

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII.

WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1883.

NO. 221

At the closing session of the colored clergymen's convention in New York, Friday, a paper entitled "A Call for Caste Organization upon a Separate Episcopacy, a Tacit Avowal of Failure of the Church of God," was read by Rev. Prof. Joseph, and was discussed. The object of the convention was that colored clergymen might offer suggestions, based upon personal experience, to the general convention as to the measures necessary to improve church work in the South. Any intention to create an independent church organization is disclaimed.

Knights of Honor.

Carolina Lodge No. 431, Regular meeting this evening at 8 o'clock. Full attendance desired.

The increase of freight traffic on the different railroads terminating in this city is such that extra trains will soon be added, as is usual at about this time of year.

We are now having beautiful moonlight nights, when the weather is not cloudy, but towards morning dense fogs set in which continue until dispersed by the rays of the sun.

Those of the South who have large tracts of timber lands for which they would like to secure a purchaser would do well to address Postoffice Box 2,666, New York City, as per advertisement in this issue.

Mrs. Hinton will reopen her school at her residence on Third, between Walnut and Red Cross streets, on the 26th inst. Special attention will be paid to mathematics. She will be assisted by her daughter.

A colored fire company, preped by a band of music, paraded through some of our streets this morning and then marched down Market street to the Minnehaha, on which they made an excursion to Smithville and the Fords.

Rev. E. S. Alderman preached in the Front Street M. E. Church last night. There was a large congregation present and his sermon is spoken of as one of great power and all were profoundly interested and delighted with his effort.

The new freight house of the W. & W. Railroad is so nearly completed that it will be ready for occupancy this week. It would have been completed last week had not the stormy weather driven the hands away from the work.

Wilmingtonians, who have been absent during the hot months of the Summer, are returning to the city again, and we daily see the familiar faces of those who have enjoyed the Summer at some of the different watering places and pleasure resorts.

The 24th annual session of Rev. Daniel Morrelle's English and Classical school will begin on the 4th of October next. The principal is an accomplished and experienced teacher and pupils placed under his charge will receive a thorough mental training.

The Cape Fear Academy begins its Fall and Winter Session on Monday October 1st., with Capt. Washington Catlett as principal, aided by a full and competent corps of teachers. Capt. Catlett's reputation as a successful teacher is too well established in this city to need any words of commendation from us.

Last night was a dog's regular carnival time, for in the Eastern section of the city they were howling all through the night, making sleep an utter impossibility. We are well aware that there are quite a number of dogs in that section for which no license has been paid, and we wish some plan could be devised to prevent them from joining in future canine concerts.

River News.
The rise in the Cape Fear, occasioned by the recent storm, has proved much less than was expected. Steamboatmen report only about 8 feet on the Shoals, which is a rapid decrease, showing that the amount of rainfall in the up-country was not very large nor long-continued.

Boots and Shoes.
Messrs. Dryfoos & Sternberger, of the "Famous Boot and Shoe House," in this issue tell their friends and patrons and the public generally where good boots and shoes may be bought at bottom prices and of first class material and workmanship. They have an extensive and well selected stock from which to choose, and they offer their goods at prices that are within the reach of all.

The Benefactor.
Steamship Benefactor, Capt. Tribon, which arrived hence at New York on Friday last, reports that when off Cape Lookout, on Sunday, the 9th inst., she encountered a heavy from N. N. E., veering to S. W., in which she had her forward house carried away. From this it would appear that the storm was raging in that locality several hours before it began here.

Dispatch.
The steamship Regulator, which arrived here at about 9 o'clock on Thursday morning last, discharged her cargo and took in another one, and completed the work at 11 o'clock Saturday night, enabling her to start on her return trip at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning. She brought a full cargo and her return freight was equally as large. This enormous amount of freight was all handled in two days and 14 hours, which may be considered unusual dispatch.

Caught at Last.
Jim Green, colored, who was indicted two years ago by the Grand Jury of Brunswick county, but who had managed to evade the officers of the law, was captured on Sunday morning, the 16th inst., by Sheriff Taylor, at a place on Town Creek, known as Snowfield, and brought to Wilmington, whence he was sent to Smithville for trial by the Supreme Court, which convenes there next Monday. Green is one of a gang of ten or a dozen, all of whom are colored, who make their headquarters in the Snowfield section, and who make their living principally, by stealing cattle, hogs and in fact, about anything they can lay their hands on, animate or inanimate. The notorious Joe Goodman, whose capture we recently announced, was one of the delectable crew, and there are several others nearly or equally as bad as he is. The peculiar locality where they reside, with no white persons in the neighborhood, makes it almost impossible to capture one of the gang, and when that is effected there are enough ready with a common interest of protection in view, to establish the innocence of the accused by any amount of hard swearing.

A fine assortment of Guns and Pistols at JACOB'S Hardware Depot.

