THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1883. NO. 152

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation, of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Louise Michel has been convicted in Paris on the charge of sedition and pillage and sentenced to imprisonment for six years.

The receiver of the broken lard firm of McGeoch, Everingham & Co., of Chicago, says that the liabilities of the firm exceed $5,000,000.

Baron Rothschild's carriage at Vienna is lighted by electric light. The apparatus is beneath the coachman's seat, and the light, which will burn 100 hours, within ordinary carriage lamps.

The church which Eugenie intends building at Flamborough, England, in memory of her son, will cost $350,000. The coffins of Napoleon III and the Prince Imperial will be placed in this church.

Up to 1876 the standard capacity of freight cars was 20,000 pounds. In 1877 a few were built to carry 30,000, and since 1879 the standard cars, both of the East and West, have been built to carry 40,000 pounds.

Senator Voorhees declares that there is not a word of truth in the story set afloat by telegraphic dispatches that ex-Senators Hendricks and McDonald, of Indiana, are not on speaking terms. He says there is no personal ill-feeling between the two ex-Senators.

During the last few years the opium-eating habit has made rapid progress in the civilized world. The Dansk Nationalitende says that there are only here and there in Denmark families where the use of the drug is not habitual with one or more of its adult members.

John Shrine, of Wisconsin, started a new religion at 7 o'clock the other morning, and before sundown he had 126 believers. This fact impels a Western editor to assert that you can make most any thing move along in this country by putting a glass of lager behind it.

The Boston Post insists that President Arthur should be called plain "Arthur," for the same reason that we speak of George Washington as Washington. But there are millions of Arthurs, you know, in this world, and there has been so far for we are George Washington.

Some of our esteemed Republican contemporaries are objecting to Judge Hoadley, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Ohio, as a political renegade. We are sorry that they are not pleased, but their objections are too late. They should have made them known before the Convention.

W. C. Elam, the Editor of the Richmond Whig, who went out a few days since to fight Biene, of the State, is a North Carolinian by birth and breeding and was a member of Company C, Third N. C. Infantry, first as private and afterwards as corporal. These facts account for much of the rare pluck the fellow has shown but not for his political prostitution, which seems to have fallen upon him after he left this State.

The Empress of Russia wore a dress at the Moscow ball of straw-colored satin and crape, with wheat ears embroidered in silver. Her dress for the ball of the nobility, though of white satin and silver, opened over a petticoat of crape strewn with roses and narcissi. On entering Moscow she wore straw-colored crape.

For the first time since November Wilmington, Del., is officially reported absolutely clear of small-pox. During its prevalence there, there were 220 cases reported, of which 77 proved fatal. Nearly all the fatal cases were among patients who had never been vaccinated or had not been vaccinated since childhood.

And still there is no news from the bellicose Virginian editors who went out to fight a duel. A passenger who arrived here last night, having left Richmond yesterday afternoon, tells us that opinion is divided as to whether there will be any fight at all now. It is known that Mahone was in Richmond all day Sunday and that he kept pretty close, and it is supposed that Elam was closeted with him that day. If such be the case it is thought probable that the Boss told Mr. Elam most emphatically that he must not fight, that his life was too valuable to his party to be risked idly and, as all of the Readjusters belong to Mahone, it is probable that Elam will obey him. There is an undercurrent of opinion, to it, would seem, that is not at all unfavorable to Elam who, it is said, has been egged on by Biene for some time past and upon whom it is plainly evident in this instance that the quarrel was forced by the State people. But Richmond is full of rumors and conjectures and nobody seems to know for certain where the parties are or whether there will be any fight after all. But there is evidently one general sentiment on the subject and that is, that if there is no duel now there will certainly be one not long hence.

No News and Observer received here to-day.

The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up only 3 bales.

Mr. E. G. Barker, of this city, has been reappointed a notary public by Gov. Jarvis.

The local rains indicated by the weather bureau for to-day came in the shape of copious and refreshing showers this afternoon.

The street lamp in front of the City Hall was moved this morning from near the edge of the gutter to near the edge of the sidewalk; a distance of about 3 feet.

That was a heavy rain which fell here this afternoon, although it was but of short duration. There has been of late entirely too much rain for the crops.

The walls of the new warehouse at the W. & W. Railroad are being laid and there is a large force of hands at work crowding the structure rapidly towards completion.

There was a good company of excursionists on the Passport this morning, but not so many as to crowd the boat and make the trip one of discomfort and inconvenience.

Maj. James Reilly, of Brunswick county, who was in the city to-day, says that the crops in his section are looking well, but that the farmers are beginning to fear too much rain.

Steamboatmen report that there has been a rise of about two feet in the Cape Fear within the last few days, and that they now experience no difficulty in crossing the shoals without the aid of lighters.

