A Nice Table.

We have been told by one who was present and knows all about the matter that the dinner served to the excursionists yesterday, was one of the finest and best ever gotten up on such an occasion. He started to give us the menu, but it was so extensive and elaborate that, if it means anything, it is that the that we could not publish it. As we have said on more than one occasion, the ladies of the Front Street Church know just how to make an excursion or entertainment delightful, and in this instance it seems that they eclipsed all former efforts.

For the Review The Two Additional Justices of the Peace. MR. EDITOR: The separate and distinct act of the last legislature creating two additional State creates confusion and trouble all over North Carolina. This is owing in some degree to the fact that the act claimed to be silent as to when these new appointees shall enter upon office, zation has also crept in because judges former statutes bearing upon the appointment of Justices of the Peace, and the time when they shall enter upon official duty, differ, in their expressed legal opinion, as to when these new appointees should commence official duties. The subject is of more interest and practicae importance because, in some counties, these new magistrates have qualified, are trying cases and are, magistrates and voting and transacting important county business with the old Board, although in some other counties they are excluded formally from such official participation, in the face of the fact that they have, in due form and regularity, taken the oath of office -Such is the strange condition of official affairs in our State. It is caused in part by the imperfect and indefinate action of our last Legislature. It does seem that in modern days, when so many men are getting into the Legislature, State and National for purposes alone of office and money for themso obscure and imperiect that what is known rule of law of definition or rules stampeded up Market street scatterring In this dilemma the Attorney Gen-eral has been applied to for his legal under the act, to qualify and enter upon office. He replies that the act is silent on this point, but that it would be more "orderly" for them to qualify in Auappointed by the last Legislature, are, according to law, to qualify. "One Bible-keeping day for all" is his ad-Judgman Hunter, colored, was lished from him that the law requires before swearing in and acting officially. Some think that he decides the law to mean that they are to wait until August. Not so. He merely advises, recommends, thinks it most convenient, for all the newly appointed Magistrates of the State to go into office together in August, while other of our best judges and ablest lawyers, contend that the law appointing these two new ones for every township, means and intends that they are to qualify as soon as they appear, upon a certified list of their appointment from the Secretary of State before the Probate Judge and in different shades, which they will sell swear in. They are to enter up- at astonishingly low prices. Call early on office when thus qualified say a number of the legal fraternity who are regarded as the highest authority in our State. They sustain their position by evidence and reasoning, as follows: That the act goes into effect from and after its ratification in February last; act is operative when ratified, and that the Justices appointed under it are qualified by duly swearing in by the Clerk. In answer to the opinion that the act of 1876-'7, appointing the old magistrates, and fixing the time when they should qualify, demands that these new ones shoul wait until that same time in August next, it is argued that this new act is, in every respect, entirely independent of the old one, and that it nowhere designates the month of August as the beginning of the term of these two additional Justices. Why does not the Attorney-General name, tember or January next as the month in which the additional two shall begin their official terms? It would be as "orderly" then as in August. The act of 76-'7 has no connection whatever with the act under consideration. The latter is wholly separate and a new lawits ratification. As to the intention of the Legislature, there is just as good ground for saying that the purpose was

About 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon an attempt was made to drive a number of cattle on to the ferry boat on the opposite side of the river, in order to bring them across, but they were wild and intractable and two of them succeeded in getting away and fled to the swamps. After a good deal of trouble the remaining six were driven down to the boat, but not liking the looks of the Ice Cream Freezers and craft and seeing no way of escape, they all plunged into the river and swam across, making a straight line for Marmeant, is almost impossible by any ket dock, where they soon landed and everything before them. An aftempt was at once made to effect their capture, but they were so wild and viciously inclined that it was for sometime unsuccessful.
