnel from England to France will be completed, and probably in the course of five or six years DeLesseps' Panama canal will be open for business. Modern engineering will ere long change the face of the world.

The result of a recent election for county officers in Falls county, Texas, was determined by the votes of seventeen naturalized Chinamen; and the defeated candidates are testing the election upon the ground that a State law, passed in 1875, limited the issuance of naturalization papers to white foreigners, and, it is claimed, disfranchised Chinamen who had already taken out naturalization papers.

There is in Illinois a family named Hiskay, whose aggregate weight is 2,587 pounds. The father weighs 480 pounds, the mother 385, the oldest daughter 307, the next 224, the third 290, the oldest son 520, the second 202, the third 260 and the fourth 176. The paterfamilias has two sisters who tip the scales at 310 and 270 pounds respectively. Such a family carry great weight in any community.

The New Orleans newspapers express alarm at the probability that the Mississippi river will, at an early date, be diverted into the Atchafalaya, and that New Orleans will be left on a shallow pool meditating sadly over her lost grandeur. The Atchafalaya channel, which is wooing the old father of waters from his accustomed path, runs directly to the Gulf of Mexico at a point seventy or eighty miles west of New Orleans.

Chicago's record of crime for the past twenty-six months is a horrible one, and its record of killings for the same time is most ghastly. The facts as boiled down into headlines by The Inter-Ocean show that there have been in the twenty-six months covered sixty-nine murders, besides justifiable homicides; that less than one-fourth of this number have been imprisoned, generally for short terms; another fourth have been let loose by the grand jury, seven remain uncaptured, seven died of their wounds or suicided, and but one suffered the death penalty. Add to this the long list of murderous assaults, robberies, burglaries and other crimes and it will appear that the great city of the West has earned its distinction of being the wickedest city on the American continent. And yet, with this showing, the sanctimonious press of the North write about the crimes of the South without a blush.

A grand celebration is proposed on the opening of the East River Bridge and particularly among the trades of the two cities. It has been suggested that a procession representing all the important industries of the city form at some point in Brooklyn; that a similar procession be organized in New York and at a given signal—the firing of a cannon, the two processions begin moving and pass each other on the bridge. Each procession, it is proposed, shall include the Mayor and Common Council and other officials, and on arriving at the centre of the river span both processions shall halt and the Mayors of Brooklyn and New York with the members of the Common Council, shall descend from their carriages, when a proclamation pronouncing the structure open to public traffic shall be read. After this the processions will move on, the Brooklyn procession making a tour of New York and the New York procession making a tour of Brooklyn. It is believed that this will be a fitting way of celebrating this event of great importance to the two cities.

The following is the manner in which James Gordon Bennett, the founder of the New York Herald, announced his intention of marriage:

To the Readers of the Herald: I am going to be married in a few days. The weather is so beautiful; times are getting so good; the prospects of political and moral reform so auspicious, that I cannot resist the divine instinct of honest nature any longer; so I am going to be married to one of the most splendid women in intellect, in heart, in soul, in property, in person, in manner that I have yet seen in the course of my interesting pilgrimage through human life. I cannot stop in my career. I must fulfil that awful destiny which the Almighty Father has written against my name, in the broad letters of life, against the walls of heaven. I must give the world a pattern of happy wedded life, with all the charities that spring from a nuptial love. In a few days I shall be married according to the holy rites of the most holy Christian Church to one of the most remarkable, accomplished and beautiful young women of the age. She possesses a fortune. I sought and found a fortune—a large fortune. She has no Stoughton shares or Manhattan stock, but in purity and uprightness she is worth half a million of pure coin. Can any swindling bank show as much? In good sense and elegance another half a million; in soul, mind and beauty, millions on millions, equal to the whole specie of all the rotten banks in the world. Happily, the patronage of the public to the Herald is nearly twenty-five thousand dollars per annum, almost equal to a President's salary. But property in this world's goods was never my object. Fame, public goods, usefulness in my day and generation; the religious associations of female excellence; the progress of true industry—these have been my dreams of night, and my desires by day.

In the new and holy conditions into which I am about to enter, and to enter with the reverential feelings as I would heaven itself, I anticipate some signal changes in my feelings, in my views, in my purposes, in my pursuits. What they may be I know not—time alone can tell. My ardent desire has been throughout life to reach the highest order of human excellence by the shortest possible cut. Association, night and day, in sickness and in health, in war and in peace, with a woman of this highest order of excellence must produce some curious results in my heart and feelings, and these results the future will develop in due time in the columns of the Herald.

Meantime, I return my heartfelt thanks for the enthusiastic patronage of the public, both of Europe and America. The holy estate of wedlock will only increase my desire to be still more useful. God Almighty bless you all. JAMES GORDON BENNETT.

A few days after the marriage was announced at the head of the editorials columns of the Herald in the following terms:

MARRIED. On Saturday afternoon, the 6th instant, by the Rev. Dr. Power, at St. Peter's Catholic Church, in Barclay street, James Gordon Bennett, the proprietor and editor of the New York Herald, to Henrietta Agnes Crean. What may be the effect of this event on the great newspaper contest now waging in New York time alone will show.

