Mr. Waller turns out to be the humorous Governor of the period. At New Haven, the other day, he made a speech, in which he said that it Yale should not defeat Harvard in the boat race he would no longer live in New London. Harvard having defeated Yale, the Governor now says that after deliberation he has changed his mind and as a precedent he cites the case of George Frisbie Hoar, of Massachusetts, who intended to leave Massachusetts in case Batler was elected Governor, but who still resides in Worcester.

The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record announces that twenty-five steamships are due to arrive at that port prior to September with 45,000 tons of iron ore from Mediterranean ports. It is estimated that the total quantity to arrive during the period named will equal 90,000 tons. Since Januray 1 the total receipts at Baltimore have been 93,000 tons, against 50,000 tons in a like portion of 1882. The bulk of this ore goes by rail to the Pennsylvania steel mills. To move the 90,000 or 100,000 tons to arrive within sixty days about 10,000 cars will be required. Freights from the Mediterranean to this side are now low.

It was tried on the Baltimore & Ohio Road the other day, and made the 40 miles between Baltimore and Washington in 374 minutes-The running was sometimes at the rate of 75 miles an hour.
