The Daily Review. SLIPPED AWAY.

They are slipping away-these sweet, swift years, Like a leaf on the current east, With never a break in their rapid flow, We watch them as one by one they go Into the beautiful past. As silent and swift as a weaver's thread Or an arrow's flying gleam; As soit as the languorous breezes hid, That lift the willow's long golden lid, And ripple the glassy stream.

As light as the breath of the thistle down,

As loud as a lover's dream; As pure as the flush in the sea shell's throat, As sweet as the wood bird's wooing

So tender and sweet they seem.

One after another we see them pass, Down the dim lighted stair, We hear the sound of their steady tread, In the steps of the centuries long since dead.

As beautiful and as fair.

There are only a few years left to love; Shall we waste them in idle strife? Shall we trample under our ruthless

Those beautiful blossoms, rare and sweet; By the dusky way of life?

There are only a lew more years-ah

No envious taunts be heard; Make life's fair pattern of rare design, And fill the measure with love's sweet wine, But never an augry word.

> N. Y. World. THE CONVENT FIRE.

Twenty-Six of the Inmates Perish in the Flames.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., January 6 .- St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Convent here, known as the Institute of the Immaculate Conception and conducted by the Sisters of Notre Dame, was burned to the ground last night and twenty-six persons perished in the flames or were kitled by jumping from windows. The fire had its origin in a furnace in the southwest corner of the basement, and when discovered the floor immediately above the furnace was ablaze and vol umes of smoke were rapidly pouring through the stairways, corridors and hal s of the building. By the time the sleepers were thoroughly aroused the $1. Druggists. atmosphere had become suffocating and all avenues of ascape filled with blinding smoke. In the building there were grain silk. sixty pupils, all girls from ten years to adult age, several teachers and a number of other inmates, and an attempt was made by the Sisters to extinguish the flames and, this failing, efforts were made to save the pupils. The fire spread so rapidly, however, that order could not be preserved, and a panic seized both the children and Sisters, all making a wild, confused rush to escape. The firemen reached the scene after some delay, but the extreme cold weather necessarily retarded their work, and even if they had arrived much earlier they could have been of but little service in rescuing the victims, as there are no ladders in the department, and no provision for escape had been made by the managers of the institution. The unfortunate inmates were therefore powerless to relieve themselves.

and those who were witnesses of the horrible holocaust were powerless to assist them. The first relay of firemen to reach the scene broke in the convent doors and made for the third story of the building, which is used as a dormi tory. The screams of the children and the Sisters could be heard above the crackling of the fire, but the firemen could not open the doors of the dormitory, for they were locked, and in the excitement no one knew who had the keys. Bars of iron from a neighboring blacksmith shop were brought in by the firemen and used as battering rams, but even before these the doors would not give way. The smoke soon drove the firemen out of the halls and the girls locked in the rooms were told to take to the windows.

Amid all the excitement it was not known how many had perished, but when the summing up came this morning twenty-six were found missing and thirteen bodies were recovered from the ruins during the day. The bodies could only be identified by the shreds of clothing that were not burned.

What it Did For an Old Lady. COSHOCTON STATION. N. Y ..

Dec. 28, 1878. GENTS-A number of people had been using your Bitters here, and with marked effect. In one case, a lady of over seventy years had been sick for years, and for the past ten years has not been able to be around half the time. About six months ago she got so feeble that she was helpless. Her old remedies, or physicians, being of no avail I sent to Deposit, forty-five miles away, and got a bottle of Hop Bitters. It improved her so she was able to dress herself and walk about the house. When she had taken the second battle she was able to take care of her own room and walk out to a neighbor's, and has improved all the time since. My wife and children have also derived great benefit from their use.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884. About sixty million coples of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment during the past twelve months. If you were to paste end to end all the columns of all THE SUNS printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrire, and sane with long enough to reach from Printing House square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the moon, then back to Printing House square, and then three-quar ters of the way back to the moon again .. But THE SUN is Written for the inhabitants of the earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty seven or twenty-eight times. If every buyer of a copy of THE BUN during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or his grandfather has spent another hour, this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or at its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

THE SUN is, and will continue to be, a news paper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no mater how much the process costs, which pre sents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which there fore believes that the Republican party must go, and must go in this coming year of our Lord, 1884

If you know THE SUN, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know THE SUN, it is high time to get into
