Subscribers will report any and all failures to receive their paper regularly.

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation, of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Western dealers are beginning to strip North Carolina of her walnut and cherry trees.

Storms at the East and West and drought at the South have demoralized the weather and injured the crops.

San Francisco physicians have discovered one hundred and seven cases of leprosy among the hoodlum class of boys who smoke cigarettes made by Chinamen.

A Texan paper advocates holding the next Democratic National Convention in Galveston, pleading that for nearly a quarter of a century no party has held a National Convention in a Southern city.

John Ruskin, under the head of "Lost Jewels" speaks of girls,—not lost but socially unemployed; in a word unmarried. There are perhaps more lost jewels mated unfortunately than blissfully single.

The telegraphers have the oldest secret insurance society in the United States. It was formed in 1868, five years before the Knights of Honor, and admits ladies as well as gentlemen to membership.

The report that the Mexican Government has made a settlement with the English bondholders is denied. It is said that the Egyptian Bank at Paris has offered to place a loan of $15,000,000 for the Mexican Government.

Hon. Henry W. Hilliard, of Georgia, has written a letter highly extolling the Ohio Democratic platform, especially commending its tariff declarations which, he says, ought to meet the approval of a vast majority of the voters of the country.

The sale of beer in Berlin is regulated by law, and each glass has a mark upon the side showing the height below which there must be no froth, and your average German is very particular to see that the top of the beer and the bottom of the foam meet at that line.

The largest fire insurance ever effected in a single order was recently taken out by the authorities of Hamburg on the city mobiliary possessions. It amounted to $6,000,000, and was divided among fifteen companies. Among the items was $840,000 on the city library.

Congressman William H. Price, of Wisconsin, recently said in an interview: "You may say that the Presidential campaign will be fought out on one all-absorbing issue—protective tariff against free-trade. That is the only important question now for national consideration."

There are now in England and Wales between 300,000 and 400,000 women who possess the franchise—that is to say, one woman to every seven men. More than 108,000 women possess, as householders, the municipal franchise. The number of women land-owners in England and Wales is 37,806.

Mr. Carlisle is quoted as saying that he has satisfactory assurances that after a complimentary vote for Mr. Cox, most, if not all, of the New York delegation will come to his support. He is also quoted as saying himself that if an open ballot is taken in the Democratic caucus he will not have the least fear of defeat.

Hereafter the steamship Great Eastern is to be employed in carrying Scotch coal from the Forth to the Thames she will be able to carry about 20,000 tons on each voyage, and from this fact the owners are led to hope that the scheme will be remunerative. They already talk of annual dividends of 5 per cent.

It is going the rounds that Miss Ida Parker is a girl of nineteen, who lives on a plantation two miles from Monroe, La. For the last four years she has had exclusive charge of the place, upon which her widowed mother, sister and two younger brothers reside, supporting them all by her industry. She is her own overseer, supervising all work done in person.

A new system of night railroad signaling is to be introduced in England, by which accidents arising from the inability of the engineer to distinguish a red from a white light—a visual defect more common than is generally supposed—will be made impossible. It is the use of the ordinary day semaphore signal, illuminated, but the position of the arms, and not their color, will give the information.

The News and Observer learns that arrangements have been made by which the State Press Association can as a body visit the Boston Exposition in October. The route will be over the "dark blue sea" from Norfolk to Boston, and the fraternity will have the pleasure of spending a day on the bosom of old Neptune. The correspondence has not yet been published.

The showers with which we have been threatened put in an appearance a little before 4 o'clock this afternoon. They were unaccompanied by high wind and were copious and refreshing.

The North Carolina Amateur Press Association will hold its annual session at Burgaw, on Tuesday, August 14th. Rev. J. N. Stallings, of the Clinton Caucasian, will address the youthful pen-pushers.

Rev. Oscar Miller, colored, pastor of the Missionary Baptist Church, corner of Red Cross and Seventh streets, administered the rite of baptism to five persons at the Princess street dock yesterday afternoon.

Steamboatmen report that there is no improvement in the depth of water in the river, although it was expected a day or two since in consequence of the rains in the up-country section, bordering on the Cape Fear.

A horse owned by a gentleman in this city trotted a mile on the turnpike yesterday in 2 minutes and 50 seconds. The horse was harnessed to a buggy and pulled the gentleman, his wife and their five year old child. Pretty good time, we think.

We call attention to the advertisement of the University of North Carolina in this issue. The authorities of this venerable institution are laboring to place it alongside the best in the land. Parents and guardians are invited to examine its claims.

The editor of the Greensboro Patriot is politely informed that the article headed "A True Story" and published by him in Friday's issue as though it were his own production was written by one of the editors of the REVIEW and first published in this paper.

