The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Fred Douglass says he has lost $10,000 in trying to be an editor.

The cigar manufacturers of Key West shipped 2,000,000 cigars in a single week.

Birmingham, Ala., is to have a second street railroad, to be opened in June.

Madison county, Fla., has 200 acres in water-melons; Jefferson county 300; Leon about 50.

The cotton mills at Anniston, Ala., have just shipped 1,000 bales of goods to China and have orders for 600 more.

The Boston Herald is disgusted with the Kentucky dodge on the tariff question and says ugly things of the Democracy.

Congressmen Hewlett, Shelley, Forney and Williams, of Alabama, endorse Randall for Speaker and will vote for him.

Northern people who went home to find Spring weather must be sorry that they left the South. It is bad enough here, however.

A lady in Florida has in her yard an orange tree that at four years of age bore five hundred oranges. It had on it this season from two thousand to three thousand fine fruit.

Noticing the statement that Jim Keene has invested $500,000 in a French flat, the Nashville American says: "This is considerably less than other flats have invested in Mr. Keene."

The Demopolis, Ala., oil mills shipped forty-two car loads of cotton seed meal last week for export to foreign countries. The meal sells readily for about $40 a ton landed in Europe.

The doctors say that a milk and tomato diet is excellent for Bright's disease, which, however, says the Augusta Chronicle, is not prevalent at the South, although a form of diabetes may be developed of an equally fatal character.

Several women are powers behind the throne in journalism. Mr. Pulitzer's success in life is said to be largely due to his wife's talent, sympathy and pluck. The wife of Colonel McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, is the largest stockholder in the paper. The Times-Democrat, of New Orleans, is mainly owned by Mrs. Burke, while Mrs. Nicholson is the controlling spirit of the Picayune.

A correspondent of the Baltimore American gives an interesting account of the rise and fall of a club there. It was called "The Alliston," and professed primarily to be devoted to art. Very soon art degenerated into gastronomy. Music ceased and profanity began. Drunkenness followed, with cheating at cards. The "Alliston," which began in glory, ended in disgrace.

The steamship Canada, at New York last week, brought two of the most interesting pieces of machinery in existence—the two original locomotives built by Stephenson and Watt, which have been loaned by the South Kensington Museum to the National Exposition of Railway Appliances about to be held at Chicago. One of these engines is the Rocket, built by George Stephenson in 1813, the first locomotive that ever ran on a railroad.

The municipal troubles in Raleigh seem to be of threatening proportions. The Democratic aldermen are to appear before Judge Phillips, in Chambers, at Newbern, June 5th. They are counselled by Messrs. Fuller & Snow, Reade and Busbee & Busbee, while Judges Merrimon and Fowie and Col. Walter Clarke are among the counsel for the plaintiffs. It will be a very interesting trial and there is no doubt that the fire will flash when the learned counsel are arrayed in arms against each other before His Honor.

The North and South, a monthly paper published at Buffalo, N. Y., really promises to do much good, in addition to much that it has already done, for the building up of the waste places of the South. It circulates very extensively in the Northern and Western States, as well as abroad, and it contains a great deal of interesting news matter, original and selected, from every State in the South. The subscription price is only 60 cents a year.

The Fourth comes this year on Wednesday.

Sheriff Sutton, of Bladen county, is in the city.

The best strawberries command 10 cts a quart to-day.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 49 bales.

The great Bridge is opened for business and so is the Yates Gallery.

The Czar would be happy if he could have his picture taken at the Yates Gallery.

Steamboatmen report the river as still falling, although lighters have not yet been in requisition.

The wind has got around towards the South again but there is no knowing how long it will stay there.

Clarendon Council, No. 67, A. L. of Honor, meets to-night at 8 o'clock. Members will please be on hand promptly.

The first whortleberries of the season were brought into our market to-day. They looked nice, and 10 cents per quart was the price asked for them.

Mr. George C. Gorham, Editor of the Washington (D. C.) Republican, has accepted an invitation to deliver the address at the National Cemetery in this city on Decoration Day, which falls due on next Wednesday.

The Musicals.

The popular musical talent of this city has been rehearsing during the past month under the direction of Prof. Van Lear and Mrs. M. P. Taylor, for the grand musicale to be given on next Wednesday evening, May 30th. It promises to be one of the finest entertainments of the kind ever given in Wilmington.

City Court.

Robert Watkins, colored, was before the Mayor this morning charged with disorderly conduct. The charge was sustained and he was required in consequence to fork over $5 for the benefit of the city treasury.

John L. Barker, for the same offence, but a little less offensive, was let off by the payment of a fine of $2 50.

Quick Time.

