THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1883. NO. 99

PLEASE NOTICE.
We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but
The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor.
Communications must be written on only one side of the paper.
Personalities must be avoided.
And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the editorial columns.

Twelve rabbits have been invited to the Czar's coronation.
The latest alleged discovery is that the O'Donovan Rossa is a British spy.
Macon, Ga., a city not much larger than Wilmington, is to be lighted by electricity.

The prospects of the crops in the Southwest are reported to be very encouraging.
The Longfellow copper mines at Clifton, Arizona, employ over 1,000 Mexicans and Chinamen.

The total eclipse of the sun, booked only for one point in the Pacific Ocean, takes place next Sunday week.

President Eliot and Mr. Oliver Wendell Holmes are to be called as witnesses in the Tewksbury investigation.

The children at the English Zoo have transferred their elephantine affections to Jingo, Jumbo's attractive successor.

The new pier at Nice, nearly completed at a cost of one million dollars, has been destroyed by a recent storm.

The Cincinnati Enquirer wants ex-Senator Thurman to enter as a candidate for nomination as Governor of Ohio.

It has been learned that a number of fraudulent pension examiners are traveling through the country defrauding the ignorant.

A murderer who was hanged by a mob at Jacksonville, Ill., turns out to have been a son of Quantrell, the Missouri guerrilla.

The pistol which a Cincinnati woman said was the one with which her husband threatened to shoot her proved to be a beer faucet.

Ex-President Davis is said to be failing very fast of late. His hair is very white, and he has the appearance of a feeble, wan, bent old man.

The people of Arizona are determined on the expulsion of the Apaches from the Territory. The rangers propose to fight the Indians Indian-fashion.

The expenses of Arabi's defence were $17,500, all of which sum was advanced by Mr. Blunt, and not more than $2,500 of it has been repaid to him.

It is said that the Star Route trials will cost the people nearly a million of dollars. We wouldn't give that much for the entire shebang of whangdoodles engaged in the farce.

Mr. Jennings writes the New York World that disclosures will soon be made which will justify the British authorities in preferring a formal request for the extradition of O'Donovan Rossa.

Mrs. Craycroft, the sister of Sir John Franklin, has died at Dorling at the age of ninety. She spent the greater part of her fortune on the expeditions which were sent to the Arctic regions in search of the famous explorer.

The Khedive of Egypt has voluntarily given up $15,000 a year of his civil list, to be devoted to the payment of smaller indemnity claims. He will still receive $735,000 a year, however, and the members of his family $600,000 a year more.

The New York Sun makes a terrible arraignment of the Republican party when it says that

"In a single year of profound peace the Republican party spent for and through its military establishment $3,500,000 more than it cost the country to carry on the war with Great Britain for the two years 1813 and 1814; and in a year in which the sole naval achievement was the foundering of a rotten ship, the Republican party, under the lead of the robber Robeson, squandered and stole more than it cost during the two years 1813 and 1814 to support a navy that won everlasting glory on the seas."

New developments are continually being made in the Tewksbury investigation but some of the Massachusetts officials seem rather lukewarm in the matter. On Monday Butler sent an order summarily ousting the Board of Trustees of the Almshouse, and instructing the State Board of Health to assume all the powers and duties of the trustees at Tewksbury. He requested the Board of Health to appoint some officer to take charge of the Tewksbury building, and said that the name of Frank B. Sanborn would be acceptable. Thereupon the State Board of Health refused to do as requested and Mr. Sanborn declined, but Butler is not dismayed at these refusals.

Babies are at present decidedly a drug in the English market. A short time ago one was advertised for sale for £1 10s. Again, it came out in evidence, on a school-board summons, that a child had been bought for a shilling; and last week the mother of a two-months-old infant put her baby into a bag of rags which she was about to sell to a rag-dealer, with the view, apparently, of at once getting rid of the child and of making the bag heavier.

The Southern Pacific R. R. now has a line direct from New Orleans to San Francisco. Yesterday's New York Sun says:

Mr. C. P. Huntington, Vice-President of the Central Pacific Railroad, acting as agent of the Southern Development Company, has paid the first installment of $2,700,000 in the purchase of a controlling interest in Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company. The company owns seventeen steamers, running between New York and Gulf ports, owns the Louisiana and Texas Railroad, 249 miles long in Louisiana, and controls the Houston and Texas Central and the Gulf, Western Texas and Pacific roads. The purchase was made in the interest of the Southern Pacific line, and gives it a line from New Orleans to San Francisco. All the stock of the Morgan estate was sold, but individual heirs still hold large blocks of it. The majority of the holders are women. The purchase will not change the management of the line in this city.