Unity Tent, No. 60, I. O. of R., will give an excursion on the Passport to Smithville and the Forts on Friday, Aug. 3d. There will be no dancing, but there will be an organ and plenty of good music on board, besides an abundance of refreshments at city prices.

There will be an excursion to Smithville and the Forts on the Passport next Thursday, Aug. 2nd, under the auspices of the ladies of Front Street M. E. Church, which is a sufficient guarantee that it will be conducted in such a manner as to insure the enjoyment and comfort of all.

Removed.
 The building which stood on the corner of Fourth street and Cottage lane has been removed to make room for a new dwelling house which is to be erected on the same site by Capt. L. S. Beldon. The building removed is to be located on Fifth, between Princess and Chesnut streets, and had reached as far as Market street this afternoon.

City Court.
 The following cases were brought up for the Mayor's consideration this morning:
 George Wilson, colored, disorderly conduct, was fined $5, and in default of that amount of money, was sent below for 30 days.
 Two persons charged with obstructing the sidewalk, and one of whom was also charged with the violation of a market ordinance, had their cases continued on account of the sickness of one of the parties.

Transferred.
 Mr. R. C. Taylor, who has had charge of the National Cemetery here for the last seven years, has been transferred to the charge of the National Cemetery at Annapolis, Md., and will leave for that place in a few days. He does not yet know who his successor here will be. Mr. Taylor is transferred, we believe, at his own request, based upon the impression that his present location is not congenial to the health of himself and family. While on duty here he has made many warm friends who will deeply regret his departure.

Death of Mr. I. B. Kelly.
 Isaac B. Kelly, Esq., of Kenansville, Duplin county, died at his residence in that town at about noon on Sunday the 29th inst., aged 73 years. As the readers of the REVIEW have been informed, Mr. Kelly has been sick for a number of months, and for several weeks his death has been expected almost at any moment. He has been a merchant in Kenansville for many years and has occupied the same store for more than a quarter of a century. He has represented the county in both branches of the Legislature and in all the affairs of life was a man of the strictest integrity.

A Good Work.
 We have received from Dr. Thomas F. Wood a copy of an address delivered before the Medical Society of North Carolina at its last annual session by W. R. Wilson M. D., of Townsville, N. C. The subject of the address is entitled, "The right relation of the general public to State preventive medicine," and shows much care and research in its preparation. It treats fairly, candidly and understandingly of one of the most important topics that can be discussed and should be read by every one who is at the head of a household and responsible for its health and well being.

Incendiary Fire.
 About 4 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the two story frame dwelling situated on Fifth, between Bladen and Harnett streets, and owned and occupied by the widow of the late William Holmes, colored. It was at an hour when almost every one was wrapped in profound slumber, and such was the inflammable nature of the building that it was a complete sheet of flame before a stream of water could be poured upon it, and it quickly burned to the ground. The fire department turned out as promptly as circumstances would permit, but before the engines reached the scene, the house was in ruins. The inmates lost nearly all their furniture and clothing, having barely time to escape in their night clothes. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary, although what prompted the fiendish deed is a mystery. There was insurance on the building to the amount of $350 in the Georgia Home Insurance Co., of Columbus, Ga., represented in this city by Messrs. Northrop & Hodges.

Mr. Nathan Mayer, of this city, recently with Messrs. Brunhild Bros., now represents the Philadelphia house of Rosskam, Gerstley & Co., manufacturers of Pennsylvania whiskeys. We understand that it is his intention to open a branch of the house in this city at an early day.

Mr. P. Donlan, bookkeeper at the New York and Wilmington Steamship wharf, has been confined to his house for the past few days, suffering from a severe bilious attack. We are glad to state that he is now convalescent, with a fair prospect of being able to be at his post of duty again in a few days.

If you are a real man, then do a real man's work and say nothing about it; but if you are only a rooster, why, of course, you can't help crowing at nothing.

"The falling of the rain, on the roof and window pane" had a decidedly refreshing effect upon the atmosphere, making it perceptibly cooler in a few moments. In our office, when the rain began to fall, the thermometer stood at 88, but 15 minutes later it indicated only 85, with a downward tendency.

A Few Suggestions.

That portion of this city situated on the North side of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad is built up entirely with wooden structures, many of which are clustered together in a very small space, so that when a fire unfortunately breaks out in that section of the city it is a foregone conclusion that one or more buildings will be destroyed. There are three steam fire engines in the city, but they are all on the South side of the railroad, and at such a distance that in case of fire a building is generally consumed before they can reach the scene. Our firemen are active, energetic and prompt in time of danger, but it is simply looking for impossibilities to expect them to reach a fire in Brooklyn, especially in the late hours of the night, until one building at least has been doomed. The hand engine, on that side of the railroad, does valuable and faithful service, but there is urgent need of a steam fire engine for that locality, and we hope, in the interest of protection to valuable property, that some means may be devised by which a company may be organized there with a first class steamer.