One of the business men of this city who owns and takes pride in a good team, drove from the Sound last night to this city, a distance of eight miles, in 35 minutes. He has made the trip from here to the Sound with the same team in 30 minutes. This is good driving and there are very few teams in the city that can equal it. In our opinion it is too fast to drive any horse.

Insectivorous Plants.

It is announced that Dr. Thomas E. Wood will lecture this evening, in Tileston Hall, on "Insectivorous Plants." This is a subject to which Dr. Wood has paid years of close attention and we do not know of any man in North Carolina who is as capable of handling the subject as he is. It will be a pleasant and instructive address. During the evening there will be music by Prof. Van Lear and Master Ulrich Adrian. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Open Next Monday.

Capt. Perry's two summer houses, Hotel Brunswick, at Smithville, and Seaside Hotel, at Wrightsville Sound, will be thrown open to the public for the summer season on Monday next. Both of these delightful resorts are favorably situated, in full view of the ocean, with all of the advantages of fishing, sailing and bathing and in these respects are not surpassed by any on the Atlantic coast. Capt. Perry can accommodate by the day, week or month. The rooms are all airy and delightful and the cuisine is the best to be had from both land and water.

Messrs. A. & I. SHERRER have received, per express, a large lot of Children's Blouse Suits made up very handsomely in different shades, which they will sell at astonishingly low prices. Call early and procure a suit for the boys.

L. Thornton, Warrenton, N. C. says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters and consider it an excellent remedy for dyspepsia."

A Happy Occasion.

Queen Victoria was 64 years of age yesterday, she having been born on the 24th of May, 1619, and the anniversary of her birthday was celebrated last night by a party of gentlemen who were born under the British flag, at the residence of Mr. W. Roddick, of the firm of Brown & Roddick. The party was an entirely informal affair, but was made very enjoyable by the speeches that were made, toasts that were offered and songs that were sung. Among the toasts was one to Queen Victoria, President Arthur, the Marquis of Lorne, and other notables, foreign and domestic, not forgetting the famous suspension bridge connecting New York and Brooklyn, which was opened to the public yesterday with imposing ceremonies.

Visitors Coming.

The excursion party, which is to arrive here by Carolina Central Railroad on Monday, the 26th inst., is expected to be a large one, and of the best class of citizens from the Central and Western portions of the State. Merchants from Charlotte, Shelby and other points, some of whom have never visited our city, will be of the number and an excellent opportunity will be afforded for our business houses to make new acquaintances and form new and more extended mercantile interests with our friends from the neighborhood of the Blue Ridge. A little attention shown to the visitors would cost but a trifle and would result beneficially to our business interests. We hope that the merchants will take the matter in hand and start some sort of fun that will be pleasant to the strangers and induce them to continue the acquaintance. It would be a good time to have a parade of our excellent fire department.

At Rest.

The obsequies of the late Mr. C. M. VanOrsdell took place this morning under the supervision of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., of which he had long been an esteemed and worthy member. The remains, taken from his late residence on Fourth, between Princess and Chestnut streets, and preceded by the Lodge, with Wilmington Commandery, No. 1, Knights Templars, in full uniform, as an escort, were conveyed to St. James' Church, where the beautiful and impressive funeral service of the Episcopal Church were held, after which the coffin was borne to the hearse in which, preceded by the Masonic fraternity and followed by a long line of carriages, it was conveyed to Oakdale. Here the concluding services of the church were performed, after which the solemn funeral ceremonies of Masonry were held. The service of the church was conducted by Rev. T. M. Ambler, rector of St. Paul's.

Dark clothes take best in a picture; sit now while it is cool at the Yates Gallery.

The Corbett Canal.

A correspondent at Nat Moore, who writes over the signature of "Bladen," sends an account of a recent trip to the above named work of internal improvement, which is intended to drain the rich bottom lands bordering on Colly creek into Black river. At the point where the canal is being excavated Colly creek and Black river run nearly parallel with each other, and are separated by a sand hill whose greatest altitude is about 50 feet. The river is considerably lower than the creek, and the canal, when completed, will thoroughly and effectually drain the bottom lands of the latter, without fear of any future inundation to damage growing crops. This canal is about 50 feet wide and in the deepest place is about 40 feet deep. In making the excavations logs of hickory, oak, chestnut and pine were found in a good state of preservation 35 feet below the surface, and in one place pieces of charred lightning were found which had probably lain there unmolested for centuries. In another place, 38 feet below the surface, the stump of a tree was found, which had been cut (who can tell how long ago?) apparently with an axe.

Mr. William Corbett has the contract for making the canal, and when it is considered that he has worked without funds, with only a few shovels, a hoe, an axe, a plough and a pair of small steers, and has nearly completed the task, he is deserving of much praise. He expects to finish the undertaking during the present year. When finished thousands of acres of as fertile lands as the State can boast of will be reclaimed and made profitable to the agriculturist. The swamp lands in that section, when not ruined by treshets, yield an average of 50 bushels of corn to the acre, and this enterprise, when completed, will prevent the possibility of future inundations.

