The Daily Review has the largest bona fide circulation of any newspaper published in the city of Wilmington.

We publish to-day some more extracts from the News and Courier relative to the Cash expedition. It will be seen that the old murderer is in jail and that the younger one is still in the swamp. A writ of habeas corpus was to have been set out by the former yesterday but with doubtful success. The charges against him are formidable, not only necessary after the fact of murder, which is a penitentiary offense, but necessary before the murder, which is death. Here is the latest of interest:

CHERAW, March 10.—Since yesterday I have been on the track of letters from the Cashes in regard to the murder of Richards. To-day State Constable Keibourg obtained them by formal demand and will submit them to the Governor. I have made the following exact copies of the letters, which are both addressed to Mr. John T. Agerton of Chertaw:

LETTER FROM W. BOGGAN CASH. CASH'S DEPOT, S. C., Feb. 26, 1884. Dear Friend: I received the message sent me through Mr. King Timmons, and beg to assure you that I have no ill feeling in the world towards you for what you said against me. I know that men are apt to say and do under excitement that which they would be unwilling to do upon reflection. I am glad that you are willing to give me a fair hearing. I have no regret whatever for shooting Richards, and hope that he may die. My only regret is the accidental wounding of Mr. Coward, who, I am proud to hear, is now on the mend. Truly yours, BOGGAN CASH. LETTER FROM COL. E. B. C. CASH. CASH'S DEPOT, S. C., Feb. 28, 1884.

My Dear Friend: Madison has told me that you are under the impression that Boggan and I are angry with you. We are not angry with you nor have we been angry with you at any time. We know how natural it is for all to sympathize with a fellow who gets "the hot end of a poker," and men are apt to make remarks before they stop to inquire into all the particulars. If Boggan had not killed Richards I would have done it on the same day he was shot, and if he had recovered I intended to kill him on sight. We have heard from five hundred people and there is almost universal rejoicing over the act, and we have heard of only three men who condemn the deed. Of course our enemies will try to blow, but we ask no sort of odds. Yours truly, E. B. C. CASH.

These letters furnish abundant proof that Col. E. B. C. Cash was an accessory to the murder of Richards. The sentiments expressed in his letter were reiterated by him in the presence of myself and others yesterday. He said that if Boggan had not killed Richards he himself would have killed him within six hours; that Richards ought to have died, &c. When his arms were taken from him yesterday he told Capt. Richbourg that he intended to hold the Governor responsible for the outrage. "You have a strong force," said he, "and we are weak one, but we intend to use the match box." When the early morning call was made upon him Col. Cash hospitably set out a jug of corn whiskey, and insisted upon members of the party joining him in drinking. Later in the day he had drunk too much, and when he was taken on the train for transportation to Columbia the Colonel was quite drunk and very sick. He kept up a running fire of such expressions as these: "You have your forty men, but they have to take water." "Not one of them will dare to stand up before me at ten paces." "I dare any of them to meet me at ten paces." Early in the day Col. Cash was quite affable and courteous. After his arrest he became embittered. He admitted during the day that he had attempted to escape from the house in order to warn Boggan to leave. A notable feature of Colonel Cash's conversation was the frequent allusion he made to his "Sacred Honor."

Col. Cash was at times quite frank. He said to one of the party that if he had succeeded in getting out he would have given us "hell," but that Mr. Pearson got the drop on him too quickly. After Col. Cash's declarations of his fighting qualities it excited surprise and amusement in Chertaw that he should have dropped his weapons so quickly when he found he was covered by Mr. Pearson's rifle. In many ways Col. Cash's reputation as a hero and fire-eater has suffered from the experience of the last two days. The Colonel read to some of his captives a letter which he had prepared for publication in regard to the murder of Richards. In the letter he exhibited his usual freedom of expression. One sentence in regard to the Governor was that he had "never known a Thompson who was worth a damn." The Governor's active measures for the capture of Boggan evidently did not suit Boggan's father.

