THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1883. NO. 229

The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

A piece of real estate recently sold in London at the rate of $3,300,000 per acre.

Alabama has over 300,000 children that are not enrolled at the public schools.

A bridge over the Mississippi, at New Orleans, at a cost of $13,000,000, is talked of.

Philadelphia ladies are learning baseball. One of them has caught her husband on several times already.

Bronze statues of Prince Bismarck and Count Moltke were unveiled on the 2d instant at Donnersberg, in the Rhine palatinate.

Mr. Case, owner of Jay-Eye See, rushed across the track when his horse lowered his record and kissed his wife twice. Why did he not kiss the horse?

A politician makes the point that Arthur never amounted to much until he was turned out of the Custom House by Hayes. Hayes and Guitau made him President of the United States.

The Rome Courier says that if an honest return of the taxable property in Georgia were made it would either increase the revenues of the State and the counties one third, or it would enable them to reduce the rate of taxation one third.

Few English girls at the watering places, says London Truth, appear to know how to swim. That journal ascribes the fact to the prejudice which decrees that no lady shall bathe with any man, even her own father, brother or husband.

Senator Hoar has received a letter from Senator Don Cameron in which the latter says that he has driven in a carriage with his wife across the country from London to Edinburgh. His health is gradually improving, although he does not seem to regain strength.

The Vicksburg Herald thinks that with illimitable fields for the production of sorghum in the West and South, added to the millions of sugar-cane land in Louisiana and Florida, it will be but a few years before we shall become a large exporter of sugar and molasses.

Queen Victoria has refused to recognize or receive at court the present Duke of Marlborough, because of his licentious conduct. The Augusta Chronicle thinks that if the Queen should apply the rule strictly, the Duke of Marlborough would not lack for company in his outlay wry.

The Louisville Post summarizes Gov. Blackburn's administration thus: He was borne into office by a wave of sentimentalism, and sentimentalism has been the characteristic feature of his term of office. He is a man of undoubted honesty, but he has continually allowed his sensibilities to run away with his judgment.

Gov. Blackburn's apology for pardoning so many criminals in Kentucky was that the jails and penitentiaries of that rich and prosperous Commonwealth rivalled the horrors of the Black Hole of Calcutta. Indeed, the Governor says they rivalled Sodom and Gomorrah. In justifying himself, Gov. Blackburn forgot that he branded his State with disgrace.

Lieutenant A. W. Greely was born in Newburyport, Mass., March 27, 1844, and entered the 19th Massachusetts Regiment in August, 1861. He served throughout the entire war in the infantry, cavalry and artillery service, being engaged in twenty battles and wounded at White Oak Swamp, Antietam and Fredericksburg.

Mrs. Raymond, the Annie Louise Cary of the operatic stage, ascended Mount Washington the other day, in company with her husband. There was a heavy fog hanging over the mountain, and Mrs. Raymond, turning to her husband, remarked: "If this fog would only lift I would give fifty dollars to the Maine General Hospital." It so happened that the fog lifted just about that time and the hospital got the money.

An immense mass meeting of the Democrats was held in Cooper Institute on Monday night. Notwithstanding the fact that a heavy rain storm prevailed, the hall was packed with people; business men and mechanics, as well as politicians. It was called in the interest of harmony in the party, and the proceedings were very enthusiastic.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Dorsheimer seems to have made the speech of the evening. Among other things he said: There is no gentleman who is likely to be named for the Presidency or the Vice-Presidency by the Democracy who would not receive our entire support. I am sure if what is called the old ticket—though Mr. Tilden would resent the imputation—was again nominated, Tilden and Hendricks would be again elected. Or, if Mr. Hendricks was at the head of the ticket, or Mr. McDonald, or Mr. Holman, or the statesman from Delaware, Mr. Bayard, or whoever else may be chosen, he will be elected.

The outlook is certainly very bright in New York and Massachusetts, and we trust also in Ohio.

Cars are now being run regularly over the big East River bridge. They began on Monday.

A New Jersey physician advises the application of the great pain-cure, St. Jacobs Oil, in backache and spinal troubles, as a remedy against serious diseases of the spine and kidneys that may result.

Metallic red is the color of the new two cent stamps that will go into circulation October 1st.

There is a cry of distress from every quarter of this green earth. It is "give us a rest on the tariff question."

In Sells Bros' street parade in Raleigh there were forty two cages, four bands, a fife and drum corps and a steam piano.

