Within the last month the Washington correspondent of the Courier Journal sent out circulars inquiring about the Speakership contest. The replies to the circulars are summarized by the Courier-Journal as follows: There are 191 Democrats in the next House. The caucus will not have more than 190. From the South come 101, East 42, North and West 53. Randall's friends claim that when Cox is out of the way 15 out of 21 New York members are for Randall. This is exaggerated, but grant it. Now give him 12 from Penn sylvania and half of the remaining 9 Eastern votes. Give him 25 from the South, the most claimed by his friends, and 5 more than he can yet, and he has 56: out of 53 in the West his most sanguine friends only expect 15, which added to 56 gives him 71, or 21 less than enough to neminate in a full caucus. Now for Carlisle's chances: We predict the following vote on second or third ballot: Alabama, 5; California, 3; Illinois, 8; Iowa, 2; Louisiana, 3; Michigan, 2; Missouri, 9; New York, (Mr. is to officiate at the marriage of a Cox not being in the race,) 12; North friend. Carolina, 3; South Carolina, 4; Texas, 8; West Virginia, 2. Arkansas, 4; Georgia, 8; Indiana, 8; Kentucky 8, Massachusetts, 2, Mississippi, 5 Nevada, 1; New Jersey, 1; Ohio, 9. Tennessee, 5; Virginia, 1 Wisconsin, 4. Total 116. Cox will probably have more votes on the first ballot than Randall; not less than 45 perhaps 50. Springer will have 7 or 8, and there may be 10 or 12 scattering. The contest may narrow down between Carlisle and Cox." This figuring lands Mr. Carlisle in the Speaker's chair without much of a contest, but we have
