

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

Calvert, Texas, May 3, 1882. I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

As a cough remedy. "While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases.

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

One swallow doesn't make a summer, of course, but one such snow as we were favored with yesterday goes far, very far, toward making a winter.

The first of the season, it was hailed with delight. The ground was, for a wonder, in just the condition to receive it, being hard frozen.

The fall began at 8 o'clock in the morning, and continued, without intermission, until 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

By that time some three inches lay upon a level. The clouds partly broke away, the sun poked out, but soon hid his face behind heavier clouds.

At 5 o'clock a very heavy fall began, and in an hour nearly an inch more fell. At 6 this ceased, a band of red deepened and broadened in the West, and soon the moon gleamed coldly white upon a snowy world.

All day the temperature had been below the freezing point. Not a flake of snow melted. In the evening the mercury fell steadily and at midnight was twenty degrees, twelve degrees below the freezing point.

The jingle of the sleigh bells was heard all the afternoon and evening, and the small boy with his sled and goat was numerous. The frostwork on the window-panes assumed fantastic forms.

This morning will make palaces out of Fayetteville street stores if it is the most beautiful snow that ever fell here.

But we look upon the bright beautiful side of it. There is an unpleasant aspect, too. For the poor have no appreciation of snows and their attendant cold weather.

Fayetteville Observer.

ON THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8th, 1884 the undersigned will revive the publication of the FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

The OBSERVER will be a large 28 column weekly newspaper, and will be mailed to subscribers, postage paid, at $2 per annum, always in advance. It will give the news of the day in a simple form as space will permit, and both regular and occasional correspondents will contribute letters from the Capital on State politics and affairs.

Democratic in politics, the OBSERVER will labor, first of all, to assure the prosperity of the Town of Fayetteville, to develop the vast agricultural resources of its own and the neighboring counties, and to promote all that concerns the welfare of the people of North Carolina.

Opposed to such innovations on the homely ways of our fathers as, in the guise of progress, harm society, the OBSERVER will be found in full sympathy with the new things born of the changed condition of the South, which sound judgment or enlightened experience find to be also good.

As to the rest, it will strive to deserve the reputation of the name it inherits. R. J. HALE, JR. Feb 10
