THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1883. NO. 137

PLEASE NOTICE. We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but the name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor. Communications must be written on one side of the paper. Personalities must be avoided. And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the editorial columns.

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The mother of Edwin Booth lives quietly at the Washington Hotel in Philadelphia.

Miss Helen Barry, the actress, is the tallest woman on the American stage. She is six feet one.

President Arthur is a good baritone singer, and very frequently indulges himself in the vocal art.

One thousand doctors have been in consultation at Cleveland, Ohio, this week and much benefit to science is hoped for therefrom.

William Black, the novelist, was the shortest man present at the recent private view of the Royal Academy, and wore a blue shirt collar.

A fine of $100 will restrain the Pennsylvania machine from levying political assessments hereafter. Ten dollars, or ten cents, would have been just as effective.

The Galveston City Council has set aside a quarter block of ground upon which is to be erected a $50,000, public school, the gift of George Ball, the banker.

The North German Gazette denies that Prince Bismarck has consulted judicial authority in relation to the dissolution of the Federal treaty with a view to abolishing the Reichstag.

The Pennsylvania Legislature has been in session so long, and so many votes have been taken, that the clerk now calls the roll from memory. And now they are talking of an extra session!

The Queen's journeys to and from her beloved Balmoral are now accomplished with the utmost privacy. Even the representatives of county families, who generally muster in force at Perth, are rigidly excluded from the railway station.

Mass meetings of Irish societies were held Tuesday evening at Philadelphia, New Orleans, Buffalo, Baltimore, Chicago, Rochester, and other cities. The action of the Philadelphia Convention was ratified, and steps were taken to organize the branches of the new Irish National League.

The capital of the German empire still continues to increase rapidly. On the 1st of May the population passed the figure 1,200,000. As the last census, on Dec. 1, 1880, gave the total number of inhabitants at 1,120,000, it appears that within two years and five months the increase has been 80,000 persons.

An old colored woman named Rebecca Hamilton died on Sunday night, in New York, at the alleged age of 114 years, 5 months and 29 days. Her death was the result of old age and a paralytic stroke. She was born in Connecticut, and came to New York when 26 years old. The last nine years of her life she was blind and helpless. Charity organizations provided for her.

In regard to the Earl of Dalhousie's bill for legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister, the second reading of which is fixed for next Monday, the Bishop of Lincoln intends to take an early opportunity of calling attention in the House of Lords to the fact that all the Bishops of the Episcopal Church in Scotland have pronounced against the proposed change in the law.

It is interesting to read of the wonderful victory achieved by the United States forces in Arizona, as per advices from Assistant Adjutant-General Martin. It was a brilliant victory, two boys and eighteen women and children having been captured—after they had surrendered. It reminds us of the dispatch from Mother Goose: "The King of France, with all his mighty men, Marched up the hill and then marched down agrin."

A London syndicate has been formed to at once utilize the new possession of New Guinea. The syndicate intends to "search for, mine, and cart away" the mineral wealth of the country. It will also foster the trade and colonization of the island. The syndicate hopes also to become eventually the parent of numerous other companies, such as carrying, constructive, agency, land, and fishing companies. To open up the "vast resources," and as a guarantee of good faith, the originators contemplate sending out a mining engineer "to commence a preliminary prospect."

Board of Aldermen.

A called meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held yesterday afternoon, present, His Honor Mayor E. D. Hall, and Aldermen DeRosset, Boney, Fishblate, Bear, Dudley, Howe and Sweet.

Alderman Bear stated the object of the meeting to be the consideration of the question of the repealing of the ordinance passed at the last meeting of the Board in reference to selling spirituous liquors on Sundays, members of the Board having since been advised by the City Attorney that such ordinance was unconstitutional.

The following enactment was thereupon offered by Alderman Bear and adopted:
WHEREAS, At the last meeting of this Board, held June 4th, 1883, there was passed by the Board an ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday, attaching heavy penalties for the violation of its provisions; and, whereas, it has been brought to the attention of the Board that the Supreme Court of the State, on May 25th, 1883, decided that the power to pass such an ordinance punishing the selling of liquor on Sunday is insubordination to the State law, and that therefore the said city ordinance must give way to the general statute,
Now, be it enacted, That the said ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed.