The supply of beef in the market this morning was of ordinary quality, but it was made up for by some of the finest mutton we have seen in many a day. The supply of vegetables was not quite so good as usual.

Mr. John L. Macumber, whose return here we spoke of yesterday, graduated at the 19th inst. at the Long Island College of Medicine, in Brooklyn. Dr. Macumber will locate temporarily here for the practice of his profession.

The Laurinburg Enterprise reported Mr. R. L. Harris, formerly of this city, as being very sick but his brother, Capt. C. M. Harris, received a telegram to-day saying that he is much better and able to walk about the house.

There has been quite an exodus from the city within the past week of families moving to the Sound, Smithville and other points to pass the hot months. The Can't-get-away Club, however, is yet large enough for all practical purposes.

Thanks to Messrs. R. W. Moore, J. T. Bland and J. R. Moore, the committee on Invitation from King Solomon's Lodge No 138, for an invitation to attend the laying of the corner stone of the New Court House at Burgaw on Wednesday next, the Fourth.

Messrs. H. H. Munson and E. S. Martin returned to the city last night from Wilson, where they had been for the purpose of attending the celebration by the Lodge in that town of St. John the Baptist's Day. Mr. Martin delivered the address on the occasion.

The rain of yesterday continued until about 9 o'clock last evening, when it ceased, and in less than half an hour the stars overhead were shining brightly. This did not last, however, but a short time after the clouds came up thick and continued until nearly 9 o'clock this morning.

Street Improvements.

The street brigade have been for some time busily employed in sawdusting the streets in the outer portions of the city, until now nearly all of the principal thoroughfares have been improved by this method. Of course, sawdust is not as good and durable as ballast, but in the absence of the latter it makes a very good substitute, and makes a very nice roadway, although it soon wears out.

City Court.

The first case before the Mayor this morning was that of J. H. Durham, a colored lad apparently not more than seven years old, who was charged with sleeping under people's houses. It seems that the little fellow is a waif with no home nor kindred, and it was decided to retain him in the guard house until some one comes forward who will be willing to take his indentures.

J. Thompson, also colored, for disorderly conduct, was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 or be imprisoned in the city prison 20 days. He paid the fine.

Returned.

Capt. B. G. Bates arrived here on Monday night, after an absence from the city of about three weeks, during which time he has visited Chicago and Springfield, Ill., besides other prominent cities of the West and Northwest. He returns in excellent health and expresses himself as much delighted with what he saw, heard and experienced during the trip. He left Springfield, Ill., on Saturday night last and arrived here in little more than 48 hours after, during 4 hours of which time he was detained at Washington, D. C. The distance is about 1,300 miles.

The Rector of St. John's.

Rev. James Carmichael, D. D., the newly called rector of St. John's Church in this city, reached here last night and is now stopping at the residence of Mr. John Alexander, where he would be happy to see his friends and the members of the church. Dr. Carmichael is 46 years of age, is married and has one son nearly 17 years old, who is now at school. He came here from Fredericksburg, Va., at which place his family for the present remain. His last charge was in the diocese of Easton, Md. During the yellow fever season of 1873 he was rector of Grace Church, Memphis, Tenn., and remained at his post through the entire reign of that terrible epidemic, which almost decimated that fated city. He was taken sick with the disease, but fortunately recovered. He will probably officiate at the services which will be held at St. John's next Sunday.

The Dog Question.

It seems to us that the haste with which the city authorities dispatch all of the unfortunate canines who are netted on the streets, taken without badges, is rather unseemly. They are all killed within one hour of the time in which they are captured, and in this way there is but little chance left for the owner of any one of the luckless animals to redeem his property. A dog may have been listed and badged, and the badge may have been lost or stolen, and the dog may be captured and killed without the fact having been discovered. In such a case the question would arise, "What are you going to do about it?"

There is another point and it has a legal aspect. Dogs are property, acknowledged as such by the laws which make them taxable subjects, and by what right do the city authorities destroy that property by a mere act of arbitrary confiscation? They have a right to tax property and a right to attach and sell property to pay for unpaid taxes but have they a right to destroy property, at all events without a regular and due process of law, and without affording an opportunity for the redemption of that property? They attach and sell a house for the non-payment of the tax thereon and if they in that way become the owners thereof they may pull that house down or dispose of it in some other way, but they cannot destroy that house without due process of law and as long as the title remains in another name. If a house is considered dilapidated or unsafe they may condemn it and have it razed and so too may they order the destruction of a dog which is considered unsafe and dangerous to the public welfare. But, as we put it, have they the right to seize upon and order the destruction of a citizen's dog any more than a citizen's house?

Dull Times.

There was much of a dullness prevailing all along the line on the wharves to-day. Every one seemed to be doing his level best to take things in the easiest manner possible. The nearest approach to excitement we witnessed was a discussion as to what constituted a solvent credit so positively as would warrant one in taking an oath that it was such.