There is much dullness about the City Court room in these latter days, everybody seeming to be on his good behavior until after the circus is over.

The difference between the sun and a Wilmington boot black is simply this: The sun shines for nothing, but the boot black must have five cents.

Many good husbands contend that this is an unusually early autumn, because so many wives have struck them for a new fall bonnet.

A wicked man says that he never will, upon any consideration whatever, really believe that a pretty girl knows what a kiss means till he has it from her own mouth.

This makes the second consecutive day of fair weather, but the wind hauled to the N. E. this morning, making the matter of continued sunshine a thing of much uncertainty and doubt.

Sashes are still obtaining, but it is to be wished that women would understand if there is anything more than another which makes a woman past girlhood look foolishly infantile it is a sash ribbon tied after the manner of sweat sixteen.

Steamship Regulator, Capt. Doane from New York, arrived at her wharf in this city at about 9 o'clock this morning. She was delayed some hours by a S. W. wind yesterday which caused a heavy head sea, so that she did not get in at Smithville until about 8 o'clock last night.

Sheep Husbandry.

A gentleman of our acquaintance in Pender county is talking about going largely into sheep husbandry. He has had considerable experience in this line heretofore and understands that there are large profits in the business. He speaks of employing shepherds to watch the sheep during the day and to fold them at nightfall, and will get some imported colley dogs to guard the flock. In this connection it may be remarked that the dogs are credited with a great deal more mischief than they are actually guilty of. The two-legged dogs, we have been informed, are worse some times than their four-legged brethren.

There seems to be a plenty of mast in the woods in this section this Fall, but then who has the hogs to eat it?

We learn that the hands employed in stowing the cargo of the Br. steamship Woodside struck to-day for an increase in pay and a decrease of the hours of labor. The difficulty was settled, however, but on what terms we were unable to learn.

The News and Observer says that the ticket seller of Sells' circus is a curiosity. He is "lightning" and no mistake. Watching him one sees incredible quickness of movement as his hands fly back and forth. He never appears to look at either the tickets or the money.

Serious Accident.

A sailor on board the Norwegian barque Sulitjelma, Capt. Sorensen, now at anchor off Smithville, fell from one of the top-gallant yards of that vessel yesterday to the deck. He struck several pieces of rigging in his descent which so far broke the force of his fall as to prevent his being instantly killed. He was brought to Wilmington last night and taken to the Marine Hospital, where Dr. Irving, the Surgeon-in-charge, gave him the necessary surgical attention, and the wounded man is now doing as well as could be expected. His hurts are very serious, but the physician thinks that he will probably recover.

A fine assortment of Guns and Pistols at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

Personal.

Mr. S. D. Worth, Fish Commissioner of North Carolina, is in the city today en route for the Boston Exposition.

Mr. R. J. Jones returned from his trip to the North last night. He visited the Boston Exposition, of which he speaks in the highest terms, and with especial pride of North Carolina's exhibit.

Mr. DuBrutz Cutlar returned to the city this morning after a somewhat protracted trip to the Western portion of the State, which he enjoyed very much. He is in excellent health.

Mr. R. B. Nixon, of Scott's Hill, Pender county, has been located for some time at Newbern, where he is studying law in the office of Messrs. Nixon, Simmons & Manly. He is a young gentleman of ability, as we happen to know, and we predict for him a successful career in his chosen profession. He will go before the Supreme Court in February next.

We understand that Miss E. Karrier, who is now North purchasing goods, is expected to return here next Saturday. She will be accompanied by a young lady, direct from a first class pattern bonnet house in New York. Mrs. Alderman and Miss Palmer, the accomplished and tasteful trimmers now in Miss Karrier's employ, will remain with her. The new goods are now being received and a grand opening will be announced through the columns of this paper for some day next week.

The Boston Exposition.

Mr. F. W. Clark, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad System, returned last night from a protracted visit to Boston, where he has been engaged in the interest of the roads which he represents. He has also noticed very closely the exhibitions made by the several States, and in his comparison North Carolina stands far ahead of any other, in the production of her soils and mines. He was surprised when he saw the products of North Carolina unpacked and placed on exhibition, and could hardly credit the fact that what he saw all came from within our own borders. In minerals and woods our exhibition far exceeded any other, and gems and precious stones, so far as regards size quality and variety, we were far ahead of all the other States combined. In mechanical appliances and their products New England shows to the best advantage, but in every product of the soil or the earth under the soil North Carolina had no successful competitor. This was not simply the opinion of the many North Carolinians who were present, and who might be accused of an overweening State pride, but it was the universal sentiment, uttered by people from every section of the country. The display was such that to particularize would fill a volume, and it can only be spoken of in general terms of praise which it would be almost impossible to make extravagant.

