The Daily Review has the largest circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

The late ex-United States Senator Math H. Carpenter's estate nets about $450,000.

Mr. Sharon, the bonanza ex-senator, admits that his income is at least $100, 000 a month.

General Sherman has fixed upon November 1 as the date he will retire from the army.

Mrs. Tyler, the widow of President Tyler, intends to pass the coming winter in Washington.

Mrs. Minnie Hank tells the Boston Herald that she will not sing in opera this season, but will make a concert tour through the South.

Enoch Pratt is busy with a scheme to establish auxiliary libraries, as sub-stations of his large public library, in various sections of Baltimore.

Professor Brooks, of the Red House Observatory of Phelps, N. Y., has been awarded the Warner prize of $200 for his recent discovery of the comet of 1872.

George W. Curtis, the reformer, writes to a friend in Boston: "May God send Massachusetts a good deliverance!" Mr. Curtis alludes to Governor Butler.

Wednesday was Arkansas day at the Louisville exposition. Gov. Berry, of Arkansas, wore in the evening a suit made from cotton picked 44 hours before 500 miles away.

The voice of Mr. Robert B. Roosevelt, rising from Buffalo, announces authoritatively once more that under no circumstances will Mr. Tilden be a candidate for the Presidency again.

The schooner Kodiak has brought to San Francisco four Alaskan mummies which are supposed to be at least three centuries old. They are intended for the Berlin museum.

Junius B. and Charles B. Kauffman, well known lawyers and pension agents, of Lancaster, Pa., were arrested last week charged with fraud in connection with their pension business.

The figures for the past eight months show that the shipments during the present year of California fruits to the east will aggregate 12,000 tons, an increase of over eight hundred per cent in three years.

The ceremony of receiving Sitting Bull, the great Indian chief, into the Catholic Church, which was to have taken place last week at Fort Yates, has been indefinitely postponed, because Sitting Bull cannot make up his mind which of his two wives he will let go.

A Republican contemporary, under the head of "Southern Illiteracy," mentions that there are 1,350,050 illitirate voters in the Southern States.
These are all Democrats, we are told.
Our understanding is that there are nearly a million negroes in the Southern States entitled to vote and who nearly always vote the Republican ticket.
It cannot be possible that they have advanced to that enlightened condition which removes them from the column of "illiterates."

Mr. Joseph Medill, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, was a witness in New York last week before the United States senate sub-committee on labor and education. The chief cause of the impugnious condition of the masses of the laborers in this country he attributed to their own improvidence. The only way to improve them was to teach them to save. Too much of the earnings of the laborer were spent in liquor and tobacco. It had been calculated that the amount annually spent by the laboring population in drink was $400, 000,000, and at least $200,000,000 more was spent in cigars, tobacco and useless amusements.

Capt. John D. Cameron, of the Asheville Citizen, is a thoroughgoing and persistent friend to our city and he has never yet neglected an opportunity of saying for us a good word. Wilmington has few friends enough in the State, beyond its own immediate section, not to appreciate to the fullest extent all that may be said in its behalf. The following, which we clip from the last issue of the Citizen, will be read with much pleasure by all:

With a feeling of State pride which is contracted to no part nor section, we have watched with interest the developments of harbor improvement which

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII.

WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1883.

NO. 231

are to make a North Carolina port a harbor accessible to such class of vessels as will throw our State into the great current of direct foreign commerce, instead of being a mere feeder to other States to whom nature has been more generous in the one particular of seaports. In everything else she has been lavish to a degree that fills to liberal extent every column of statistical tables.
Of late years the appropriations of the General Government hardly wrung from Congress by persistent appeals of our representatives, have been applied to the restoration of the depth of water over the bar and in the river, to what it was a century ago. It was in the great tempest of 1769 that the channel through New Inlet was made, and ever since the work of obstruction increased, until Wilmington was necessarily avoided by vessels of large tonnage, and foreign trade became restricted almost exclusively to a limited West India traffic.

