THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VII. WILMINGTON, N. C., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1883. NO. 260

PLEASE NOTICE
We will be glad to receive communication from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but The name of the writer must always be funished to the Editor.
Communications must be written on one side of the paper.
Personalities must be avoided.
And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the editorial columns.

The Daily Review has the largest circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

Pagelist Sullivan has started on a trip to California.

Edwin Booth will begin his Boston engagement next Monday.

Muddy and Sankey have left Cork to begin a revival at Waterford.

Ex-Senator Tabor has just invested $250,000 in copper lands in Texas.

Gen. McClellan has decided to move to New York instead of Washington.

Valets to stand at the side of opera boxes is the latest bit of anglo-mania in New York. It came in with the new opera house.

Miss Tallmace, daughter of the Brooklyn preacher of the same name, was married in her father's Tabernacle on Thursday to Warren G. Smith.

Articles of incorporation of the United States Central railroad company, with a capital of $75,000,000, were filed Tuesday at Denver, Col., with head business offices in San Francisco.

A special from Albuquerque, N. M., says ex-Senator S. W. Dorsey, now living on his ranch in Colfax county, on Tuesday donated $5,000 to the University of New Mexico with conditions.

The Earl of Cork lodged complaint with the Montreal police that he was robbed on Saturday of a pocket-book containing a circular note for £1,000 sterling, $150 in Canadian money and valuable papers.

Robert Kerr, a dissipated member of a wealthy family of Edinburgh, Scotland, was burned to a crisp Tuesday in a house at Oak river, Manitoba, while intoxicated. He had just come into possession of a large fortune.

The Philadelphia Times, alluding to the New York Sun's favorite for the Democratic Presidential nomination, says: "If Judge Holman is not pretty himself, he has done the handsome thing by Mr. Tilden in declaring himself for the old ticket."

Gorham says the Democrats want to "riot over the grave of Republican government in America." A slight error; they want to hold a respectable funeral service over the grave of the Republican party in America. They will do it, says the Courier-Journal.

Arguing against government assuming charge of the telegraphic service of the country, the Louisville Courier-Journal is moved to say that "the Postoffice Department is a much more complete and arbitrary monopoly" than the telegraph company.

Monday morning ground was broken for the new granite mansion for Mrs.
Lucy Corneige, of Pittsburg, Pa., on the site of the historic ruins of Dungen-nes, on Cumberland Island, Ga., the former residence of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, of revolutionary fame.

On state occasions the Emperor Dom Pedro, of Brazil, wears a long cape made entirely of the breast feathers of a rare South American bird. These feathers are bright orange colored, wonderfully fine and glossy, and it takes the breasts of 100 birds to make a cape.

The Washington Post offers this poser. We are again most positively assured, by an administration organ, that "the Republican committees have never issued assessments on officeholders. They have never done any more than to solicit contributions, which it was right and proper for them to do." Then who was it that imposed on the President so far as to induce him to protest to Congress and the country against the intimidation of officeholders by campaign committees?

Miss Mary Anderson's success in London has been great. Here is an incident which accompanies a report of her appearance in the Lady of Lyons:

When the play finished nobody left his seat till the actress appeared before the curtain. Then arose shouts of enthusiasm; men waved their hats, ladies waved their handkerchiefs, while Mary Anderson stood amid the tumult bowing and blushing like a timid schoolgirl, and once raising her eyes to the box where the Prince and Princess of Wales sat applauding vigorously. It was quite a remarkable scene. When it was over there was a rush for the carriages. Into one of them stepped one of the most beautiful women in London.

"Well," said a friend at the window,
"what do you think of her?"
The beauty replied: "Exquisite! Exquisite! She is a Grace made woman."

The collection of Peter's pence in the Catholic churches of New York City last Sunday amounted to about $15,000.

An exchange suggests that when Congress meets it should agree to postpone all eulogies of deceased members until the close of the session. Good suggestion; but, says the New York World, as Congress never does anything until the holidays are over, why not use this preliminary settling time for frescoing the remains of departed greatness?

Great and Small Agree.
Mrs Mary E. Billings, of Newport, Ind., says that her little boy, Eddie, was helpless from rheumatism, and a few applications of the great pain-banisher, St. Jacobs Oil, cured him.

"A Cape Fear Tradition."
Some weeks ago we read in the State Chronicle a little sketch entitled "A Cape Fear Tradition," which purported to be an old legend of this city, wherein many years ago a traveler on what is now Third street discovered a corpse in the ground by the projection from the sand of a finger whereon was a diamond ring, and to-day we find the same thing in the Winston Sentinel.
"Egbert Earle" is the name of the writer. The whole thing is a very poor plagiarism on an article written some fifteen years ago by Col. James G. Burr, of this city, and published at the time in the Wilmington Journal and if any of our readers should come across Mr. "Egbert Earle's" production, they will readily recognize its origin.

It was suggested to Col. Burr's mind by the fact that there is a depression in the pavement in front of the Wright residence that has always remained a depression, although it has been several times filled in. His article was much longer than the imitation of it recently published and so vivid was the description in it that a number of persons, among them the late Sheriff Fennell and Mr. J. Ghost Elliott, went to see the spot, imagining that there must be some truth in the alleged legend.

