The Daily Review has the largest circulation, of any newspaper published, in the city of Wilmington.

Great preparations are in progress in New York for the celebration of evacuation day.

Noah Bishop, aged 88, a soldier of the war of 1812, died at Woodbury, Conn., last Sunday.

The grand jury of Kingston, Canada, has declared that the testimony of agriculturists should not be received in court.

The corn crop of 1883 is estimated at 100,000 bushels, the largest, with one exception, ever grown in the United States.

Barn burners are developing great activity in the vicinity of Corunna, Indiana, and the farmers are forming vigilance committees.

The Secretary of War has authorized the use of the army barracks at Savannah, Ga., for the shelter of people made homeless by the recent fire.

Augusta Ahrens, a beautiful girl about fifteen years old, disappeared from her home in Chicago October 9th and has not been heard from since. The police are investigating the matter.

Hon. Randall Gibson, U. S. Senator-elect from Louisiana, whom the Sunday papers locate in Europe, has been in Washington with his family since Thursday last, making arrangements for the coming session.

The Postmaster-General has dismissed from the service Postoffice Inspector Amos P. Foster, for rendering to the department false and fictitious accounts. He was stationed at Austin, Texas, and it was found that he was rendering accounts for per diem services which he never performed.

The Postmaster General has issued an order fixing the salaries of all postoffice inspectors at $1,600, and that of General L. Seybold, San Francisco, and W. T. Henderson, Washington division, superintendents, at $3,500. This order is in consequence of the one issued on Saturday discontinuing the per diem allowance.

Senator Gorman, chairman of the Maryland Democratic Committee, contends that the scare given his party by the energetic effort of the Republicans to capture the State has been beneficial to the Democracy. He says it aroused the Democrats and incited 9,000 more of them to register than was on the poll last year.

The New York Sun says: Go to any custom house, postoffice or internal revenue office in any State in which there is to be any election this Fall, and they will find that every government employee there has been called upon to contribute to the campaign fund. If he refuses it is at his peril. The contribution is as voluntary as that of a man who gives up his purse to a polite road agent.

At an immense mass meeting held in Lynchburg on Monday, according to a special to the Petersburg Index-Appel, the following resolutions, introduced by Gen. Jubal A. Early, were adopted:

Resolved, That we heartily sympathize with our fellow-citizens of Danville in their struggle against the domination of the negro race under the lead of renegade white men whose hearts are as black as the skins of their unfortunate dupes, and we assure our said fellow-citizens of the white race, not only of our sympathy with them in their present struggle, but of our material and physical support whenever that becomes necessary.

Resolved, That we are in favor of granting and securing to the colored people all of their just rights, and to treat them not only with justice, but with kindness and forbearance, but they must know that they are to behave themselves and keep in their proper places.

Resolved, That we are determined to have a "free ballot and a fair count," and we are to the man or set of men, who undertake to defraud us in the exercise of this, our inalienable right.

General Early, in Mahone severely, speaking of him as "a travesty to the human race" and a skulking coward.

Hon. John Callahan, Judge First District Court, New York, and the Right Reverend Bishop Gilmour, Cleveland, Ohio, have used St. Jacobs Oil and endorse it.

Turner's Almanac promises frost for to-morrow morning.

The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 1,092 bales.

There was nothing doing before the City Court this morning.

The moon completes its first quarter this evening at 6:50 o'clock.

This has been a severely dull day in which to gather news items.

A fine assortment of Guns and Pistols at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

Rev. F. W. E. Peschau, of this city, is to deliver his address on "The Cemetery of the Sea," in Charlotte next Monday night.

Mr. James C. Munds left here last night for New York, for the purchase of holiday goods. He will be absent about a week.

We were pleased to receive a call this afternoon from Mr. Joseph G. Bromell, editor of our sprightly cotemporary, the Martin County Times, published at Williamston in this State.

A thorough analysis of the phosphate rock at Rocky Point, recently excavated, goes to show that it is a really valuable deposit, and can easily be made beneficial as a fertilizer.

Mr. A. D. Wessell has for rent two very desirable stores opposite the New Market. They are provided with conveniences for a country trade in addition to attractions for a city business. Read his adv. elsewhere.

Mr. C. G. Crowell has opened a shooting gallery on Market street, near Front, where those who desire to practice with the pistol or the gun will be accommodated. Mr. Crowell's rates, it strikes us, are very low—three shots for five cents.

