There was nothing doing at the City Court this morning.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up only 7 bales.

There were abundant rains along the line of the Cape Fear river yesterday.

Nor. barque Saga, Larsen, from this port, arrived at Granton on the 26th inst.

The steam tug Alpha, is on the dry dock where men are engaged in repairing her bottom.

The rain which visited us yesterday extended in a northerly direction as far as Magnolia and Warsaw.

Steamboatmen report that there is now about 4 1/2 feet of water on the shoals in the Cape Fear, enough to make good boating water.

Rev. Fred W. Eason, recently pastor of the Baptist Church at Newberne, N. C., arrived in the city this morning and registered at the Parcell House.

We are informed that the Order of Rechabites in this city, of which there are two Lodges, have received quite a number of additional members within the past two or three weeks.

There was not a drop of rain at Smithville yesterday although it rained almost a deluge here. The sun was not even obscured by clouds, so the excursionists had a delightful day.

It is said that the Arion Musical Society of this city contemplate giving an entertainment at Goldsboro about the first of August. The Messenger predicts that they will receive a rousing welcome.

A white woman, who was standing on the South side of Market dock last evening, accidentally fell overboard, but was fished out by a colored man. With the exception of a good wetting the woman was not injured.

The telegraph operators of the Carolina Central Railroad, together with their families, are excurting to Wilmington this week. They go in squads of eight or ten and the excursion will continue until all have been here and returned.

The statement that fish have ceased to be plentiful at the "Rocks" seems not to be generally credited, if we may judge from the number who go down daily arrived with fishing tackle, lunch baskets, and other necessities for a fishing excursion.

We don't believe there is an idle carpenter or mason in the city; and should there happen to be one, we believe it is from his own fault. Building and improvements and repairs of houses already constructed is going on in all sections of the city.

We understand that Gen. R. E. Colston, formerly of this city, was married last night, in Washington City, to a lady resident there, a widow, whose name we did not learn. Gen. Colston has for some time past been resident in Washington, where he holds a position in one of the departments.

Mr. J. T. Collins, of Burgaw, was in the city today and favored us with a call. He tells us that the Fourth of July celebration in that town, on which occasion the corner-stone of the new Court House is to be laid, promises to be one of the most successful affairs known in the history of the county.

Inspection.

The parade and inspection of the Wilmington Light Infantry took place at about 7 o'clock yesterday evening, Col. F. H. Cameron, Inspector General North Carolina State Guard, being the inspecting officer. The Company turned out with 36 muskets, and Col. Cameron informs us that their appearance, drill and discipline was entirely satisfactory. He leaves here to-morrow morning.

Messrs. A. & I. SHULER have received, per express, a large lot of Children's Blouse Suits made up very handsomely in different shades, which they will sell at astonishingly low prices. Call early and procure a suit for the boys.

The First Bloom.

Mr. John C. Currie, Jr., of Pike, Cumberland county, sends us the first cotton bloom we have seen this season and the first that has reached Wilmington this year. It was picked last Sunday. Mr. Currie writes that the season is good and that the crops are booming.

Smithville Military.

We learn that the Smithville Light Infantry have secured their new uniforms, and that the company has regular drills and is making commendable proficiency in marching. The arms for the company have not yet been received, in consequence of which there has been no drill in the manual.

Orion Lodge.

At a regular meeting of Orion Lodge, No. 67, I. O. O. F., held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:
N. G.—S. A. Craig.
V. G.—R. H. Orrell.
R. S.—John H. Pugh.
P. S.—W. C. Farrow.
Treasurer—W. S. Warrock.

These, together with the appointive officers, will be installed on the evening of July 11th. The next meeting being on the Fourth of July, the installation ceremonies are deferred until the next succeeding meeting night.

Call Accepted.

Says the Charlotte Journal-Observer: Rev. G. D. Bernheim, D. D., who returned yesterday from Phillipsburg, N. J., expresses himself delighted with the North and its enterprising people. He will remove, with a portion of his family, to the above mentioned city in about two weeks, and will locate there permanently. He was unanimously elected pastor of Grace church at Phillipsburg, which position he has accepted. Phillipsburg is situated opposite Easton, Pa., and at the junction of the Lehigh with the Delaware river, and is in the center of a most beautiful valley, abounding in scenery rivaling that of the famous Valley of Virginia.