The recent storms were terrible affairs. There were five distinct tornadoes in four different States, Iowa, North Carolina, Georgia and Mississippi. The New York Herald of yesterday's date has full reports from every locality, accompanied with a map of the track of the storm. It is probable that the loss of life will foot up nearly one hundred, with many others seriously injured. The Herald publishes the following from Morehead City, in this State:

At half past eleven this morning, the edge of the cyclone struck here, and for about two minutes the wind was terrible. It blew from the southwest, and with it came a rain that was drenching. It blew down a house that was uninhabited on Arendell street, and which fell on a small one story building that was occupied by the family of Oswald Davis, who was away fishing. His wife and two grown daughters, son and granddaughter were caught under the debris. The mother, son and youngest daughter got out without assistance unharmed, but terribly frightened. The mother's appeals for help for her daughter and grandchild were heartrending. The train was just starting, but Captain Page stopped it, and with all his hands started to the rescue, but before he reached the ruins Captain Riley Lewis had succeeded in rescuing both daughter and child. Both buildings were entirely crushed, but the young lady was saved by the plate that held the roof catching on an old table. As it was, she was injured—but not badly. The chimney and piazza of Captain Richardson's house was blown down and a general destruction of fences occurred. The upper porch of W. L. Arendell's house was injured; the end and both front doors were blown open and the family were badly frightened. The small schooner of Watson & Daniels was blown ashore. Two or three fishing canoes were upset on the Sound and all the fish that were caught lost. No lives were lost so far as heard from. From the force of the wind there must have been havoc at sea.

It has been learned that a number of fraudulent pension examiners are traveling through the country defrauding the ignorant.

Death of Capt. Wohl.

We regret to announce the death of Capt. Wohl, of the brig Athalia Lord, which occurred in Baltimore last night. Every possible comfort and skilled attendance for the alleviation of his sufferings was provided, but his injuries were mortal from the first. In conversation with Mr. Heide a few days ago Capt. W. spoke in great admiration of the good qualities of his little ship, which he remarked was the strongest vessel he ever sailed in. He encountered a gale the day after leaving Wilmington which continued for 14 days and finally overwhelmed the vessel, although the hull remained as staunch as ever and no leak appeared.

A Rough Passage.

The steamship Regulator, Captain Doane, from New York, arrived at her wharf in this city this morning, after a passage which was rough enough to suit the taste of any admirer of "A Life on the Ocean Wave." Capt. Doane reports that he was between Cape Henry and Currituck on Monday, when it blew a tempest. He was spoken by the United States naval steamer Tallapoosa, on her return from her Southern trip. The Regulator arrived at the bar at the mouth of the river at 5 o'clock this morning and came right up to the city. She is a splendid sea boat and is in skillful hands, but if ever we make a passage in her we hope it will not be in quite such "breezy" weather.

The N. C. Experiment Station.

We have received the "Annual Report of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station for 1882." It is a document of 150 pages filled with matter pertaining to the workings of the "Station," and articles and suggestions of interest to the agriculturists of the State. It contains much useful information to which we shall refer at some other time more in detail than we are able to do to-day. It is very evident from the careful and exhaustive manner in which the work has been compiled and the subjects treated that there is thorough and careful work being done at the "Station" for the benefit of our farmers, and that the "Experiment" will be of immense utility to our people in the near future.

A Rare Coin.

We were shown to-day a rare and curious silver coin, evidently of small value, of which we can find no history. It is about the size of a five cent piece, is very thin, and bears upon one side a crown and, as we make it out, the legend "Skillings Danshe, 1715." It is much worn by the 168 years of use it has had since it was coined, and we may not have deciphered the letters correctly. We can find no account of any such coin in any work we have at hand, but possibly some of our friends who have been acquainted with the money of foreign countries or who have taken an interest in numismatics may be able to give the country from whence it originated and its original value.

Tender and True.

"Tender and True" is the sentiment which aptly describes "Young Mrs. Winthrop," since the play touches upon the tenderest chords of the heart, and at the same time presents a true picture of many a wealthy home.

"As thro' the land at eve we went,
And plucked the ripened ears,
We fell out, my wife and I—
Oh! we fell out—I know not why,
And kissed again with tears."

"For when we came where lies the child
We lost in other years,
There, above the little grave—
Oh there, above the little grave,
We kissed again with tears."

The above tender bit of sentiment, by Tennyson, has been beautifully epitomized by Bronson Howard in his play of "Young Mrs. Winthrop."

The Band.

We learn that there was a meeting of the Cornet Concert Club held last night at which, however, only a portion of the members were present. They will have another meeting in the early part of next week, (probably on Monday night) to consider the matter of appearing on Memorial Day. It is expected that they will make arrangements to appear, and it is to be hoped that they will, as their absence from the procession on that day would be a real disappointment to hundreds of our citizens. The Club is composed of excellent musical material, and, when in practice, can discourse finely. It would be a misfortune were they not to appear on Memorial Day, and we trust—in fact, we have been assured—that they will make every possible effort to furnish music for the occasion.

Hail Stones.