A Scare.

While a number of boys were practicing in the shooting gallery, on the North side of Market street, this afternoon, a portion of the plastering overhead fell with a crash. In its descent it struck one of the boys quite a severe blow on the head. Fortunately no one else was injured, although they were all badly frightened, as we should judge from the lively manner in which they tumbled out on to the sidewalk.

The Opera House

To-morrow night Mr. Charles L. Davis' "Alvin Joslin" Comedy Co., will appear at the Opera House. Mr. Davis will assume the title role of Alvin Joslin, which is a richly amusing character, replete with fun and laughable situations from beginning to end. It is a genuine Yankee character and is full of the odd expressions of a regular provincial Yankee, and that Mr. Davis does justice to the part is evidenced by the success which has attended him. He will be accompanied by his own band of music, which is said to be one of the very best on the road. When here on a previous occasion, Mr. Davis had a crowded house, and we presume that he will have the same happy experience to-morrow night.

The Acme Company.

We find in the Charleston Observer, the following reference to the Acme Manufacturing Company, located at Crony, near this city:

One of the new industries developed along the Carolina Central road this year is the shipment of cotton stalks by the farmers to the Acme Manufacturing Company, near Wilmington, where they are worked up into paper stock, ropes, etc. It is a paying business for the farmers and they are going into it on a wholesale basis. Cotton stalks have always been a nuisance on the farms, and if the farmers ever considered anything altogether no account and worthless, it was cotton stalks. They could not be burned, and after every picking season the farmers would have considerable work ahead of them in clearing their fields of the stalks. This was generally done by walking through the fields and beating the stalks down with sticks, if our idea of farming is correct. The farmers now gather these stalks in bundles and haul them to the depots, where they are shipped to the mills. We could not learn the price paid for the stalks, but it is enough to give the farmers big profits. They are at no expense whatever, and no trouble except in gathering the stalks and hauling them to the depots. Beaver Dam alone has shipped several car loads this Fall.

Esmeralda.

Mr. Charles E. Blanchett, representing the Madison Square Theatre Co., of New York, is in the city to-day making arrangements for the presentation of that popular drama, Esmeralda, which will be given at the Opera House on the night of next Wednesday, the 14th inst. The company is a strong one in every particular and the play, the plot and scenes of which are laid principally in North Carolina, is one of the most enchanting which has ever been presented to a Wilmington audience.

Delegates to Convention.

At a meeting of the Vestry of St. James' Church, held last night, the following were elected delegates to the convention of the new Episcopal Diocese, which meets in Newbern on December 12th, viz:

Delegates—Dr. A. J. DeRosset, Col. J. G. Burr and Messrs. A. H. VanBokkelen and Wm. Calder.

Alternates—R. E. Calder, J. H. Boatwright, Dr. Thos. F. Wood and Jas. C. Munds.

A Caution.

A physician in this city was called upon to visit a family here, and while in the house saw a little child with the hand of a doll baby in its mouth. The doctor called the attention of the mother to the fact and advised her to prevent it. The doll at his request was then given to him as he wished to analyze the paint which he saw upon its hand. He took it to his office and after making a test found the basis of the paint to be acetate of lead, a deadly poison. At his suggestion we make the fact known as a caution to mothers and nurses to prevent children from placing such things in their mouths.

Personal.

Col. H. B. Short, of Columbus, was in the city to-day, having just returned here from a somewhat prolonged trip to New York. He intended to go as far as Boston and "take in" the Exposition, but the weather continued so unfavorable that he became disgusted and sought the more genial climate of North Carolina.

Mr. Orin T. Thomas, the artist, who has been in New York for several months, returned to this city last night looking in first rate health. He informs us that he has come to stay and will devote himself to his art here.

Irish Repartee.

The following anecdote, illustrative of Irish wit, was recently told us by a distinguished son of North Carolina, who was present and heard the conversation:

"Just after the first battle of Manassas" said the gentleman, "I was in Richmond, Va., organizing my command when the Federal prisoners captured at that battle were brought in. Among them was an Irishman and he soon discovered among my command a compatriot when he had known intimately in the old country, and after a hearty recognition the Federal prisoner said, 'Now, Pat, what for would ye be fighter agin' theould flag?' to which Pat promptly replied by asking 'An' I'd loike to know for what yez would be fightin' agin' the new one?'"

The New Time.

