STATE NEWS.

News and Observer: It appears that in the State this month no less than five persons were trozen to death. The fact will go upoa record; as such a cause of death in this latitude is cer tainly phenomenal.

Greensboro Patriof: Capt Fred H Sinh, of Thomasville, was here Monday and reports having quite recently made a sale of valuable copper and silver property in Person county, near the Geo. W. Williams & Co. Yancey mine. Under Captain Stith's supervision some prospecting was done. and in order to establish the true value of the property discovered some shafts Harburg, Ger, Paterson, Downing & were sunk which disclosed very rich Co orgentifetous gray copper ores. Upon hisereport a capitalist faom Pittsboro. Penn, was induced to visit and examine the property, which fully confirmed the truth of his representations.

Kinston Journal: Messrs. Smith and Clay, of Pennsylvania, arrived here last Saturday on a bird hunt. The first hunt resulted in Smith's accident ty shooting Clay; one shot entered just above the eye ball, another between the eyes, a third in the left bleek, a tourth in the left car and a titth in the hand It is feared that the left eye is destroyed. It is said that Col. Clay claims to bave been in command of the regiment, that burned the bridge at White Hall in December, 1862. Jesse Davis, a colored man employed to go with the bird hunters received a slight wound with Charlotte Observer: In this city yes terday at noon, at the residence of Mrs Fink, on B street, Mr. W. E Moffatt, of Chester, S C,, was married to Miss Mattie Motley, of this city. Rev. J. T. Bagwell, of Tryon Street Methodist Church, performed the ceremony, and the happy pair departed for their future home in Chester. -In front of Baumgarten's photograph gallery, two pictures of two good citizens of this county are displayed, one of which is labeled 'before the war." They are pictures of Dr. H. J. Walker and Mr. L. J. Walker, one of Walker and Mr. L. J. Walker, one of whom is now a prominent physician of Mecklenburg, and the other of whom is a prominent merchant of Charlotte.

The picture taken before the war represents them as two beardless youths, with classed hands wearing Confederate uniform. In the picture taken after the war they appear just the same after the war they appear in the picture taken before the war represents them as two beardless youths, with classes the war they appear in the picture taken before the war they appear in the picture taken before the war they appear in the picture taken before the war they appear after the war, they appear just the same, except that both have beards and the left leg of each is gone. This coinci-dence of legs is not without its advant-ages, as will be illustrated by this incident: A few days previous to Mr L J Walker's marriage, he had the misfortune to break his wooden leg and was thus placed in an awkward dilemma, but found his way out of it by calling on Dr Walker, whose leg he borrowed, and the wedding passed happily. Brave soldiers they were, these Walker brothers. They are good citizens, too, and our county people hold both of them in
