A New Variety. A public spirited gentleman of Columbus county, a few weeks since, in view of the approaching Fair, offered full list of the articles exhibited with quite a liberal reward for the capture, aliye, of an aligator, stipulating that it should be at least twelve feet long. The object of the capture was to bring it to the city to exhibit at the Fair as a curiosity which a great many visitors from the interior of the State had never seen. In answer to the offer of the reward one of the citizens of that county, a few days since, brought an alligator, which was only about three feet in length, and claimed the reward. He was quickly told that no such inferior looking saurian as that would answer the purpose, when he replied, "Well, it's to be a fruit fair and I thought I'd show 'em what sort of a crop we could raise, even it it wasn't quite ripe."

To-morrow.

On to-morrow morning, the first of the Fruit Fair, the doors of the Exhibi tion Hall will be opened at 10 o'clock, and the ceremonies will commence at 11 o'clock.

The Fair will be opened with prayer by Rev. C. M. Payne, Pastor of the gress of the Fruit Fair. This means Second Presbyterian Church. An Address of Welcome will then be made by nished with the best that can be had. His Honor, Mayor Hall, after which there will be music, followed by an oration, at the conclusion of which that good old song, "The Old North State," will be sung by the entire audience.

One excellent and attractive feature of the Fair will be the presence of the Wilmington Cornet Concert Club, who will render some of their best airs morning, afternoon and night.
