A few words will clear away the mystery. We sell low because one system of buying enables us to procure the largest bulk of goods lower than can be manufactured; next, the low expense in proportion to the vast amount of business we do allows us to sell at a very small trifle above what the goods cost, Our system is very simple; and these words explain all. We wish the public to understand that we do not advertise goods in a fictitious way, telling you that our goods are worth double what we ask for them; but we claim what we do and do what we claim; and we do most decid-dly claim that the goods we are offering are below the prices asked elsewhere. Harper's Bazar is at once the most brilliant and useful Household Journal in existence. It is the acknowledged arbiter of fashion in this country. Its fashion plates are the newest and most stylish; and its pattern sheet supplements and econamic suggestions alone are worth many times the cost of subscription. Its illustrations of art needlework are from the best sources. Its literary and artistic merits are of the highest order. Its stories, poems, and essays are by the first American and European authors. Its choice art pictures would fill portfolios, and its humorous cuts are the most amusing to be found in any journal in America. A host of brilliant novelties are promised for 1884: NEW CROP CUBA MOLASSES.