Haverly's Minstrels.
The Mastodons are immense! They arrived in this city at 7:40 last evening on the train from Augusta, and after partaking of a hearty supper at Winton's Railroad Saloon, went directly to the Opera House, discoursing fine music as they marched, where they found a house already full to overflowing awaiting them. It was a few minutes after 8 o'clock when they reached the Opera House, and it was a few minutes after 9 when the curtain rose, the intervening time having been busily devoted to preparation for the fun which was to follow, and which began in earnest at the rising of the curtain and continued uninterruptedly throughout the entire performance. The instrumental music was very fine, the street band being the best we have heard in Wilmington in several years. The vocalists were good, and the delineations of negro character were excellent. The jokes were new and some of them were irresistibly funny, and the listeners were kept in a broad roar of laughter so much of the time that there was no opportunity for disorderly conduct, even had they been so disposed. Mr.
Billy Richardson gave several local "hits" which were well received and appreciated. They were all within the bounds of propriety, at which none could take offense, but which all could and did heartily enjoy.

The performance closed with the performance of the operetta entitled "The Princess of Madagascar," in three scenes, by the entire company. This was an extravaganza of considerable musical merit, and full of grotesque situations so ludicrously laughable that it is impossible to describe them. The Princess, by Mr. Paul Vernon, (Mr.
James M. Brown, a Wilmingtonian), was very well rendered, evincing fine musical as well as dramatic ability.
Messrs. Carroll Johnson, as the King, Hughy Dougherty, as the Minister, and Seamou and Girard, the two Wise Men, deserve much credit. The remaining members of the company were good.
Mr. Joseph Gulick, the efficient and courteous manager, seemed well pleased with the result of the visit of his company here, and assures us that he will return again next season. He announced the coming of the Haverly Strategists Co., in glowing terms, and hoped the people would fill the house on Monday night next. It was estimated that there were fully 1,100 in the house last night, a fact attributable in a great measure to the esteem in which Mr.
James M. Brown is held by the people of this city.

Rules for the Theatre-Goer.
As the opera and theatre season has now fully opened here and there being a number of Wilmington theatre goers who are not yet well up in the rules, we submit the following for their guidance: In the first place, always arrive late. It's fashionable. Have your seat well down in front and in the middle of the row, so that every one in the same line will have to stand up to let you pass. Make as much noise as possible in coming down the aisle, so as to distract the attention of all who may be trying to catch the opening of the plot in the play. Don't sit down immediately, but take a deliberate survey of the theatre and its occupants. Then remark to your companion—you should always have a companion—"It's not a bad house." As you finally take your seat exclaim loudly and in apparent surprise, "Why, they've commenced." The audience may not have previously observed this fact and will be grateful for the information. By this time every one in the theatre will have noticed you, and those who are fortunate enough to be in your immediate neighborhood will be quite glad you've come.

As the play proceeds keep up a running commentary on the characters and dialogue. If the piece is one you have seen before you will have an excellent opportunity to anticipate the characters on the stage in the development of the plot, by telling your companion what they are going to say and do. Invariably go out between the acts. It's the "proper capah" and affords those who have to rise in allowing you to pass an opportunity to stretch themselves, for which they are truly grateful. Don't return until some moments after the curtain is up, and then repeat the noise and bustle you made on your first entrance. You will be rewarded by a look of intense relief on the face of every person round your vicinity, who began to fear you would not return.
The welcome smile with which they greet you will amply recompense you for any feeling of ennuj the performance may entail.

As the play nears its conclusion, and just as everyone interested in it desires perfect quiet, rise and begin moving out, otherwise you may have to wait until the ladies in your row get to the aisle, and that would be "deuced slow." The people near you won't mind your going—and may possibly regret that you didn't do it sooner.

Result of the Reformation.
As was announced at the lecture on Friday, in St. Paul's Evangelical Luthieran Church, the sermon to be preached in that church at 11 A. M. to-morrow, in English, will treat of the above named theme.

As Organist.
Mr. James D. Smithdeal has accepted the position of organist of St. Paul's Luthieran Church for the coming year, and will commence his term of service to-morrow. We congratulate the choir upon their acquisition, with the regret that they have not a first class pipe organ for their beautiful church-upon which Mr. Smithdeal could display his rare musical ability and make that position of Divine worship rank with the best in the city.

Our Strategists.
The Raleigh News and Observer, in speaking of the above-named play, which is to be presented at the Opera House in this city next Monday night, says:

A better company never occupied Tucker Hall as was evinced by the hearty applause that greeted them. All the actors sustained their parts with credit to themselves. The imitation songs and poem of Mr. Will Bray were immense. The songs and dances of Mr. Hager, the Irish comedian, are good, and elicited great applause. The company at the close of the third act were encored and called before the curtain. Go and see them and you never will regret it.
During the second act the manager had the curtain lowered while the procession escorting the remains of the Confederate dead from Arlington was passing the hall, thus giving those who desired an opportunity of seeing the procession. This graceful act was appreciated, and will long be remembered by those present.

The average speculator is nothing if not shrewd. Haying worked the Con-
