Rev. W. T. Jones, formerly of this city, but now pastor of the Baptist church at Wilson, is here on a brief visit to kindred and friends.

The storm signal was flying again to-day but the sun was bright and clear and there were no indications, in the heavens, to a casual observer, of a storm.

The United States flag was flying at half mast from the Custom House this morning as a mark of respect to Postmaster General Howe who died at his home in Wisconsin yesterday.

Our old friend Mr. G. P. Hill advertises in this issue for a reliable, energetic man to take charge in this city of the Household Sewing Machine. A rare opportunity for a young man with some "get-up and git" about him.

The members of the Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Co., No. 1, will celebrate the fourteenth anniversary of the company to-morrow afternoon by a parade through the streets. The Little Giant will be decorated with evergreens.

A dilapidated valise was tied around the man's body. Who the dead man is or how he met his death is not known. The remains were properly interred.

The Hibernian Sociable.

As is their wont our friends of the Hibernian Association spent a very enjoyable evening at their festival held at Germania Hall last night. There was a plenty and to spare of the tempting viands spread for the benefit of the inner man. Music and dancing were freely indulged in and the guests of the Association were made to feel at home by attention shown them by each and every one of the Hibernians. The best of good feeling prevailed; all in attendance declare 'twas the happiest moments of their lives.
