The Daily Review has the largest circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The Czar rules over a realm containing 4,000,000 square miles. His subjects number about 90,000,000. He is a moderately young man and a handsome man, with a beautiful wife, lovely children and gold and silver and precious stones in quantities, and yet he is not happy.

Miscegenation is not popular in the North and especially so in the neighborhood of New York. The following will evidence what the feeling on the subject is:

An attempt was made last night at Jamaica, L. I., to tar and feather and ride on a rail Horace Smith, a negro, who two weeks ago married Stella Sinclair, a prepossessing young white girl, at Greenport. Stella, who is 16 years old, formerly lived with her parents at Good Ground. She is handsome and well educated. White is over 30 years of age. After their marriage the couple were obliged to leave Greenport, the young men of the village having made it too warm for them to remain. Nothing daunted, they made their way to Brooklyn and took up their abode at Crow Hill, near the Flatbush Asylum. They were driven from their retreat at Crow Hill by the colored residents, who would not tolerate the bride among them. Since then the two have lived in a small hut in the outskirts of Jamaica. Last night a party of fifteen young men, among whom were three negroes, headed by a drum and fife, and armed with a fence rail and a pot of tar and feathers, visited White's abode after midnight, with the intention of assaulting him. When they reached the hut they found it deserted. White and his wife had gained knowledge of what was about to take place and had fled.

The division of the Episcopal diocese of North Carolina, according to the lines drawn at the Convention held in Charlotte last week, is not by any means an entirely satisfactory one to those of the Eastern diocese. It is felt that the Convention did not act as justly as it should have done. If Edgecombe county had been left in the East, where it properly belongs and where it desired to be it would have been better. The new diocese in the East embraces 32 counties, against 62—nearly twice as many—to the West. So is it with the clergy. There are nearly twice as many clergymen and nearly twice as many parishes in the West as in the East. In the latter, however, the contributions have been greater, a fact, which would make a very poor argument in favor of a division on that basis.

The Episcopal fund amounts to $35,000, and it yields $2,500 a year, which is to be equally divided between the two Dioceses. The Episcopal residence will be in Wilmington, in the house in which Bishop Atkinson died, and which was presented to the Diocese of North Carolina by St. James' Church in Bishop Ives' time. The division, to be operative, must be confirmed by a majority of the standing committees of each diocese in the country, and must meet with the support of the Triennial Convention, which is to meet next October. After all this is done it will be necessary to call together a convention for the election of a bishop, and it is therefore probable that the new prelate will be consecrated by the middle or last of November.

The Goldsboro Messenger tells us that at the approaching meeting of the stockholders of the A. & N. C. R. R. there will be submitted several propositions to lease, among the number being one from the W. & W. R. R. The Messenger unfolds also a new scheme. It is a proposed syndicate of business men in various localities to secure control of the road. It tells us that: This syndicate, it is proposed, shall consist of leading citizens and business men of Raleigh, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Kinston, La Grange, Snow Hill and Fayetteville, and the surrounding country, who will lease the road as a means of self-protection against exorbitant freight charges. They propose not only to lease the Atlantic Road but also the road between Goldsboro and Raleigh, or if that cannot be secured, they contemplate an extension of the Smithfield road to Raleigh. Another extension is to be made to Fayetteville, and there to connect with the Yadkin Valley Road. The undertaking appears to be immense but the men who have already hold of the project, were we to give names, would at once be recognized as leading business men who will make every effort to carry the scheme to a successful issue, and they have assurance of capital necessary for the completion of the extension to Fayetteville, and, if need be, to Raleigh.

A delegation waited upon Gov. Jarvis on Saturday last in the interest of this scheme and they returned well pleased with the encouragement they received at the hands of the Governor. We learn that a meeting of all who feel disposed to become interested in this syndicate, is soon to be held in this city. They propose to lease the road for a term of thirty years, paying a fair rental, and will give ample assurances that the property shall be taken care of and the rents promptly paid. They will also give all necessary guarantees that the freight charges shall at no time during the terms of the lease exceed the tariff and classifications in existence over the road about April 1, 1878. They reason that Goldsboro, Raleigh and Fayetteville will afford the line a patronage which will make the lease a paying investment, at the same time securing to these points protection against unjust freight rates.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 3 bales.

Marketmen (and consumers also) still complain of the absence of real good beef.

The party from Washington City who were here yesterday in attendance on the Decoration services left on the return last night.