Point Caswell Academy.

The closing exercises of this institution were held at the Academy on Tuesday last. The day was very rainy and unfavorable, yet there was a large attendance of visitors—friends of the school and relatives of the pupils—to witness the proceedings. Mr. A. R. Black is principal of the academy, and the closing exercises demonstrated that he had been a faithful and efficient teacher of studious and mentally active pupils. Dr. S. S. Satchwell deliver an appropriate address which was listened to with much interest and instruction by pupils and visitors. A magnificent dinner was served to which ample justice was done. At night there was an exhibition, consisting of charades, talking, dialogues and vocal and instrumental music, after which the young people indulged in dancing until the clock indicated that another day had arrived.

Mr. Orr's negatives are well cared for. Duplicate pictures finished at low rates. Lardner, Photo., Yates Gallery. Iwtl.

Chadbourne.

Some few months ago we had occasion to publish a pretty full account of the little town of Chadbourne, on the W. C. & A. R. R., in Columbus county, which had been founded and established by the gentlemen of that name in this city. Since then the place has continued to flourish and improve and the railroad into the pine lands has been extended. We clip the following in reference to the place from the Whiteville Enterprise:

One of the evidences of growth in our county is the town of Chadbourne.—Where it stands but little more than a year ago there was not a sign of a dwelling. It was incorporated by the last Legislature and is now a very thriving little village. Here is situated the large lumber mill of the Chadbourne Mill Company. It is the point at which the Chadbourne & Conaway R. R. connects with the W. C. & A. R. R.—The freight from Chadbourne over the W. C. & A. R. R. for the month ending 30th inst. will, it is conjectured, reach the amount of $1,300. The Messrs Chadbourne have a store at this point, also Messrs. Powell & Brown, who are doing a fine mercantile business and also do a good naval store business. The C. & C. R. E. has been completed for about 8 miles. This brings it very near the road from Sidney to Fair Bluff. When this road is reached a depot and post office will be established there and a daily mail route also.

A railroad through that section of the country is just what is needed to develop and bring out that, the finest portion of Columbus, and the right men to do it, (the Messrs. Chadbourne,) have undertaken the business of such a road. Their lumber mill, run by an 80 horse power engine, is a model of convenience.

Some Serious Charges.

The New York Herald of Sunday last contains a communication from Capt. Fred Sheerer, master of the schooner Earl H. Potter, which put into the Cape Fear last May in distress, which is calculated to injure this port. We publish the article without volunteering any comments upon it as we are satisfied that it will be replied to by those whose duty it is to meet and repel the accusations. The communication is as follows:

PHILADELPHIA, June 31, 1883.

To the Editor of the Herald:—Understanding that the columns of your valuable paper are open for complaints to all, especially to seafaring men, I beg you will kindly oblige me by publishing the following as my complaint and protest against such treatment as is given below, and as my opinion, as well as that of many others, that the whole system of quarantine should be under the control and management of the national government:—

I left Demerara on April 3 last, with a cargo of sugar, bound for Philadelphia. On the passage I encountered a gale which dismasted my vessel, carried away her sails and so disabled the ship that I bore away for Wilmington, N. C. While off the coast I was taken in with a tug and towed to Smithville on the afternoon of May 4, where I was ordered into quarantine, which went into operation on May 1. The sanitary condition of my vessel was good, I had a clean bill of health and no contagious disease on board, as can be proved by the letter from Dr. W. G. Curtis, surgeon in charge at Smithville, to the authorities in Wilmington, N. C., and it was readily admitted that if I had got in four days earlier my vessel would have been allowed to go up to Wilmington, N. C., thirty miles distant, where she could have been repaired. Sugar in bags and hogheads is considered by the Quarantine Board as one of the most infectious articles of commerce, which I doubt; but because of her cargo, my vessel was positively forbidden to go up to the city of Wilmington. As it was impossible to transact business at such remote distance, my agents, Messrs. George Harris & Co., spoke in my personal behalf, and sent me the following telegram: "You are permitted to come up without baggage to confer with us and the underwriter's agent." As it was impossible to proceed on my voyage without new spars, sails and other repairs, efforts were made to reship the cargo by other vessels, I being told that without the cargo my vessel could be brought to the city for such repairs. As no craft could be obtained to take forward the cargo, and it being deemed impracticable to discharge it in lighters, the tug Cyclops was sent here from New York at a heavy expense to tow the vessel and cargo to Philadelphia, her port of destination.

