THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C. TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1883. NO. 92

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation, of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The Princess Louise arrived at Newport, R. I., last Saturday and passed the Sunday in Boston.

The first pair of India rubber shoes ever seen in the United States was brought here in 1830.

Much damage by freshets is reported from Vermont and Canada, in the districts tributary to the St. Lawrence river.

In Germany the average income of a judge, lawyer, doctor, professor or superior officer, is not generally more than $1,000.

The new postal law will increase the salaries attached to small postoffices, and will materially reduce the revenues of the department.

The consumption of "aperitifs" in England seems to be falling off. The revenue from this source was reduced last year $75,000,000.

The Jews in Great Britain are said to have more children who can read and write, in proportion to their number, than any other denomination.

The word "mash" is in one of Beaumont's plays, where it reads "mashed in love," it meaning "mashed" or "snared in love. That's what it means now.

Dimples are becoming a matter of surgical art. A Paris surgeon advertises that he will supply people with all the dimples they may desire at a napoleon apiece.

The jury in the case of ex-Mayor De Bevoise, of Long Island City, N. Y., who was tried for wrongful conversion of city bonds, have found a verdict against the defendant for $100,700. D. B. is now in jail.

There was an alarm of fire in the House of Mercy in New York, Friday night, about 8 o'clock, when the nuns quietly awoke the 200 children and marched them to a corridor for prayers till the danger was passed.

The cultivation of the olive in California promises to be a great success. The trees begin bearing in three years, and continue to yield for centuries. Some of the olive trees are already eight years old, and produce 250 bushels of fruit to the acre, representing $1,350 in oil.

Herr Vollmar, a Socialist member of the German Reichstag, has asserted that the money, amounting to $200,000, raised in this country for the relief of the sufferers by the floods in Germany, has not been distributed properly, although it was sent to the President of the Reichstag.

The death rate of Nantes is a singular contradiction of the accepted theory concerning the intimate relation between dirt and disease. It is said to be the filthiest city in all Christendom, and the streets are rarely, if ever, cleaned; still the annual death rate is reported as less than 24 per cent. of the population.

Alexander H. Stephens' will is made public through the Atlanta papers. "My property," runs the will, "I think upon a fair valuation is worth $12,000." The Liberty Hall house goes to his friend Quinea O'Neal and most of the other property to his relatives. The servants are remembered all, and what the testator calls "My Oglethorpe county gold-headed cane" and "My Baptist Church, Atlanta, gold-headed cane" go to friends.

The indications are that the reduced taxes on cigars will not benefit the smokers, as the cigar makers, the manufacturers and the retailers seem disposed to divide the three dollars per thousand remitted by the Government so that the consumer will pay the same old prices. The match monopoly has also taken a similar stand, and expects to absorb all the benefit from the remission of the Government tax.

The preparations for the coronation of the Czar at Moscow are proceeding on an enormous scale. The details of the coronation ceremonies as they appear, a few at a time, will involve an enormous expenditure, not only on the part of the government, but of individuals. We are told that the entire programme will cover 25 days and will give the Nihilists at various times and several places opportunities to carry out their threatened programme, if they are prepared to do so. The Moscow ceremonies with the accompanying fetes will extend over no less than 16 days and festivities at St. Petersburg before and after the solemnization, will last 9 days. The efforts to secure apartments at Moscow have been so numerous that householders who live in eligible quarters are demanding fabulous prices, such as have never before been heard of. Quiet suits of 4 or 5 rooms, even in distant quarters, are letting at 3,000 roubles, or about $2,200 for the fortnight of the celebration, and for houses which front on the Kremlin and which are taken by those belonging to the court or representing foreign courts, $7,500 is not considered too high. Foreign journals in their efforts to arrange for anything like a complete report have found themselves at once involved in a very heavy expense. Lodging keepers refuse to make any agreements in advance and restaurateurs will double prices. Arrangements have been made to secure a great number of extra cabs during the fetes, but it is already announced that the charge will in no case be less than $20 a day.