The scholars of Misses Burr and James' school will have a picnic tomorrow, at Mr. Bradley's place, on Wrightsville Sound.

Our musical friends devote a good deal of time and attention to rehearsals preparatory for the Concert to-morrow night.

A quick light, good chemicals, fine instruments and experience insures success with children at the Yates Gallery.

The street brigade are making needed improvements on North Second street by digging out and paving the gutters between Chesnut and Mulberry streets.

Rev. T. D. Pitts left here last night for Baltimore, where he was called by a death in his brother's family. He will return to the city in a few days to rejoin his family.

The ladies of the Memorial Association met yesterday afternoon in annual session, but adjourned without transacting business to a future meeting to be called by the President.

The party which went to the Blackfish grounds yesterday were fortunate, as the fish were hungry and many were caught. There was the usual amount of seasickness to make the trip agreeable.

From every direction the report comes that the crops are growing finely. Frequent showers and warm weather have worked wonders in the appearance of farm products within the past ten days.

Many of our excursionist friends have taken the back track for home, while a few yet remain to enjoy necessary recreation from the cares of business and to breathe the invigorating breezes from the sea.

Mr. E. T. Burriss, Manager of the Cape Fear Pilot House, (old Scarborough House) on South Water street, has just completed some extensive repairs and alterations which add greatly to the attractiveness of that old and popular resort.

Mr. George G. Hashagen, of this city, who is now in the Signal Service at Washington City, was here yesterday with the party who came down from Washington. He was not expected but his friends and relatives here were none the less glad to see him on that account.

We are glad to hear favorable accounts from the crops in the Long Creek section of Pender county. Corn is said to be splendid and cotton, although backward, is coming forward very nicely. The recent rains have added much to the planting outlook in that section.

Ice Cream and Strawberries.

Remember the Festival at the city Hall to-night. It is gotten up by the ladies connected with the Front Street M. E. church, which is a sufficient guarantee that it will be an excellent affair. Ice cream, strawberries and other refreshments of the best quality, will be on sale at reasonable prices, and no pains will be spared to make a visit agreeable and entertaining. Our Methodist lady friends, somehow, have the knack of making their festivals peculiarly interesting and we are well aware that the present will not be particle behind any of its predecessors.

If you have never had a good picture of yourself try the new photographer at the Yates Gallery.

City Court.
James Laboo, colored, charged with throwing rocks in the street, was arraigned before the Mayor this morning and a fine of $5 was imposed or imprisonment for 20 days. (This is the case which we mentioned yesterday where a colored girl had her teeth knocked out by a stone.)
James Copman, colored, for disorderly conduct, was fined $5.
One other case of disorderly conduct was fined $1; but at the request of the party and on account of his previous good behavior, we suppress the name.

A Valuable Memento.

We were shown this morning a miniature portrait of Mr. George Paddison, father of those three clever gentlemen, the Messrs. Paddison, of Pender county, which was painted in London, England, in 1826. Although painted 57 years ago, the picture is in a perfect state of preservation, and the colors are as bright as if just from the hands of the artist. It was painted when the original was 32 years of age, and represents a fine-looking man dressed in the fashion of those times. The picture has been in the possession of a sister of the late Mr. Paddison, who resides in England, ever since until a few months ago, when she sent it to Capt. R. P. Paddison, of Point Caswell, who is having crayon copies of it made for himself and brothers.

Fatal Accident.

The last train coming South last Tuesday night, when about a mile this side of Dudley, Wayne county, ran over and instantly killed a man who was asleep on the track. He was seen by the engineer and fireman of the train, but not in season to prevent the fatal result. The train stopped as speedily as possible and an examination showed that the victim was Julius Beard, a very respectable farmer, living near Mt. Olive, in the same county, aged about 50 years, who leaves a widow, but no children. He was evidently intoxicated, and in that condition had divested himself of his boots and coat and had deliberately laid down upon the track (probably thinking that all the trains for the night had passed) to sleep off the effects of the liquor he had imbibed.

Smithville Notes.

We regret to hear of the serious illness of Mrs. W. J. Potter, at her residence in Smithville; also the sickness of Capt. Potter. We hope they will soon recover.

Mr. Lewis A. Galloway will keep a supply of postage stamps, envelopes, paper, &c., on hand at the Postoffice in Smithville during the summer.

Mr. Archie M. Guthrie is now running the Davis House and is giving satisfaction to his guests.

Mr. Wm. Weeks has laid in a new stock of goods at his store and is prepared to meet the demand of the summer trade. He has also recently fitted out a water boat and is furnishing vessels with pure spring water.

