Assistant Bishop Potter, of York, and nearly all the Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this country, expect to go to Scotland to assist at Aberdeen in the centennial celebration of the consceration of Bishop Seabury, of Connecticut, the first American Bishop. The actual conseeration was in November, 1784, but October 5 and 6 have been selected for the celebration so as to give the Bishops invited from this country a pleasant and safer month in which to cross the

Speaking of Gen. Gordon, the London Spectator remarks that he is the one Englishman thoroughly acquainted with the Soudan, and adds that he "absolutely disinterested and fear.ess, and has three further qualifications seldom united in a man of his type; he is one of those Europeans, never yet accounted for, who exercise a personal ascendancy over Asiatics and Africans which seems to be irresistible and selfderived, and which makes of the most treacherous and cowardly of mankind soldiers as well as lead them, and that out of materials as bad as Clive's jailbirds or Lally's gallery slaves; and he has no hesitation whatever in inflicting the only penalty which Orientals feardeath. The sole clause of the Constitution of the United State in regard to the currency is the following: "The Congress shall have power"-for various other spe eified objects and-"to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights have been left by carriers, and bring and measures." Commenting on this the New York Mail says: "When the Supreme Court can extract from this negative provision against the issue of paper money the unlimited authority to issue paper money, no limit can be placed on its capacity to 'explain away or nullify every old and hitherto sacred a resolution to swear off and tailed in safeguard, restraint and restriction in the Constitution. The written Constitution of the United States is of no more certainty or binding power than the unwritten Constitution of England and Congress is as 'omnipotent' as Par liament. The New York Mail is a Republican paper. It has seen a violence offered to the Constitut on in earlier days than these and it has never before raised its voice to protest against the outrage There is no politics, no South, no bloody shirt in this currency matter and the Mail is now moved to speak its mind Hence these tears!

was he that, although he had many opportunities to take holidays, he aad not been absent from his desk for eleven years. He attended faithully to duty, and thought that to spend a day in recreation would be a sinful waste of time. Despite constantly increasing weakness he stuck o.h.s post, when he ought to have been at home, resting and gaining strength. He grew weaker and weaker, until at last he had to stay away from his work altogether, and give up his position. He is dead.

Had this poor little book-keeper used Brown's Iron Bitters, he might have kept his position longer, and possibly have saved his life. His case was one of dreadful debility; the debility which undermines the founty which goes hand in hand with disease, and which leads down to death and the grave. He was poory nourished; in fact hardly nourished at all. His digestive machinery was so disordered that the food he ate did not assimilate and form good blood. What blood he had was poor and thin. There was nothing vigorous about him. Now this fraction of the party. was perhaps an extreme case; but there are many debilitated people going down, down, down, just as this