More rain and cold, misty, disagreeable weather.

The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 97 bales.

The market is supplied now with some unusually fine beef.

We learn that there was a slight fall of snow in this city last night between 1 and 2 o'clock.

Capt. Chas. D. Myers has been selected by the ladies as Chief Marshal for Memorial Day.

A fine assortment of Guns and Pistols at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

Steamboatmen report that the storm thus far has caused no perceptible rise in the Cape Fear.

Oysters will be out of date in less than two weeks and will soon go into Summer quarters.

A large number of houses in the Southern and Eastern portions of the city have been numbered.

The Madison Square Company will perform "Young Mrs. Winthrop" in this city Friday evening, the 27th inst.

Such disagreeable, dirty weather as we have had to day makes news gathering rather a difficult task; especially as there appears to be none of consequence.

In last Saturday's issue of the REVIEW we said that "the News and Observer" insists upon it that a billion is ten million," whereas it should read, as it was in the copy, ten hundred million.

The Old Dame.
Look at the cut of the old woman in our advertising columns. She tells a tale of woe and distress, and also tells how she could have preserved her good looks without the use of cosmetics, patent medicines or "Bloom of Youth." She tells her dear sisters where to find relief from these troubles, and advises them to go to Evans' Block and get a New No. 8.

By Coney Island's sea girl roar. A drowning man was cast ashore. Each stifled limb. Looked stark and grim. St. Jacobs Oil gave life one more.

Branson's Directory.
Rev. L. Branson, of Raleigh, is in the city and favored us with a call this morning. Mr. Branson is here in the interest of his North Carolina Business Directory, which is to be revised this Spring and published on a more extensive scale than yet attempted. Mr. Branson thinks that he will have some 60,000 names in this edition, 12,000 of whom will be farmers.

Returned.
Dr. Thos. F. Wood, who was called to Savannah a few days since to attend his mother, Mrs. R. B. Wood, Sr., who was suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia, has returned to the city, and we are pleased to note that the venerable lady's condition is much better and that she is now considered in a fair way of recovery. Mrs. Wood was on her way to visit her sons at Brunswick, Ga., when she was taken sick and was compelled to stop at Savannah, where she is now as the guest of Capt. Walter Coney.

Silver Plated Spoons and Forks, low prices, at JACOBI'S.

A novelty in the fish market this afternoon consisted of a lot of mullets which were alive and kicking, after having been bunched and hauled over the road from Wrightsville to Wilmington, eight miles. They had been more than two hours out of the water.

Solve This.

The following puzzle is thrown upon the market for a solution: A farmer goes to market with a basket of eggs. To the first customer he sells one half of all he has and half an egg over. To the second customer he sells one-half the remainder and half an egg over. To the third customer he sells one-half the remainder and one-half an egg over. He then finds that he has one egg left. How many had he at first?

Hard at It.

Mr. J. W. Taylor has got his saw mill in operation, and is driving work to its utmost capacity. The mill is so arranged as to very much reduce the amount of manual effort. In fact it is nearly all performed by some simple mechanical contrivance, acting automatically, from the time the rough log is taken wet and dripping from the water until it is sawed into lumber and deposited on the wharf, alongside the vessels or placed in the yard ready for piling.

Railroad Improvements.
The improvements which have been in progress for the past two years at the railroad yards have been of the most substantial character, and those now going on are equal to any that have been made. Every piece of work completed has the appearance of having been put there to stay. A warehouse for the W. & W. Road, precisely like that recently completed for the W., C. & A. Road, is to be built at once, the foundations of which are now being established. Every available inch of ground in the freight yards is being utilized for the accommodation of the constantly increasing demand for freight facilities. The new machine shop, which is one of the largest in the entire South, has been pushed forward rapidly until it is now nearly ready to receive the roof. This building will be an important improvement when completed and ready for occupancy, but it is only one of many changes that are being made for the better accommodation and convenience of the works of the roads.