The first work of restoration was the closing of the New Inlet. That is done after years of laborious battle with the waves and a beach as firm as the original one now stretches as a wall across a channel which, six years ago, was the one through which the large fleet of coasters for New York and other Northern ports went in and out, and from sea to sea. The closing of this of course deepened the water on the main bar; and with some aid from dredges on the bar and in the channel in the river, vessels carrying from 17 to 19 feet water now go in and out, and come up directly to the wharves at Wilmington. The result has been to attract yearly increasing fleets of foreign shipping coming in to load direct for Europe with cotton, naval stores &c. The foreign exports of the former staple have increased within the past six years from nothing to 65,000 bales, and as the accessibility of the harbor becomes better known, a larger class of vessels seek it; and as the facilities for shipment become better known, so will the receipts at the port increase. The latest evidence of this tendency of larger vessels to obtain their cargoes at Wilmington is offered by the presence now at that port of two large English steamers to load with cotton for Liverpool. One is the Woodside, of 1771 tons; and the Lykus, 1776 tons, both iron vessels, drawing each when loaded about 17 feet. The significance of this fact will be appreciated if it be remembered that ten years ago the arrival of a vessel of 600 tons was noted as a great event.

We hope yet to see what geographers, statesmen, statisticians, have all denied us; a North Carolina seaport, entering upon generous and profitable rivalry for foreign commerce with our neighbors to the South and North of us; a consummation not by any means a remote possibility in view of the many far reaching avenues of connection with the interior possessed by Wilmington.

less.

A slight change of schedule goes into effect to-day on the Carolina Central R.
R. The train will leave at 7 P. M. instead of 7:10 as heretofore.

city prison was the penalty for his ing the entire month of September, the BI'S for Sash, Blinds and Doors, Glass, &c. You can get all sizes and at the lowest prices.

To-Night.
Zera Semon will open to-night at the Opera House his week's engagement here. The probability is that the attendance will be very large as the Professor has an excellent reputation as a ventriloquist and a magician. He will present many new and pretty tricks and at the close of the entertainment will give away one hundred presents. There will be some lucky individuals among us to-morrow and some disappointed ones.

Family Life.
Rev. F. W. E. Peschau preached at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, yesterday morning, the first of a series of sermons on family life from a Bible standpoint. His subject was "The Position and Duties of the Husband and Father in the Household." There was a large and appreciative congregation to listen to the eloquent divine upon this all-important subject, and all listened with profound attention and we doubt not that many will profit by the teachings of his instructive discourse.

A Remedy for Dyspepsia.
Everybody who has dyspeptic friends, which, unfortunately, in this country, is equivalent to saying everybody, must have heard of a new and wonderful cure for that dismal complaint and of its brilliant achievements. Fortunately this blessed remedy cannot be patented, for it is nothing more nor less than hot water. It is clean and not nasty, and though its efficacy may have been exaggerated and it may some day be discovered that it is a dreadful insult to the stomach, there can be no doubt that its popularity is great and rapidly increasing. We know of instances in this city where it has been tried and proved beneficial. A glassful—hot, not warm —should be taken directly after every meal.

Criminal Court.
This tribunal convened at the Court House promptly at 10 o'clock this forenoon, His Honor, Judge O. P. Meares, presiding and Solicitor B. R. Moore as prosecuting officer. The morning hours were consumed in drawing the jury and in empanneling the Grand Jury and giving the usual charge by the Court to the same. The following constitute the Grand Jury for present term:

B. P. Harrison, foreman, J. A. Hankins, S. Stallings, J. C. Springer, Richard B. Hall, C. B. Wright, R. F.
Rowan, Joseph McLaurin, R. L.
Hutchins, George J. Hussell, Jehu Burgwyn, Edward Stills, Thomas J.
Bell, James T. Jarman, S. R. Birdsey, O. R. Hollingsworth, John Fitzgerald, Richard Hooper.

The necessary preliminary business having been arranged, the Court took a recess until 3 o'clock this afternoon, and at the time of closing our report no cases had been put upon trial.

day for New York for the purchase of
