Beef tea has been prescribed for insomnia.

Senator Don Cameron is reported as almost completely recovered from his recent illness.

In Paris men wear bracelets. A famous Bey wears one of diamonds valued at $300,000.

Assafetida is now on the free list, Limberger cheese alone being able to compete with it.

The Germans of the East and West will decide the next presidential election. They are drifting to Democracy.

The entire Pan Handle of Texas, a tract of 5,000 square miles, has been sold to an English company for grazing purposes.

The Democrats in Louisiana smile a knowing smile when it is intimated that the Republicans will carry that State next year.

The New Orleans Picayune makes an ingenious statement to prove that the various American syndicates engaged in building Mexican railways will reap, on 12,850 miles of track, a profit of $36,500,000.

A German correspondent writing to a New York paper states that a cook in that country gets $26 a year wages, which is an advance of fifty per cent, in the last twenty-five years. Nurses get three cents a day.

The half brother of Napoleon, King of Rome, Prince Frederick Albert de Montenuovo, aged 62 (son of Marie Napoleon the First's wife, and her second husband, Field Marshal Count Neipreg), has just come out, completely cured from the madhouse where he has been confined for the last two years. He is now with his son in his chateau of Steinam Anger.

Last Sunday's edition of the New York Herald was an octuple sheet, which is the second instance of the kind in three weeks. In this issue there is the enormous total of 132 columns of advertising, equal to 22 full pages of six columns each, Herald size and Herald type, and yet even this tremendous pressure is not allowed to in any measure curtail the production of news and hence the octuple sheet. Let us see: 132 columns of advertising means (we estimate roughly) about 275 lines to the column and this, at the ordinary rates for advertising in the Herald, is $110 per column. At this rate, then, assuming that we are correct, Sunday's issue contains nearly $15,000 worth of advertisements. If the Herald could publish this same issue every Sunday during the year, or could average it, then its business from this source alone would be nearly $800,000, without any reference at all to the other six-sevenths of the week. The octuple is truly a stupendous issue and it is gratifying to outsiders as it may be taken as a sure indication of a good trade this Spring and of substantial business prosperity.

The New York Sun says that "the Democrats of North Carolina are reported as being still in favor of the elevation of Mr. Tilden to the seat which he was prevented by fraud from occupying." On the contrary, we doubt if there is a corporal's guard of Tilden men in North Carolina. Mr. Tilden was elected once, and it was not only "fraud," but timidity, that prevented him from taking his seat. Our opinion is that the masses of the people in North Carolina prefer W. S. Hancock to any living man, but as it is the bosses, and not the masses, who are represented in convention, it is hard to say how Hancock stock really is. But North Carolina will send her quota to the electoral college to vote for any good Democrat who is selected, no matter whether it is Tilden, or Hancock, or Cleveland, or Seymour, or McDonald. But there isn't a first-class Democrat in the State who will support Beast Butler. Should that which we look upon as an impossibility become an accomplished fact; should, in other words, Butler be nominated, or accepted, or endorsed by a Democratic convention, then the people in North Carolina will remain away from the polls and let the election in this State go by default, and the Review will not hesitate for one moment to advise such a course of action.

Don't Die in the House.
"Rough on Rats" Cleans out rats, mice, roaches, bed-bugs, flies, ants, moles, chipmunks, gophers. 15c.

Numbering.

Mr. Dukes, one of the gentlemen who have the contract to number the houses in this city, tells us that he will have the numbers on by or before the first of May. He has already taken over 2,000 orders and will commence to-day to place the numbers on the houses. When the work is completed the curious of the city will have an opportunity to ascertain the number of houses within the corporate limits.

Election of Officers.

The members of the Produce Exchange held their regular meeting, for the election of officers to serve for the ensuing year, at their rooms at 12 o'clock to-day, with the following result:

President—Roger Moore.
Vice President—J. H. Currie.
Board of Managers—H. C. McQueen, A. H. Green, B. F. Hall, R. E. Calder, A. Martin.

Wilmington Cotton Mills.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wilmington Cotton Mills was held at the office of the Navassa Guano Works, this morning, with Mr. D. G. Worth in the Chair and Capt. W. G. MacRae acting as Secretary.