While there was some hail accompanying the rainfall here last night, there were large quantities fell at the Sound. At the plantation of Maj. C. W. McClumby the hail was nearly equal with the rain in amount and nearly covered the ground for a short time.

Supreme Court.

In this court, yesterday, the following cases from this section were argued: Stafford Grant vs. Matthew Moore, from Duplin. Argued by Allen and Isler for the defendant; no counsel for the plaintiff.
State vs. Jere Lanier, from New Hanover. Argued by Attorney-General Kenan for the State; no counsel for the defendant.

Tribute of Respect.

The flags of the shipping in port were at half mast to-day in respect to the memory of the late Captain Wohl, of the brig Athalia Lord, who died at Baltimore yesterday from wounds received on board that ill-fated vessel, an account of which was published in the Review some days ago.

The River.

Steamboatmen report that there was about a twenty foot rise in the Cape Fear when they left Fayetteville yesterday morning, and that the river was still rising at the rate of about fifteen inches an hour. They also state that there is an unusual amount of drift stuff in the river, floated off and brought down from the up-country by the freshet.

Odd Fellows.

The members of Cape Fear and Orion Lodges, I. O. F., will celebrate the 64th anniversary of the introduction of the order in the United States, at Odd Fellows' Hall, to-morrow night, commencing at 8 o'clock, at which time an address on Odd Fellowship will be delivered by the Rev. F. W. E. Peschau. The exercises will not be public as previously stated, but will be for members of the order and their invited guests.

Magistrate's Court.

Francis Faigon, colored, was brought before Justice Gardner this morning upon a peace warrant sworn out by Mary Woodward, also colored. The testimony showed that the prosecutrix would be more properly chosen defendant, but upon another charge. The case was dismissed at the cost of the prosecutrix.

Helen Moore, colored, was brought before Justice Millis charged with the slander of Mary Moore, also colored. In this case the defendant was found guilty and required to give a bond of $50 for her appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, in default of which she was committed.

Alonzo Durant, colored, was then arraigned before the same magistrate, charged with the wilful abandonment of his family, but the case was withdrawn the prosecutrix paying the costs.

A white man was brought before the Mayor this morning charged with committing a nuisance in the streets. He was found guilty and fined $10 for the offense, which he paid and was discharged.

Rev. Dr. Milburn arrived last night, and is stopping at Mrs. Quince's, on Front street. His lecture to night is upon a subject of wonderful interest and relates to one of the most wonderful men this country has ever produced.

Postal Rulings.

Here are a batch of late postal rulings. They will be found interesting as some of them bear directly on the free delivery system, to be inaugurated here next week:

There is no law or ruling of the Post-Office requiring the street number on circulars to secure their delivery. A carrier is as much bound to use his best endeavours to deliver a circular as other matter. If street address is given it would, of course, insure more prompt delivery.

Letter-carriers are required to give the preference to first-class matter, when they are not able to carry to the post-office all the contents of the boxes upon their routes. Papers found upon the outside of boxes may be taken to the post-office for mailing, if after emptying the box the carriers are able to do so.

Carriers are required to receive letters handed to them on their routes, properly prepaid for mailing, and should receive other small articles, properly prepaid; but they are not required to receive packages cumbersome on account of their size, shape or weight, especially when it would interfere with their regular box collections.

The Post-Office Department cannot admit second-class matter to be enclosed in letter envelopes for transmission through the mails, for the reason that it would cause trouble to postmasters who might hold it for examination as first or third class matter.

The postal law allows persons, in sending circulars, to sign their name and address.

A postmaster is allowed to charge four cents for one stamped envelope, or ten cents for three. He may charge two cents for one newspaper wrapper, or he may sell five for six cents.

It is only money-orders and registered letters which are prohibited from being delivered to persons advertised as frauds.

Second-class mail matter can have no advertising sheets, notices, memoranda, or circulars enclosed therein.

Second-class mail matter must be so covered or wrapped that the ends may be exposed and the contents readily seen. Second-class matter cannot have any marks made, after printing, to call attention to any part of the same, except subscription class.

Upon the wrapper of second-class mail matter there may be printed or written instructions to the postmaster at the office of delivery to notify the publisher of non-delivery, so that he may send postage for the return of the publication, and, in the case of sample copies, instructions to deliver to some other person, in case the person addressed cannot be found, or refuses to take the matter. In addition to the above, no printing is allowed on wrappers of second-class matter, except the name of the office of publication, publisher, or sender, the words "sample copy," index figures of subscription book, and date subscription ends.

Weekly papers of the second-class, published in a place where there is a letter-carrier office, can be mailed for local distribution by carriers, or for points outside the city, at the rate of two cents for each pound.

Weekly papers of the second-class can be distributed in the county where printed, free, provided they are not to be delivered at letter carrier offices or distributed by carriers.

Third class and second-class matter must be put up and delivered at the postoffice in separate packages.
