The Daily Review has the largest circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The State of Louisiana has sold 802,236 acres of land in two parishes for $100,205, Northern capitalists bought it.

The annual parade of the Metropolitan Police, in New York, took place on Monday. There were 1,500 blue coats in the procession and as there is scarcely a man on the force who is under six feet it must have been a fine sight.

The Secretary of the Treasury decided that the $100,000 appropriated for the prevention of the spread of epidemic diseases shall be dispensed by the Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital Service.

The shoe manufacturers and shoe operatives of Cincinnati have terminated the lockout which has kept 2,000 men idle for a fortnight. All hands resumed work Monday, and will leave the settlement of the difficulty to arbitration.

The Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio Railway Companies have organized splendid excursions for the tired and overworked newspaper men of Washington and the Monumental City. You can't call these roads "soulless corporations" hereafter.

The Petersburg Index-Appeal thinks that Gen. Durbin Ward will be the Democratic candidate for Governor in Ohio. It is a pity that Judge Thurman, who, by the way, advocates Ward's nomination, will not permit his name to be used. He could be elected beyond any question. There is only a very strong probability that any one else can.

The Colfax. The Revenue Cutter Colfax laid at anchor in the stream opposite the Custom House this morning, decorated with flags and signals from stem to stern yes, further than that, for there was one suspended from her bowsprit end and two at the stern suspended from the taffrail and reaching nearly to the water's edge. At about 9 o'clock a. m. boats were sent ashore which took aboard quite a number of officials and prominent citizens of our city and the Colfax soon after steamed down the river, returning in season to fire the memorial salute. Lutheran Notes.

There will be a marriage ceremony to-night at the residence of Mr. E. T. Suyden, on Mulberry, between McRae and Ninth streets. Mr. Jacob Wahr and Miss S. Koenig will be the contracting parties, and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. F. W. E. Peschau.

On the Sunday following (June 10th) he will preach the Baccalaureate sermon at Roanoke College, Salem, Va.

Rev. Mr. Peschau, we are pleased to hear, has been elected President of the North Carolina Female College at Mt. Pleasant, N. C. This is a well deserved honor, but it is very probable that the many duties devolving upon Mr. Peschau will compel him to decline the position.

Rev. S. T. Hallman, of Concord, N. C., President of the Lutheran Synod of North Carolina, will preach at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church in this city, next Sunday, in the morning and at night. Both services will be in English.

The 25th anniversary of the organization of St. Paul's, celebrated by appropriate services on Sunday last, an account of which was published in the REVIEW, was concluded on Monday night by an entertainment at Temperance Hall, on Third street, opposite City Hall, under the supervision of the "Young People's Association," connected with that church. The following embrace the principal features of the programme: Overture—"Golden Fleece"—by Prof. J. D. Smithdeal, violin, and Mr. J. Greenewald, piano, and was given with fine effect.

Singing—In which all participated. Address of Welcome—by Mr. H. Otten, which was in good taste and well received.

Song—"Welcome Pretty Primrose," by Miss L. Rulfs, which was delicately rendered.

Address of Welcome—by Miss Cattie Fiedemann, which was interesting and appropriate.

Song—"Die Wacht am Rhein"—song in German by Miss Kate Bremer, and was much appreciated by the German portion of the audience.

Duet—"Andante," by Calowidi—two violins, Profs. Hobbs and Smithdeal. It is needless to say that the rendition of this charming composition elicited much applause.

Dialogue—"Lord Dundreary"—by Messrs Carl Polvogt and C. E. Hall and Misses Kate Ganzer and Caroline Baker.

Collection—by Messrs George Heyer, J. Boesch and John Rehder, which resulted in the collection of $25 for the benefit of the Church.

Essay—Thanks to the Visitors in English—by Miss Lizzie Grotgen. It is expected that the entertainment will be repeated at an early date.

