Last night was too hot for any sort of comfort and sleep was an impossibility until after midnight.

Maj. D. J. Devane, of this city, with his wife and two children, is spending the summer near Morganton.

We acknowledge the courtesy of a call this morning from Mr. E. A. Oldham, of the Winston Sentinel, and regret that we were not in at the time.

It is estimated that there are about 1,000 strangers in the city, many of whom are ladies. It is expected that the number will be doubled, perhaps trebled, to-morrow.

Mr. Fletcher Manning and his wife are here on a visit to that gentleman's father, Capt. E. W. Manning. They have been at Wrightsville now for about two weeks, and expect to leave shortly for Charleston.

The Grand Ball will take place at the Opera House this evening. The floor has been laid and there will be ample room for spectators as well as dancers. It promises to be a most delightful affair.

The attention of visitors to the Fair is invited to the advertisement of the North Carolina House as it appears in this issue. This house is located corner of Second and Princess streets and is very convenient to the City Hall and Court House.

We learn from the Journal-Observer that Paul Means, the colored boy who killed his companion at Wadesboro, last Wednesday, a report of which was published in the Review on Thursday, has been captured in Charlotte and will be sent back to Wadesboro to jail.

Mr. Patrick Flynn, well known in this city, died at about noon to-day, aged about 70 years. He has been sick for two or three weeks, and from the first there was hardly a hope of his recovery. He leaves a wife and two children. His interment will take place at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon from his late residence on Swann, between Fifth and Sixth streets, thence to St. Thomas' Church.

Silver Plated Spoons and Forks, low prices, at JACOBI'S.

Gone North.
Mr. Joseph S. Williams and Mrs. Williams left here this morning for the North. They will go first to Maine and afterwards to New York city where Mr. Williams may locate. He has rented his house in this city and sold his furniture and may locate in some other city, but we trust that he will yet return to Wilmington to remain here. Mr. Williams has been a resident of this city for nearly forty years and it is with great regret that we see him leave.

Railroad and Telegraph.
We learn from Mr. W. A. Johnson, of Clinton, President of the Clinton & Warsaw Telegraph Company, that the lines on the road will be up and in working order now in a few days, say by September 1st. There has been considerable delay in consequence of the strike but the work is now being rapidly pushed forward. Mr. Johnson also informs us that work on the Clinton & Point Caswell R. R. is also being rapidly pushed forward, there being eight miles of the line now graded and ready for the crossings, five miles out of Clinton and three out of Point Caswell.

THE FRUIT FAIR.

Opened This Morning Under Very Favorable Auspices—An Excellent Display and a Fair Attendance.

The first Pomological Fair ever held in the city of Wilmington was formally opened at the City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning under the auspices of the Fruit Growers' Association of North Carolina. From the moment that it was understood that there was a probability that the Annual Fair of 1883, of this organization would be held here unceasing efforts have been made by many of our most prominent and public spirited citizens to bring it here and make it in every particular a complete success—a triumph—one that should eclipse all other exhibitions of like character in the State. When the doors were thrown open to the public this morning it was the universal sentiment that all that had been desired had been accomplished. For many days men and women of our city have been busy in the task of preparation. Men have devoted valuable time and fair ladies have contributed of their skill and taste in design, rich, rare and luscious fruits loaded the several tables; beautiful flowers and evergreens, wrought by fair hands into many a fanciful and unique design, were interspersed throughout the hall, a cool and sparkling fountain sent its quishing waters to purify the atmosphere and enhance the beauty of the scene; the works of art commingled with the rich products of nature; gay flags, banners and festoons of evergreen adorned the walls and the space over the tables and stands, until the entire hall seemed an enchanting kaleidoscopic picture, presenting new beauties with every change of the position of the beholder. There was but one sentiment—one expression—and that was of pleased surprise at the magnitude and elegance of the exhibition. There had been grave fears among a good many that the fruit would not be forthcoming and we had been repeatedly asked within the past few days, "Where is it coming from?" But it was there this morning, and in abundance. Apples, pears, peaches, grapes and other fruits were there in profusion and of the finest variety and richest quality. Long before the exhibition was opened it became apparent that the room would not be sufficient for the articles contributed, while busy hands were still engaged in arranging those which continued to arrive on every train, as well as by carriage and other means of conveyance. For an hour before the time appointed for the formal opening, the people began to flock to the hall and fairly thronged about the ticket office waiting for the time to arrive when they could gain admission. There were people from Alamance, Guilford, Rowan, Wake, Sampson, Wayne, Duplin, Pender, Columbus, Onslow, Brunswick, Bladen, Cumberland and other counties, besides a large representation from our own county of New Hanover.