Alderman Fishblate moved the repeal of the resolution passed at the last meeting, requiring the Clerk and Treasurer to report the names of delinquent taxpayers. Motion adopted.

Alderman Howe stated that there was a great deal of stir in the community on the question of the hog ordinance, as passed at the last meeting of the Board, which prohibits the keeping of hogs within the limits of the city. He had been approached by a great many who said the ordinance would work a great hardship to them, especially if enforced at this particular time, and he would be glad if the Board would take some action in the matter.

Alderman DeRosset said he thought the ordinance as passed at the last meeting entirely too sweeping. It was only intended as a sanitary measure. He offered the following resolution, which was adopted:
Resolved, That the ordinance on Hogs be referred to the Sanitary Committee, to report to the next meeting the advisability of contracting the limits within the bounds of the city; and that pending action upon such report at a regular meeting in July, the Mayor be instructed not to enforce the ordinance except in the limits defined by Section 17 of Article 4 of the Ordinances.

The application of Dr. W. H. Barker, for the free use of the City Hall in which to give free lectures on phrenology, was not granted.

Alderman Bear offered the following resolution, which was adopted:
Resolved, That the Board of Audit and Finance be requested to make such provisions as will enable the Mayor to put two special men (mounted) on duty, whose province it shall be to remove all cows, hogs and goats from the streets.

The Board then adjourned.

The Blackfish Excursion.

The blackfish excursion of yesterday was quite a successful one, both as to the catch of fish and the victory won by old Neptune. It is estimated that from twelve to fifteen hundred fish were caught. Nearly all of the party were sick and were unable to fish, and the number of the finny tribe which were caught were hooked by comparatively a few old salts who never bend their heads to Neptune. Fish were so thick on the grounds that it was not at all an unrequited thing to hook them in the body. The sea was quite rough and the seasickness was accordingly abundant. One of the excursionists wanted to be thrown overboard; another piteously asked Capt. Harper to take him back, assigning as his reason that, "I have got my dollar's worth." As we stepped aboard the steamer at Smithville, after the return from the rocks, we asked a festive policeman who was taking a day's recreation, if he had been sick? His reply was, as he rolled his eyes heavenward, and leaned over the railing: "My Lord, just look at me." In spite of the sickness of the crowd, all seemed to enjoy themselves, and expressed a willingness to go again. Capt. Harper has our thanks for kind remembrances.

The Last Rites.

The remains of the late venerable Mrs. Langdon were interred this morning from St. James' Church, the last resting place being in Oakdale. The pallbearers were Dr. John D. Bellamy, Mr. Alfred Martin, Hon. O. P. Meares, Dr. A. J. DeRosset, Col. E. D. Hall, Mr. A. H. VanBokkelen, and Mr. James Anderson.

City Court.

George Washington—not he of hatchet and cherry tree memory, who is the putative daddy of this star-spangled gridiron-striped country and whose body servants are supposed to be nearly all dead—but a colored individual, was before the Mayor this morning charged with larceny. The testimony pointed strongly to his probable guilt; and he was required to give a justified bond in the sum of $300 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court and was turned over to the custody of the Sheriff, whose duty it is to see that the bond is given.

The charge of larceny upon which the above named George Washington was tried was based upon facts which pointed to him as the thief who broke into Capt. W. P. Oldham's mill on Wednesday night, and his capture was effected under the following circumstances: An employe at the mill went into the office this morning and stated that he had just seen George Washington, and that the latter had on a frock which looked precisely like the miller's, which was supposed to have been burned. Capt. Oldham at once sent for George to come up to the office as there was a job of work for him to do. As work was what the latter was seeking, and as he had formerly on several occasions worked for Capt. Oldham he readily heeded the request, but not without buttoning his coat closely about the frock or shirt. When he entered the office Capt. Oldham closed the door and asked George to unbutton his coat as he wanted to see what kind of a shirt he had on. George hesitated, but when he saw that Capt. Oldham was in earnest and meant business, he did as requested, when the miller, who was present, at once recognized the shirt as his property and the one which he had supposed was burnt at the time of the robbery and fire. In answer to the question as to where he got the shirt, George said that he bought it of a colored man and paid fifteen cents for it. He did not know the man, but could identify him if he should see him. This was a very plausible, but not a very probable, story; and Capt. Oldham became sure he had the real culprit when he took one of George's shoes and found it exactly fitted the track made by the thief in effecting an entrance. He therefore went immediately for a policeman, leaving George with some men who would not be apt to let him get away, and had him arrested, with the result as stated in the first paragraph of this article. The accused is a full black, and is 17 or 18 years of age.