The annual reports were read and accepted and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Donald MacRae.
Vice President—Wm. A. Fronch.
Secretary and Treasurer—Walter G. MacRae.

Directors—Donald MacRae, Wm. A. French, Edward Kidder, Jas. H. Chadbourn, John W. Atkinson, F. W. Kerchner, B. G. Worth and Walter G. MacRae.

The Penalties.

The following persons were sentenced to terms of imprisonment for the crimes with which they were respectively charged at the term of the Criminal Court, which closed its labors on Saturday last:

Miles Cooper, larceny, 5 years in the penitentiary.

Kit Foster and Henrietta Nixon, larceny, the former 2 years in the penitentiary and the latter 6 months in the County House of Correction.

Thad Moore and Catharine Black, fornication and adultery, 18 months in the County House of Correction.

Edward Colvin and Lucy Black, fornication and adultery, 18 months in the County House of Correction.

Mary Jones, assault and battery, 2 years in the County House of Correction.

A hotel-man by name of Ransom, who tried to peep over a transom, Wouldn't tell what he saw, But his battered jaw, St. Jacobs Oil made it quite handsome.

Phosphate Phinds.

It may be that there are some very rich phosphate deposits underlying this section, the rocks found at Castle Hayne seeming to establish this fact to a certain extent. The News and Observer thinks that the discovery is an important one. It has given some time and attention to the subject and in commenting on the find, says:

The indications are that the bed is extensive, while the analysis demonstrates its richness in phosphatic elements. There are many beds of coprolites on the lower waters of the Cape Fear, but those heretofore examined have not been of sufficient importance to justify operating them. Green sand is also found, while, as is well known, a part of great excellence abounds—Phosphatic rock, however, is of a different formation. The origin of the phosphate beds in the coast region of South Carolina is in doubt. The most satisfactory theory that we have met with is that when this continent was yet young the gulf stream passed still further inland than at present; that its channel widened on reaching the Carolina coast and the current slackened; that this loss of momentum resulted in a settling of the rich phosphatic sediment, which the gulf stream brought with it from the tropics. Hence the present deposit. If this theory be correct, then unless the gulf stream was deflected eastward by some headland to the southward of the Cape Fear, there should also be similar deposits found in the Cape Fear region. An examination of the Rocky Point district, just north of Castle Hayne, indicates that it was at a comparatively recent date covered by the ocean, and that after the coast line had changed, it remained an arm of the sea. What the coast line was when the sands of Mt. Misery were being piled up, is a mere matter of conjecture; but considering the surroundings, it is highly probable that in that region beds of phosphates exist of sufficient extent to justify working.

A Pleasant Hour.

Mr. Gregory, of Marblehead, Massachusetts, through whose munificence the Congregational Church, on Nun, between Sixth and Seventh streets, and New Hampshire Memorial Institute, on the corner of Nun and Seventh streets, were mainly established, has been in the city for several days, with some others of his Northern friends, and to-day held a sort of informal reception at the City Hall. There was quite a gathering of some of our most prominent citizens and a few colored persons in attendance. Mayor Hall introduced Mr. Gregory to the audience in a very happily conceived yet brief speech. The speech of the latter occupied about 15 minutes in its delivery and was listened to with marked attention and interest. His line of argument was that in proper education the heart—the virtuous—must be taught as well as the mental powers; that to educate the latter without caring for the former was to fit man for a vicious life; that the whole man mental, physical and moral, should be properly and thoroughly trained at one and the same time. Rev. Drs. Taylor and Wilson and Mayor Hall made brief, appropriate speeches, after which the meeting broke up.

Notice

IN THE GENERAL LAWS OF THE State the chapter relating to Towns reads as follows: "Any person or persons violating any Ordinance of any City or Town of this State shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter;" that means fines or imprisonment. It is not my wish to subvert any citizen to needless trouble or annoyance, but the cleanliness of the city and the good health of the citizens are mainly dependent on the strict observance of the Sanitary Ordinances. Now, therefore, ample notice is hereby given to all persons interested, that on the 15th day of May next, the Health Officers of the city will be required to carefully inspect and report upon the condition of all private sinks and privies, and all persons who have willfully failed to have such places thoroughly cleaned and disinfected by that time will subject themselves to indictment under the above named Act. The names of the City Scavengers can be ascertained by application to the Chief of Police.