At about 10:30 a. m. the officers of the Association and invited guests arrived at the Hall, preceded by the Wilmington Cornet Concert Club, who kindly turned out for the occasion. After the procession had filed into the building and entered the Mayor's office the gates were thrown open and the eager throng pressed up the stairway to the exhibition room. At 11 o'clock the officers entered the hall and after a few moments a voluntary was played by the band, followed by a short, impressive and appropriate prayer by Rev. C. M. Payne, of the Second Presbyterian Church. This was followed by another voluntary by the band, after which the Address of Welcome was delivered by Mayor Hall. Mr. P. M. Wilson, Secretary of the Association, was then introduced by Capt. R. P. Paddison and responded gracefully to Mayor Hall; Col. F. W. Kerchner then made an apology to those present for the absence of the expected Orator of the occasion, after which the popular State air of "Carolina! Carolina! Heaven's blessings attend her!" was rendered by the band. This being performed and received with cheers, Mayor Hall arose and declared the exhibition duly open.

We regret that space and time will not permit us to give a full report of the several speeches and other exercises attending the opening ceremonies, as they were very interesting and appropriate to the occasion.

THE TABLES.
There were sixteen tables in the hall, all of which were numbered and occupied as follows:
Table No. 1—Apples raised in New Hanover county and sent to the Association. They were fair and nice looking, but we wish that this portion of the exhibit had been better and more in keeping with the excellence of the remainder.

Table No. 2—S. W. Nobles, of New Hanover county, exhibitor. This table was protusely laden with apples, peaches and grapes of a fine quality and was much commended (as it ought to be) by the visitors. It was a very creditable display and in some of its features it was excellent.

Table No. 3—Capt. R. P. Paddison, of Pender county and President of the Association, exhibitor. This table contained apples, grapes and canned fruits and vegetables, all of which were very fine.

Table No. 4—Messrs. J. R. Paddison, of Pender, and T. F. Pugh, of Sampson counties, exhibitors. This table contained a remarkably nice and tasteful display of apples, grapes, pickles and jellies, and showed, as did table No. 3, the skill of the housewife as well as the products of the soil.

Table No. 5—Elegant and mammoth specimens of pears, exhibited by Capt. W. A. Cumming, of this city, and raised at his place on the Sound, together with several varieties of peaches sent here from Baltimore and exhibited by Col. F. W. Kerchner.

Table No. 6—Several varieties of apples, New York City exhibitor. A fine display.

Table No. 7—This table was loaded with apples, peaches, several varieties of pears, luscious in appearance and mammoth in size, and several kinds of grapes, exhibited by Mr. William Murdock, of Rowan county. It was a very fine display. Aside from these, the table contained a sample of grapes exhibited by Mr. H. E. Newbury, of Magnolia, Duplin county, together with a bottle of sweet wine of his manufacture, and both exhibited by him.

Table No. 13—Apples, grapes and flowers, exhibited by Mr. E. D. Pearfall, of Duplin county.

Tables Nos. 9, 10 and 11—Specimens of dried fruits and stuffed birds and animals, exhibited by Mr. M. T. Hughes, of Guilford county. This exhibit deserves much more than a passing notice, as it is one of the finest in the hall. There were dried apples, peaches, tomatoes, grapes, pears, corn and other vegetables, all neatly arranged in cases and properly labelled, and they probably excited as much curiosity and provoked as much comment as anything on exhibition. The fruits were dried by the ordinary process of evaporation, and the work was certainly attended to by those who knew their business. We are glad to know that Mr. Hughes will take this display to Boston for exhibition at the Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Fair, which is to be held there in October next.

Table No. 12—Apples, grapes and peaches of a very superior quality and of several varieties, exhibited by Messrs. Lineback Bros., of Forsyth county.

Table No. 13—Apples, pears, peaches plums and grapes, exhibited by Messrs. S. Ragsdale & Bro., of Guilford county. This is a remarkably fine display.