Slender necked woman can aid the rigid collar now worn with ribbon loops, while their plumper sisters wear nothing ornamental save the collar button, which may be as small as their purses will allow.

Pender Crops.

Mr. Jesse Bowden, of Asheton, Pender county, who was in the city yesterday, confirms the reports already published by us as to disasters to the crops. He says that in his opinion there will not be a half-crop of corn and cotton made in his section. A month ago the prospect was very good, but since then the rains and the winds have beat the crops down, and the outlook is now really gloomy. Peanuts and potatoes are, however, doing well and the prospects for these two crops are very good.

The Circus at Raleigh.

Sells Bros' Circus exhibited in Raleigh on Monday afternoon and night and notwithstanding the torrents of rain which fell there were large crowds present at both performances. The News and Observer estimates that there were 3,500 people under the tents in the afternoon and 3,000 at night. Notwithstanding the great disadvantages labor ed under from the weather the entertainment is spoken of very highly by both of our Raleigh contemporaries. The Visitor says it is one of the best circus shows that has ever visited Raleigh and the News and Observer says:

The rain was not long in falling, however, and by the time the performance began and the 3,500 people were in their seats in the big tent, poured down. There was as may be imagined, no end of discomfort and annoyance, far more to the performers than to the spectators, for fair weather is one of the essentials. Taking the weather into consideration no visitor had cause for dissatisfaction. The show of animals was notably good, the hippopotami being the centre of attraction. The animals were in good condition. The ring performance was deprived of much of its life by the incessant rain. The Donaldson Bros. were conceded to be the best contortionists ever seen here and were liberally applauded. Willie Sells' bareback jockey feats were notably well done. The athletic performance of the "strong man" has not been surpassed here. The trained dogs did some very clever work. But the event of the performance was the bicycle riding by the Stirk family. It is a new feature and certainly a pleasant one which Sells Bros. deserve credit for introducing. The two men, the woman and the little child vied with each other in grace and facility of movement and delighted every spectator.

At the evening performance an audience of some 3,000 saw the performance, their pleasure being unmarred by rain. The performance was better than in the afternoon, owing to the absence of discomfets.

Lillington River.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at Long Creek, on Saturday last, relative to the improvement of Lillington River. Robt. C. Johnson Esq. was chosen chairman and Bruce Williams Esq. secretary of the meeting, Capt. G. F. Walker has called upon, and spoke at length and with force of the great good that had been accomplished by the last appropriation of Congress, and clearly showed that the work of developing the country adjacent to the stream had only fairly begun. His remarks were very interesting and instructive.

The following resolutions, as reported by the committee, were adopted: Resolved, That while we heartily appreciate the aid already extended our section in improving Lillington River, yet from the greater good that might be accomplished, we regret the present appropriation of Congress limits the improvement only to the bridge at the village. It is, therefore, the sense of this meeting, that should the clearing of the river proceed a few miles above the bridge as originally contemplated, and where the improvement is mostly needed, of the resources of the country through which said stream passes, that an outlet, being a necessity, will be afforded for a vast undeveloped region of fertile land, now practically useless, would be brought into successful cultivation, and that this entire improvement will afford a public highway for commerce beneficial not alone to this vicinity but to this entire section at large.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to our representative in Congress with the request that he use his best efforts to secure the further improvement of Lillington River, as set forth in our resolutions.

Resolved, That we regret the temporary suspension of the work on the river, so successfully begun, and hope the same may be renewed very soon, if such be the pleasure of the authorities in charge.

Resolved, That the proceeding of this meeting be sent to the DAILY REVIEW and Star, with a request that they publish the same.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

It is the proper esplanade now for fashionable ladies to have educated maids to do their spelling and letter writing. It is asserted that they bear the same relation to each other that exists between the duke and his private secretary.

The seasons make a law unto themselves, and this month finds the busy woman beginning to wonder what will be worn in the shape of dresses and bonnets. Shopping will, therefore, be in order for some time to come.