Mr. Bryant Morse is still in charge of the Ocean House, and is ready for the Summer trade. He has added pool and billiard tables to his saloon.

Mr. J. D. Davis is at his old stand, near the Court House, and has made some improvements. He is prepared for the Summer trade, and extends an invitation to his friends to call on him.

Mr. Orrin Parker's hennery will soon be in operation and will then hatch out "spring chickens" every day in the year.

It is thought that the Smithville paper will be out in a short time.

The garrison is well kept, so far as cleanliness is concerned, but the steps fences and board walks need attention. We hope Uncle Sam will fix it up.

The Custom House is a monument of shame to the Government. It is to be hoped it was inspected by Messrs. Hatton and Gorham yesterday.

Mr. La Motte of the Purcell will be head clerk at the Hotel Brunswick this season and will be assisted by Mr. Jesse Shelly. Mr. John Meyer will mix the drinks.

Mayor Galloway is having the side walks of the village improved as fast as he can with the commodities at hand. Several neat, new cottages are being erected in the village.

We wonder if the boys will have a rowing race this coming month?

Capt. Harper will soon have his bath houses ready for his patrons.

We hear it whispered that Mr. R. M. Wescott contemplates following Horace Greeley's advice.

Read our Smithville advertisements in another column and profit by them.

Criminal Court.

The grand jury was discharged yesterday after our report for the day closed, and the following cases were tried to-day:

Tena Wells, carrying concealed weapon. Not guilty and discharged.

Eliza Bowden, assault and battery. Guilty, Sentence not yet pronounced.

J. C. Lumsden and Isaac P. Rhodes, lottery. Special verdict stating all the facts connected with the transaction, subject to the decision of the Court whether or not these facts constitute a case of lottery under the law.

Aid Society.

Miss Emery, of New York, Secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary Aid Society of the Episcopal Church in the United States, arrived here yesterday morning from Charlotte, and was the guest of Rev. Dr. A. A. Watson, by whose invitation she visited Wilmington. She had been in Charlotte in attendance on the Diocesan Convention held there last week, and last night left Wilmington for Baltimore. Miss Emery delivered an interesting address yesterday afternoon on the work of the Society, and was listened to by an attentive audience.

The Storm.

The rain fall during last night's storm was 76-100 of an inch and the maximum velocity of wind, which was from the northwest, was 20 miles per hour. Early this morning the lines were down between here and Smithville, and communication by wire was cut off for a while, but the mischief was soon repaired and the line is now in working order. The lines north of Fort Macon, however, are down, and no news can be obtained from beyond that point. No other damage has been reported, and the rain undoubtedly did an untold amount of good in many localities where it has been needed.

Coaching Club.

Quite a number of new carriages and phaetons have lately been received in this city and Wilmington can now boast some of the prettiest and noblest vehicles in the State. In this connection we will state that a coaching club is soon to be formed and a meeting for the purpose of organization will be held on or about the 10th proximo. We further learn that a new and fashionable turnout has been ordered and we expect in a few days to see handsome and stylish vehicles, with English pines and tiger attachment, speeding through the streets and over our excellent shell road. Notice of the meeting for the formation of the coaching club will be given in a few days and we will then give the names of the members and a description of their teams.

The former good reputation of the Gallery will in no wise be allowed to suffer. He has recently put up some very fine specimens in the hallway of the Gallery.

For Interment.

The remains of Miss Rebecca Moore, a native of this city, and a resident here until the breaking out of the war, arrived here this morning on the C. C. train and were interred at Oakdale. Miss Moore died at Charlotte yesterday morning. She was the oldest daughter of the late Duncan Moore and was a descendant of one of the oldest and most illustrious families of the Cape Fear section.

The National Cemetery.

The memorial exercises yesterday were unusually interesting, and passed off very pleasantly. Although there was no procession as in former years, the concourse of people at the Cemetery was larger than usual. The address of Mr. Gorham was peculiarly appropriate as might have been expected from a man of his acknowledged ability. Each grave was decorated with a small flag, and as they fluttered in the breeze presented a striking appearance.

Gen'l E. Warren, late Purveyor General, C. S. A., now a physician of high standing in Paris, wrote of Dr. Worthington's Cholera and Diarrhoea Medicine. "It has enjoyed a high reputation, both in and out of the Army."

The celebrated 'Fish Brand Gills' Twine is sold only at JACOB'S Hardware Depot.