Tables Nos. 14, 15 and 16—Apples, crab apples, (several varieties) pears, peaches and grapes, exhibited by Mr. J. Van Lindley, of Guilford county. This was a remarkably fine display and on the most extensive scale of any in the hall.—Mr. Van Lindley is one of the Vice Presidents of the Association, an ardent and enthusiastic pomologist, and has been very successful in his efforts to improve the cultivation of fruits in his section.

The above comprises the exhibitors on the numbered tables, and we now come to stands arrayed against the walls, beginning by turning to the right as we enter the door of the hall. The first is a very large and fine display of tobacco exhibited by the Cape Fear Tobacco Works. The next is a stand which contains a portion of the exhibition of Mr. J. Van Lindley, for which there was no room on the tables. The next stand was occupied by J. S. Ragsdale & Bro., for the remainder of their exhibit, and Mr. A. C. Hege, of Lexington, Davidson county, who made a fine and varied display of apples and grape. The next stand contained a model of the peach packing shed of Messrs Lineback Bros., of Salem, N. C. which they have presented to the N. C. Fruit Growers' Association. It was a marvel of neatness and convenience combined and was a most cunning price of workmanship. The same stand was also laden with samples of sundried fruits and plums and several bottles of sweet wine by the same exhibitors, and with a display of Bartlett pears of very fine appearance, exhibited by Mr. George Laughton, Morehead city. The next and last table on the frothsides of the building was occupied by a very fine display of dried fruits, exhibited by Messrs A. C. & W. S. Worth, of No. 333 Greenwich St., New York, and by a sample of mammoth green peppers exhibited by Mr. John G. Marshall, of New Hanover county.

Commencing now in the Southeast corner of the hall we have a very fine, elaborate and tasteful display of wax flowers, exhibited by Mrs. W. J. Guy of Charleston, S. C., who is a teacher in the art of their manufacture. The next is a fine display of pickles, catsups &c., from the store of Messrs P. L. Bridgers & Co. Immediately North of this is a map prepared by Major W. L. Young, showing the sugar producing belt of North Carolina, while the stands for a considerable distance are laden with various kinds of fruits, dried fruits &c., among which were some mammoth apples exhibited by Mr. W. M. Hand, of Pender county. The next was an exhibition of grapes by Mr. H. W. Beatty, Jr. They were of the Hopkins Seedling variety and were remarkably fine, nice and large. The next was a fine exhibition of dried fruits, displayed by Messrs Hall Bros., of Hickory, N. C. The next was a display of two enormous pears exhibited by Mr. L. Vollers, of Pt. Caswell, Pender county.

In the centre of the hall, at the southern end, was a display of assorted grasses, exhibited by Miss Victoria Gore, of this city. Further down and near the centre of the hall, was a "bouquet of flowers, prepared and exhibited by Mrs. H. Webb, of this city. Next to this was a gothic arbor, a portion of which was occupied by Mr. N. W. Craft, of Yadkin county, in a display of apples, pears, peaches, grapes and wine, while the other portion was used for the same purpose by Mr. G. K. Faust, of Alamance county. The display upon this table was very fine.—Next in order was a fine display of wines, liquors, cordials and cigars, exhibited by Messrs. H. Brunhild & Bros., while at the end of the hall was an extensive display of confectioneries, exhibited by Mrs. Warren, and another equally as fine exhibited by Messrs. E. J. Moore & Co., both of this city.

The last which we have time to notice now is the exhibit of machinery for making fruit cans with workmen engaged in making them, exhibited by Messrs. Harding Johnson & Co., of this city.

Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, U. S. Senator from Indiana, says: I consider St. Jacobs Oil a splendid remedy. I suffered from rheumatism of the back. I used St. Jacobs Oil, which gave me instantaneous relief, and finally cured me completely.

A Little Boston Barber Blown up High.
Theodore Voigt, a little German barber, was shaving at the shop of Mr. Chas. Baessler, No. 25 Avery street, when a Star representative interviewed him. He said: "When I found that my ticket was the lucky one I did not stop my razor and stop work. When finished I expressed my ticket to M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., for collection. $5,000 cash was returned to me for my $1 invested." He is a sober, industrious and prudent young man, who was born in Marklissa, Germany; is aged about 23. He has several brothers and sisters at home whom he assists, and will probably open a barber shop of his own in this city.—Boston (Mass.) Star, July 26.