The Greatest Show Extant.
This is the reputation of the "Universal Exposition" of the Sells Brothers, and from what we learn by the general press of the country, the name is not misplaced. They have a circus and hip podrome of enormous magnitude, embracing a company of equestriennes and general performers of the highest celebrity, a comprehensive museum, and a zoological department that embraces an amalgamation of three extensive menageries. In the latter there are more rare animals than have ever before crowded in one exhibition. A male and female hippopotami, and we believe the only full-grown specimens ever exhibited in America, a singular double-horned rhinoceros, a monster in size, weighing more than five tons, a large school of sea lions, a herd of giraffes, an immense flock of ostriches, and an immense herd of elephants of all sorts and sizes, and trained to perform all manner of incredible feats. There is an exhaustive variety of strange and exciting performances advertised, and as this company is remarkable for keeping faith, in showing all they advertise, those who visit the show will not be disappointed. A tribe of Maoris, natives of Australia, are among the curiosities.

It will be in this city on Saturday, September 29th, and we predict that their vast canyasses will be filled to repletion.
Every house of the human race, ought to have St. Jacob's Oil, the pain-cure.

Caved In.
About 3 o'clock this afternoon the crossing at the foot of Dock street, where the sewer passes under it, caved in; making an ugly hole about six feet square. A force of hands were soon at work putting the street in proper shape again.

An Honest Man.
There is one honest man in the world at least. Mr. Ed. Judkins, a conductor on the Mount Washington Railway, found a pocket book containing a small amount of money and a railroad ticket which evidently belonged to some one in Wilmington or vicinity as the ticket was sold here. The lost property may be recovered, as Mr. Judkins is anxious to restore it, and if the owner will call at this office we will tell him how he can get it.

The Opera House.
The theatrical season in this city opens at the Opera House to-morrow night, when "Only a Farmer's Daughter," will be presented. This will be its first presentation here and we are consequently unable to judge of its merits only as we can gather them from the press of cities where it has been played. The company who will appear to-morrow night is said to be a good one in every respect, and of the merits of the play we select the criticism of the New York Tribune, which says:

It is a peculiar drama, bold in its portrayal of wickedness yet thrillingly interesting. In the working out of the plot, the action is admirable, though very bold, and the audience followed the developments with keen interest.

City Court.
Rena Pearsall, a colored damsel, was the first case presented for the Mayor's consideration this morning. She was charged with disorderly conduct, the charge was sustained and she was required to pay a fine of $5 or be confined in the city prison for 30 days. She went below.

Stephen Livingston, also colored, was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy, but judgment was suspended in his case. He has been drifting about the streets for two or three weeks, having come here from the Sound, and was found sleeping in a stable. He is seriously afflicted with a scrofulous affection, one side of his face being distended out of all proportion, and it was the opinion of the Court that if he could by any possible secure employment and thereby a home, it would be much better than to inflict any penalty upon the unfortunate creature.

Sanitary Matters.
There is no mistaking the fact that this is very unhealthy weather of the most unhealthy season of the year, and it behooves every one having the care of a family to use every precaution for the prevention of sickness. Premises should all be kept as clean and dry as possible and disinfectants should be freely and frequently applied around all outhouses in order to prevent as far as possible the approach of disease. The city officials are doing all in their power to preserve the health of our citizens and keep contagion from our doors, but they, be they ever so efficient and faithful in the discharge of their duties, can accomplish but little unless they have the cordial co-operation of the citizens. From now until the middle of October is the danger period, and we hope that our people will heed the axiom that "an ounce of preventive is worth a pound of cure," and do all in their power to preserve the health of the city.

A Sagacious Dog.
During the height of the storm on Tuesday morning last, a flock of tame ducks and geese took refuge on the lee side of the sleeping quarters on Zeke's Island, occupied by the fishermen employed by Messrs. W. E. Davis & Son. Such was the severity of the storm that the sand was washed from under the feet of a number of the fowl, and they were floated off and were unable to reach the land again. In this predicament they were noticed by "Snyder," a valuable dog belonging to Mr. W. E. Davis, and he promptly went into the water and taking one of fowls by the leg or wing brought it unharmed ashore and put it in a safe place among the grass. This he repeated seven times, bringing either a goose or a duck ashore each time. No one was lost. The dog is a cross between a full blooded English pointer and an Irish setter, is about four years old and has always been a great favorite with the fishermen, but now they almost idolize him. His feat of Thursday morning was witnessed by ten or a dozen men.

Schr. Rover, hence, for Baltimore, which went ashore at Smithville during the recent gale, after having been lighted of her deck load, was hauled off by steam tugs and towed up to the city, where she will undergo necessary repairs before proceeding on her voyage.

DIED.
VAUGHN—In this city, at the residence of her nephew, Jas. C. Murdus, at 1.15 A. M., on the 15th inst., Miss ANN E. VAUGHN, a native of Charleston, S. C., in the eightieth year of her age. Interment at Columbia, S. C.