PERSONAL. Charles A. Dana, editor of the Sun, has bought a residence on the corner of Sixtieth street and Madison avenue, New York City, for $150,000.

Mr. Henry Irving will be tendered a public banquet in London on the eve of his departure for America, at which Lord Coleridge, who is also coming hither, will preside.

J. F. Burrell, formerly grand secretary of the grand lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, of Illinois, is being tried on the charge of embezzling $7,000 belonging to the order. The report of Mr. Tildren's illness is denied. An inquiry at his residence at Yonkers on Monday last elicited the statement that he was in perfect health, and all rumors to the contrary are false.

Mr. Henry Clay Thurston, of White Oak, Titus county, Texas, fifty-three years old, is 7 feet 7 1/2 inches in height, and claims to be the longest man in the United States. He had nine brothers, every one of whom was over 6 feet in height.

The pleasure trip of ex-Senator Cameron and Mr. Charles A. Dana, the editor of the New York Sun, has been postponed for two weeks, in consequence of an accidental fall by which Mr. Cameron's back was strained. Mr. Dana has paid a visit of condolence to Mr. Cameron.

SHORTS. When Adam went a gardening. In Eden, long ago, A cabbage from a turnip The old fraud didn't know; He couldn't tell an elephant From an adder or a bee, And the devil had to show him How to reach the apple tree.

A Pawtucket schoolma'am, in order to be sure of punishing the pupil who had whistled, gave every one of the fifty-eight in the room five blows.

In Baltimore, on St. Paul street, is displayed the sign: "Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney-at-law." This grand-nephew of the great Emperor is a busy member of his profession.

The Washington City dog-catchers, a few days ago, captured the favorite terrier of Mrs. Secretary Chandler, and an exchange says there will be sure enough work for the navy, now.

The Chinese are making it very uncomfortable for Americans in the Celestial Empire. They are probably proceeding upon the idea that sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander.

Mr. John L. Sullivan, of Boston, the champion bruiser of America, is reported to be drinking heavily. If this is the case Mr. Sullivan has found his match. Whisky will knock him out if he has the sinews of Hercules.

An Indian woman who cooked for Andrew Jackson when he headed the engineers cutting a road through to Florida, and still has the pots and kettle used in that peaceful campaign, is living at Kilpatrick, Ala., aged 120 years.

There are things that some men fear worse than death; so William C. Crump, a prominent lawyer at New London who died Monday, made a last request that the New London county bar should not pass resolutions about him after he had gone.

Twenty-Four Hours to Live. From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearance, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine. Any girl will tell you that gold bangles are warmer than worsted wrist lets.—Phoenia.

New Life

Given by using BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. In the Winter it strengthens and warms the system; in the Spring it enriches the blood and conquers disease; in the Summer it gives tone to the nerves and digestive organs; in the Fall it enables the system to stand the shock of sudden changes.

In no way can disease be so surely prevented as by keeping the system in perfect condition. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS ensures perfect health through the changing seasons, it disarms the danger from impure water and miasmatic air, and it prevents Consumption, Kidney and Liver Disease, &c.

H. S. Berlin, Esq., of the well-known firm of H. S. Berlin & Co., Attorneys, Le Droit Building, Washington, D. C., writes, Dec. 5th, 1881:

Gentlemen: I take pleasure in stating that I have used Brown's Iron Bitters for malaria and nervous troubles, caused by overwork, with excellent results.

Beware of imitations. Ask for BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, and insist on having it. Don't be imposed on with something recommended as "just as good." The genuine is made only by the Brown Chemical Co. Baltimore, Md.

Fayetteville Observer. ON THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8th, 1883, the undersigned will revive the publication of the FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER. The OBSERVER will be a large 28 column weekly newspaper, and will be mailed to subscribers, postage paid, at $2 per annum, advance in advance. It will give the news of the day in as ample form as its space will permit, and both regular and occasional correspondents will contribute letters from the Capital on State politics and affairs. Democratic in politics, the OBSERVER will labor, first of all, to assure the prosperity of the Town of Fayetteville, to develop the vast agricultural resources of its own and the neighboring counties, and to promote all that concerns the welfare of the people of North Carolina. Opposed to such innovations on the homely ways of our fathers as, in the guise of progress, harm society, the OBSERVER will be found in full sympathy with the new things born of the changed condition of the South, and with any sane judgment or enlightened experience find to be also good. As to the rest, it will strive to deserve the reputation of the name it inherits. E. J. HALE, JR. feb 10

Commissioner's Sale. IN PURSUANCE OF A DECREE OF THE Superior Court of Brunswick county, at Fall Term 1882, in an action for foreclosure, there pending between The First National Bank of Wilmington as plaintiff, and Alexander Oldham and wife as defendants, the undersigned, Commissioner appointed by said decree, will sell at public auction, for cash, at the Court House in Smithville, on Monday, the 9th of April 1883, at 11 A.