Col. Burr's Address.

Following is the annual address delivered by Col. Jas. G. Burr, President of the Historical and Scientific Society, at the meeting held last Monday evening, reference to which was made by us in Tuesday's paper:

This being the anniversary of the organization of our Society, a few remarks from me will not, I hope, be regarded as out of place. The Society has kept on the even tenor of its way, its meetings have been regularly held, and many papers of great merit have been read by different members. And right here it would be well for the Society to consider the expediency of having such papers published in a volume, to be offered for sale and for distribution among other societies elsewhere, by which means a large amount of valuable matter might be received in return. The papers would doubtless attract attention, and bring us into favorable notice abroad. The experience of the past season shows very clearly, I think, that greater interest is being felt by our people in lectures than ever before. The system inaugurated by the Library Association of engaging men of prominence and ability to deliver lectures under the auspices of the Association, has not only tended to develop this interest, but has also resulted very favorably in a financial way to that organization. It is suggested that similar action by our Society in the future would be attended with like beneficial results, and I submit the matter for your consideration and for such action as you may deem necessary. One of the most successful, and certainly one of the most intellectual, lectures delivered in this city the past season was by Professor Sheperd, at the invitation of this Society. It is true that the lecture was free, but a large proportion of those who attended would willingly have paid, had any charge been made for admittance. Heretofore our people would not attend lectures, it mattered not how distinguished the speaker might be or how interesting his subject; but I am happy to believe that we are now freed from that reproach. The public taste has become more elevated and refined and seeks pleasure more in intellectual enjoyment than in the tinsel glare and show which panders only to the gratification of the senses. During the past year we have had many valuable donations of books and historical records from various sources which have been placed in the archives of the Society, and it is worthy of note, that as far as my knowledge extends, the Historical and Scientific Society of Wilmington is the only organization of its kind in the State, in successful operation. The North Carolina Historical Society exists in name, a shadow only, not the substance; a meeting of its members is held once a year to keep up its organization, but for all practical or useful purposes it is unknown in the annals of our State. It behooves us, therefore, to strive in every way to extend our influence, to increase our membership, and by all legitimate means to elevate our Society to a high place in the republic of letters. We have the material in abundance; it is lying dormant all around us and needs but the awakening of that old time spirit of local pride to bring it into active exercise. While we recognize the exacting claims upon us of this utilitarian age in which we live, let us not forget the past nor those who made that past a history. If we succeed but in removing a few mosses only that may have obscured or dimmed the transactions of former days, or in bringing to light some unknown or long forgotten event in the history of our section or State, then surely our Society will not have been organized in vain. Should not this be an incentive to every member for increased activity and diligence? We have received during the past year many additions, and valuable ones, to our list of members, but the angel of death has again visited us and laid his icy hand upon one of the most prominent, and one of the originators of our Society, Mr. Wm. F. Wenzel. He was an active, energetic, devoted member, whose interest and whose success lay very near his heart. He was a man also of large information, and of established reputation in that branch of science which he had made the study of his life; a valuable member, who promptly responded at all times to any call that might be made upon him. Upon the record book of our Society another blank page now bears upon its surface the emblems of mourning, and side by side with the one commemorative of Henry Nutt, is inscribed the name of Wm. F. Wenzel. The curtain has fallen upon the last act in the drama of his life, in which each played well his part, and they now rest from their labors.

Death of an Old Citizen.
Mr. Meyer Bear, one of our oldest citizens, died at his residence, on the corner of Chestnut and Sixth streets, at 4:30 o'clock this morning at the advanced age of 78 years. Mr. Bear was born in Bavaria, Germany, whence he emigrated to this country and settled in Wilmington in 1847, and has been in business here ever since, a period of 36 years. It is only about two weeks since that sickness compelled him to remain away from his place of business, to which he was never to return. In life he was a quiet, unobtrusive man of untiring industry and entirely devoted to the business in which he was engaged. In his death another of the few remaining landmarks of the past has been removed.

DIED.

MEYER BEAR. At his residence, corner Sixth and Chestnut streets, after an illness of only two weeks, died this morning at 4:30 o'clock. He was born in Bavaria, Germany, but came to Wilmington, N. C., in 1847, where he has engaged in the mercantile business for thirty-six years. He was 78 years of age when he died, and leaves a wife and three sons, to mourn his death. Throughout his life, as an Israelite, he was ever true to his religion, as husband and father he was always kind and social.

The funeral will take place from his residence Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock. Friends and relatives respectfully invited to attend it. Charlotte Journal-Observer and Baltimore Sun please copy.