Historical Papers.

The June number of the Southern Historical Society Papers has arrived. The following interesting papers constitute its contents:
"Life and Character of ex-Gov. B. G. Humphreys, of Mississippi," by Rev. D. A. Plank; "The Washington Artillery," addresses by Gen. W. M. Owen and Col. B. F. Eschelman; "A Reminiscence of the Christmas of 1861," by W. F. Shippey; "Laying the Corner Stone and Monument Tomb of the Army of Tennessee Association, New Orleans;" "Address on the Life and Character of General Albert Sydney Johnson," by Hon. C. E. Hooker, of Mississippi; Address by President Davis; "The Shenandoah Valley in 1864," Review of Geo. E. Pond's book by Col. William Allen; "Marse Robert is Asleep," a poem by Miss S. B. Valentine. To these are added "Notes and Queries" and "Editorial Paragraphs," which assist in giving value and interest to the publication.

Runaway.

There was a ripple of excitement at the corner of Dock and Front streets this morning, occasioned by a goat running away with a cart, filled with pea nuts, to which he was attached. It was a lively run and the "goobers" were scattered in all directions. The final catastrophe was when the cart struck the hydrant on Front street, near the corner, when wheels and goat parted company, the former rolling into the gutter and the latter, contented with his mischief, allowing himself to be caught.

Exports Foreign.

Western Schedule.

The reports as to another change of schedule on the Carolina Central R. R., which has been current on the streets for a day or two past, are without foundation, so far as the Eastern Division is concerned. But a change on the Western Division is to go into effect to-morrow, when the Shelby bound train will leave Charlotte at 5:30 p. m. and arrive at 10:30 a. m.

Superior Court.

The following were the proceedings before this tribunal to-day up to the time of closing our report:
W. A. Ransom and others vs. C. A. Price, Executor. Juror withdrawn, mistrial, new trial ordered.

Jane McKenzie vs. Adrian & Volkers. Plaintiff called and failed. Dismissed at plaintiff's cost and remanded to Probate Court for further proceedings.

The Railroad Case.

The News and Observer furnishes us with the following report of the second and concluding day of the hearing before Judges Bond and Seymour, at Raleigh, of the case of Mrs. Matthews vs. the Carolina Central R. R.:

In this court yesterday the argument in the cases of Matthews vs. the Carolina Central R. R. Company was resumed. Col. Duncan K. McRae concluded his speech for the plaintiffs. Col. Edward Patterson, of New York, opened for the defendants. He contended that he considered the insults heaped upon his clients. After a rebuke to his adversary, Col. McRae, for the vehemence of his denunciation, he proceeded to argue, taking the ground that the trustees when they sold their bonds and in resigning and appointing successors they only carried out the terms of their trust. He argued that plan "C" had not been finally adopted, and in support of this read a cablegram from Mr. Matthews to show that he knew the stock had been carried to the second mortgage bonds and that after this he dealt in the securities, put them on the market, received some of the bonds and received interest on them.

Mr. E. Randolph Robinson spoke next for the defense; argued that the subordination of the Carolina Central railroad to the Seaboard system had not injured the former, and that the new combination was not wrecking the Central; that its freight traffic had not suffered. He said the court had in a former opinion already settled the questions argued so fully by the plaintiff's counsel, and he declined to enter into them; that his reply was the opinion of the court.

The papers were then handed up, the judges reserving their opinion. The case now goes to the Supreme Court of the United States.