Deserving Punishment. This morning a colored boy, near the corner of Second and Ann streets, threw a stone which struck a little colored child in the mouth and knocked out several of her front teeth. We are glad to hear that steps have been taken to secure the arrest of the boy, and we hope and trust that he will be dealt with as severely as the law will allow, not merely as a deserved punishment to himself, but with the hope that it may have a salutary effect upon others who indulge in this dangerous practice.

Dr. Levi S. Yates, of North Carolina, writes of Dr. Worthington's Cholera and Diarrhoea Medicine, "it is an invaluable remedy." Cures stomach and bowel troubles.

The Excursionists Yesterday.

The excursionists from up the Carolina Central Railroad went down the river yesterday on the Passport and enjoyed the day to their hearts' content, Messrs. Gleaves, Maffit and Corbett had made every arrangement for the pleasure and comfort of their guests and were ably assisted by Capt. Harper. Pasquale's band furnished the music and our visitors indulged in the dance on the way down to the sea and on the return to the city. Each place of interest on the river was pointed out to the uninitiated. The historic legend of the "Dram Tree" was told by Mr. Gleaves and the excursionists were so much amused that they all "smiled," while Messrs. Corbett and Maffit were attending to their special department, in which it is said they excelled, though an unprejudiced vote declared that Mr. Corbett should carry off the palm for the very pleasant and successful manner in which he devoted himself to his charge.

The Passport touched at Kendall, Orton and Federal Point. At the first named places the visitors had an opportunity of seeing a large number of hands at work in the rice fields. At Federal Point they caught a glimpse of the lighthouse. Fort Fisher, the rocks world which shut out the ocean, and Mr. Davis, fisheries. The steamer stopped at Smithville long enough to put off passengers and baggage and then steamed gracefully out to sea carrying with her a large number who had never before had a glimpse of old ocean or who had formed the slightest conception of the vast body of water on which the flags of all nations float. Old Neptune was on his good behavior and did not demand homage from any of the excursionists. The sea was "as smooth as glass" but even then Capt. Harper was careful to keep his craft out of the trough and her head to the swell. A landing was made at Caswell where the excursionists spent an hour examining the ruins of the fort, testing the powers of the whispering galleries, and rambling on the beach picking up the delicately tinted shells which abound on the ocean side of Caswell. The excursionists were then taken to Smithville where an elegant dinner awaited them at the Hotel Brunswick. Mr. Perry did all in his power to "treat them well" and succeeded admirably notwithstanding the difficulties which he had to contend with and overcome.

After dinner the excursionists strolled about the village and started on the return trip for the city. Capt. Harper ran his boat close to the dredging machines, slowing her down in order to give the excursionists an opportunity to see them at work. At or about seven o'clock the gallant little steamer landed at her wharf and the excursionists disembarked carrying with them pleasant recollections of their trip, and wishing Capt. Harper and his boat a long and prosperous life and expressing the hope that they would all meet again to enjoy a trip down the river. To-day the excursionists have divided themselves into groups, some remaining in town; others went to the sounds and quite a number to Smithville and the blackfish grounds.

The Excursion Managers.

It is always a source of great gratification to us to chronicle the success of the undertakings of our citizens, and more especially so when we hear their praises sung by strangers. That Messrs. Gleaves, Maffit and Corbett worked hard to make their all day excursion a success and a pleasure to their patrons cannot be gainsaid, nor will their patrons let one dispute the complete crowning of their efforts. The three hundred excursionists, taken individually and collectively, are loud in their praises of the management of the excursion and the great attention paid to every detail which would be conducive to the pleasure and comfort of themselves. One of our visitors from Monroe was so much pleased that he said he "would be whipped if he didn't name his next son Gleaves Maffit Corbett." We congratulate the managers on their success and think they have every cause to feel very proud at the result of their efforts to please. While we are thus adequately reflecting the views of the excursionists, we must not neglect to give Capt. J. Dunbiban Gardner and Engineer Neimeyer that credit which should be accorded to them. Captain Gardner, as Conductor of the train, assisted materially in carrying out the plans of the managers, while Engineer Neimeyer did all in his power to make the day a pleasant one and bring the train through on schedule time despite hot boxes and other little annoyances.