A good many of our people have no idea what sort of time it is we are to have shortly and for their benefit we submit these explanations by Dr. Powell of the naval observatory: "The change of local time for Washington, recommended by the naval observatory, is in pursuance of the general plan for uniform time as correlated by hour meridians throughout the civilized world. For many years scientific men have been urging this measure, associations have been organized for the purpose of securing it and committees appointed by scientific bodies, perhaps in every civilized State. The plan will be of great value in the collection and comparison of scientific observations that depend upon time. From the standard of scientific research, therefore, it is greatly desired. The local change in Washington will be advantageous to all business men and to all who travel by rail." Upon this indorsement Secretary Teller informed the Secretary of the Navy that he would be glad to adopt the new time, which is understood to be 8 minutes, 6 seconds faster than the present local time, and the change will go into effect on November 18.

We are having remarkably fine weather and beautiful moonlight nights just now.

THE ELECTIONS.

New York and Virginia Gone Democratic—Massachusetts and Connecticut Republican—The Returns Incomplete as Yet.

The result of yesterday's elections has been the absorbing topic of interest to-day, and the meagre returns thus far received have but served to still further whet the anxiety to hear more. A mass of matter relative to the elections has, it is true, been received, but it deals only in the returns from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and Virginia. These returns give details of the vote by counties, cities and townships and are positively in this way devoid of interest. What the people at a distance want to know is the aggregate result as made up for them without their being compelled themselves to wade through a mass of uninteresting details to get at the facts.—Therefore we say that the returns, as thus far received, indicate the success of the Republican ticket in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and that of the Democratic ticket in New York and Virginia. Butler has been defeated by the aid of the old line Democratic vote in Massachusetts which could not tolerate such pinback Democracy as was presented to them in the person of B. F. Butler, surnamed the Beast. So far as heard from, in Massachusetts, 232 towns and cities give Butler 124,404 votes and Robinson 129,807. The same towns in 1882 gave 112,100 for Butler and 93,591 for his opponent. Butler is undoubtedly dead politically, and there were not many mourners at the funeral. We have not a tear to shed for him.

In Connecticut there have been large Republican gains, and it is estimated that there will be a Republican majority of 40 on joint ballot in the Legislature.

In New York the result seems as yet somewhat in doubt, although we look on the election there of the Democratic ticket with a majority in the Legislature as an accomplished fact. Maynard may be defeated, but the balance of the ticket is probably elected. Hendrix, it is said, defeated Lowe, Republican, for Mayor of Brooklyn.

The best news of all, however, comes from Virginia, which has surely gone Democratic. The late is told in the following special from Richmond:

RICHMOND, Nov. 7, 10 A. M.
There was a very quiet election here but a large vote was polled. The Democratic ticket is elected in the city by 2611 majority. The democrats have carried every city in the State, but Petersburg and Norfolk. General Wickham is elected to the Senate from Hanover and Carolina and Warwick is probably elected to the Senate from Chesterfield, Powhatan and Goochland. The indications are that the Democrats have carried the State by a small majority in which event they will probably control both branches of the General Assembly.

The Approaching Comet.

An astronomical observer caught a glimpse of the new comet several nights since, but as it was only a few minutes in an opening in the cloudy sky, time was not afforded for measurements of brightness and dimensions. Prof. Carmael says the nucleus was not well defined, but a tail was perceptible apparently a few minutes in length. This comet, which was discovered September 5th by Prof. Brooks in the constellation Draco, is still in the same constellation, but is brighter for its distance from the earth than it was at the same distance during its last appearance in 1812. It is still in the constellation in which it was first noticed, and is making but slow progress across the heavens, and but slowly increasing in brightness. Its further path from its present position in the northwest heavens will be across Lyra and Cygnus and Pegasus, till about the end of January, it appears below the horizon in the South. It will reach perihelion, the point in its orbit nearest the sun, on January 25, when it will be about 60,000,000 miles from the earth. It will be visible to the naked eye about the middle of December, and will rapidly increase in brightness after the end of November. Although it will be brighter than at its last appearance, it will not be nearly as prominent an object in the heavens as the great comets of last year and 1881. The comet reached perihelion September 15, 1812; and the interval between them and January 25, its next perihelion, will be 71.5 years. Calculations made in 1812 predicted its return in 70.6 years, so that our present celestial visitor is overdue nearly nine tenths of a year—certainly not a very surprising lameness in a visitor who calls so seldom.