While these negotiations were pending, and causing much delay, fearing my vessel would be damaged by worms, I asked permission to have her come up into fresh water, at a point remote from the city and opposite the pest house, where vessels are anchored with smallpox or contagious disease on board, assuring the authorities that my crew should not communicate with the shore.

This privilege was allowed me at Smithville, and as promptly refused at Wilmington, notwithstanding that I was subjected to an expense of $12.50 for the sending of a port warden from Wilmington to examine the hatches, which were lifted at the suggestion of the quarantine surgeon at Smithville, to enable him to fumigate the hold, which fumigation, at an expense of $34, I paid, supposing that the vessel might eventually be allowed to go up. Two or three of my crew were treated by Dr. Curtis on board the vessel, at Quarantine, for physical injuries, and being subsequently discharged were placed on the steamer at Smithville with their baggage, taken to Wilmington and placed in the United States Marine Hospital.

On the 10th of May the schooner Ruth Darling, from Lagayra, via Navassa, arrived at Quarantine, remained two days and was then allowed to go to Wilmington, where she anchored abreast of the city, and was visited by stevedores, washer-women and runners. She was then towed further up to the Navassa works, where her cargo was discharged, and when I asked the Quarantine Board why this discrimination was allowed I was told she should not be loaded in the city, but ordered back to Quarantine station to load. But as the schooner Ruth Darling loaded a cargo of lumber at one of the city mills and sailed for Baltimore the statement of the Board was a false one.

The quarantine regulations went into effect on May 1, but I am informed that as late as May 17 the schooner Emma H. Drummond, from Porto Rico via Navassa, was allowed to pass the city, where her cargo was discharged. Now, of such discrimination I can justly complain, and state that aside from the delay and extraordinary expense of a tug sent from New York to tow my vessel to Philadelphia the risk was great, and that if the tug had become disabled, our hawser parted or my vessel cast off in a gale of wind, or through any stress of weather, a total loss of vessel, cargo and possibly all hands might have been the result, as she was disabled in spars and sails and unmanageable.

My complaint is not made in a captious spirit. I believe in a rigid quarantine, but I want fair play.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,
FRED SHEERER,
Master schr. Earl H. Potter, of N. Y.

For Pocket Knives or Table Cutlery, go to JACOB'S Hardware Depot.

Exports Foreign.

Brig. George E. Dale, Capt. Pierce, cleared to-day for St. George, Grenada, with 151,364 feet lumber and 160,000 shingles, valued at $3,369.46, shipped by Messrs. Northrop & Cumming.

The Fourth at Burgaw.

The citizens of Pender county are making every exertion to have the celebration at Burgaw on the approaching Fourth of July a complete success. In preparation for the comfort of the throng of expected guests they have begun the erection of an arbor, which it is estimated will be large enough to accommodate 2,000 people. The arbor will be covered with green boughs and leaves, and will be completed in due season. Other arrangements are also in progress for the convenience and comfort of visiting and resident guests, and nothing in the power of men and women to do to make the occasion agreeable will be wanting.

Death of Mr. Williams.

We are very sorry to hear of the death of the venerable Lewis M. Williams, for so many years past the Clerk of the Market in this city, which occurred at his residence last evening. He had been sick but a short time and the announcement of his death was totally unexpected. He was a native of Onslow county but had resided in Wilmington for more than a quarter of a century past. He was one of our oldest citizens—having been in his 82nd year, and had made many warm and earnest friends here by his sterling uprightness and unshaken integrity. The funeral services will take place to-morrow morning.

Magistrate's Court.

Tom Hawkins, colored, was arraigned this morning before Justice Gardner, charged with an assault and battery, with a deadly weapon, upon Rachel Pugh, also colored. The testimony showed that the defendant threw a brick at the woman, Rachel, which struck her in the side and knocked her down besides breaking one of her ribs. He was required to give a bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, in default of which he was committed.

Minerva Davis, also colored, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery on Tom Hawkins, the defendant in the previous case. The charge in her case was dismissed at the cost of the prosecutor.