Marine Disaster.
The Nor. brig Athalia Lord, Capt. Wohl, which sailed from this port March 21st., bound for Hamburg with a cargo of naval stores, experienced very heavy weather on the passage from the effects of which she became disabled and unmanageable, and on the 8th inst., when the passage was about half completed, it was decided that she must be abandoned, as the captain and a number of the crew had become helpless from exhaustion, exposure and injuries received. On that day the steamship Strassburg, Capt. Heincke, was signalled and the men of the brig taken off the vessel having first been set on fire to prevent her being run into by other vessels. The men were brought to Baltimore on board the Strassburg, and Captain Wohl and five of the crew were sent to the hospital for treatment of their injuries and sickness.

The Athalia Lord was owned by Mr. James Sprunt, of this city, and had on board a full cargo of spirits turpentine and rosin, which was insured to the amount of $34,000, divided among different offices. There was no insurance on the vessel. Mr. Sprunt has as yet received no further particulars than were conveyed in the telegraphic dispatch, the substance of which is given above, but is expecting full particulars by to-night's or to-morrow morning's mail.

The celebrated 'Fish Brand' Gills Twine is sold only at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

The Free Delivery.
The arrangements for the free mail delivery in this city are being rapidly perfected and the system will be inaugurated here May 1st. There will be six mail carriers, three white and three colored, and two mail deliveries in the business quarters, and one in the other sections of the city, each day. At about 8 o'clock the messengers will leave the office with the Northern and Southern mails, and again at 10 o'clock with the Western mail, for the business men, and at 10 o'clock the general delivery for the upper portions of the city will be sent out. There may be some little hitches at first in the system but we are satisfied that all due allowances will be made until everything can be gotten into smooth working order.

Unmailables.

The following is a list of the unmailable postal matter remaining in the Postoffice in this city:

Merritt Blov, Jarron co., care Henry Taylor; Messrs H. and H. W. Catherwood, 114 South Front st., Philadelphia, Penn.; Lemuel Williams, care G. H. Ram, No. 6 Line st.; E. E. Clausen, Hettis Mills, Fettel co., N. C.; S. Gonzalos La Rene, 612 Washington st., Boston, Mass.

Prof. Dabney.

Prof. Dabney has recently been on a visit to Wilmington for the purpose of following out a theory of his own relative to the phosphate bed in this section. While here he was induced to visit and examine the beds at Castle Hayne, but no positive opinion as to their commercial value was expressed by him. He is to make a more lengthened visit to this section, in the interest of the State, at an early day and his report of his visits here will be looked for with much interest.

Father Ryan's Lecture.

A large and cultured audience assembled in the Opera House last evening to hear Rev. Father Ryan, the "Poet Priest," who is so dear to every true Southern heart. He was introduced by Col. D. K. McRae in eloquent language, who after the introduction presented him a beautiful floral crown and lyre in behalf of the Poet's young lady admirers in Wilmington. Father Ryan acknowledged the complimentary introduction and the floral offerings in graceful terms and then began to deliver his lecture, the subject of which was Pilate's question to Christ: "What is Truth?" The lecture was delivered in a most impressive manner, and the language was graceful and elegant, yet simple and effective. Although he was not preaching a sermon yet he made a powerful effort in behalf of the true, the beautiful and the good in social, political and religious life. His lecture was strikingly arranged, logically treated and ably delivered, and all through it could be seen the Poet's great devotion to his country and his God for both of which, he said, he would willingly die. Those who heard him were fortunate and will ever remember last night's rich literary treat which closed, with his reading, by request, "The Conquered Banner," a poem that has largely aided in making Father Ryan's name ever dear to the South. One of the brightest jewels of his character, as shown by his lecture, is his great and truly religious charity towards all who follow the Great Teacher, whose life was a type of what is really true, beautiful and good.