FLORENCE, March 10.—Solicitor Newton, who is here, has received a telegram from R. C. Watts, one of the counsel for Col. Cash, now in Columbia, that he will sue out a writ of habeas corpus before the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to-morrow to "inquire into the illegal detention and arrest" of E. B. C. Cash. The attorney-general has also been notified. The solicitor, who is now engaged in getting up the evidence, will go to Columbia. Under the rules of practice the officer who is served with the rule has three days in which to make a return. At a late hour, Capt. Richbourg, who had submitted a plan for the further prosecution of the campaign, received a telegram from Governor Thompson

VOL. VIII. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12, 1884. NO. 61

To disprove the allegation that Samuel J. Tilden refused to lend financial aid in Hancock's contest, the New York Sun publishes abstracts from the Democratic campaign account book. Among the contributions were the following: Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, $51,500; W. H. Baraam, of Connecticut, $40,000; W. L. Scott, of Pennsylvania, $43,000; Henry B. Payne, of Ohio, $20,000; Oliver H. Payne, of Ohio, $31,000; W. J. Gordon of Ohio, $5,000.

Business was miserably dull on the wharves to-day.

The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 185 bales.

Nor. barque Telemach, Andersen, hence, arrived at London Mar. 8th.

Nor. barque Camilla, Sorensen, hence, for Hamburg, was off Dover, Mar. 8th.

Swed. barque Adolph Fredholm, Paulsen, hence, for Hamburg, arrived at Deal Mar. 9th.

The storm signal was flying again this morning, and there were clouds of dust to keep it company. It was an uncomfortable time for pedestrians.

Mr. Robert Henning, formerly of this city, but now of Richmond, has been here for a day or two past on a brief visit. He returns to Richmond to-night.

Business was distressingly dull at the City Hall this morning. One little case of disorderly conduct for the consideration of the Mayor pro tem was all the business before the City Court, and there were no traps applied for lodgings last night.

We are requested to state that the hour of commencing the Thursday night services at the First Presbyterian Church has been changed from 7:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The regular Sunday services commence at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

From Mr. Geo. M. Crapon, the South Front street grocer, we have received a can of grated pineapples, put up in Nassau and imported into this country. It is intended for pies, ice-cream, &c., and we are prepared to pronounce it delicious, for we have tried it.

Mr. John Taylor, of "Taylor's Bazaar" expects to leave for the Northern markets in a few days, where he will select a large stock of Spring and Summer goods, in consequence of which he will make a great reduction in prices for his goods now on hand. See ad.

The pavers are making good headway in their work on North Water street. They have paved from the beginning at Market street clear through and across Princess street, and are working now between the latter and Chestnut street, and have already covered a considerable portion of the distance.

A correspondent of the London Electrician says the following is an instant remedy for toothache: With a small piece of zinc and a bit of silver (any silver coin will do,) the zinc placed on one side of the afflicted gum and the silver on the other, by bringing the edges together the small current of electricity generated immediately and painlessly stops the toothache.

"Strictly Business."
Mr. W. F. Johnson, the upholster and paper hanger, has returned to the city and he has come to "stay." His place of business is at No. 28 North Front street, where he may be found during business hours. He has a patent machine for picking curled hair for mattresses with which he can take the dust and kinks out of an old hair mattress much quicker than we can tell it. See ad.

Cure and comfort centre in St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-relieving and healing remedy.

We invite the attention of our citizens to the fact that first quality shirts are being made to order at one dollar at the Wilmington Shirt Factory.

Now is the time to give Smith's Worm Oil.

Young Mrs. Winthrop.

The beautiful domestic play, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," teaches husbands not to allow even business considerations to cause them to forget those duties which are due the home-circle, and it teaches wives that, after all, the world of fashion has nothing to take the place of the homelies and associations.

Theatrical.
Mlle. Rhea, who will appear at the Opera House on Friday, the 14th inst., has made a wonderful success in America, and has created the greatest enthusiasm wherever she has appeared. President Arthur, before whom she played at Washington, said: "On the stage and in society Mlle. Rhea is one of the most entertaining ladies whom I have ever met."

Exports Foreign.
Swed. barque Mentor, Perrson, cleared to-day for Riga, Russia, with 2,610 bbls rosin, valued at $4,000, shipped by Messrs Alex Sprunt & Son. Nor. barque Deodata, Andersen, cleared for Hamburg with 3,264 bbls rosin, valued at $4,818, shipped by Messrs Paterson, Downing & Co. Dan. barque Helgesen, Arelsen, cleared for Liverpool with 2,028 bbls rosin and 500 bbls tar, valued at $3,900, shipped by Messrs Alex Sprunt & Son; making the total value of exports foreign amount to $12,718.

Purim Ball.
At a little after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the children of Jewish parents in the city, accompanied by proper protectors, assembled at Germania Hall and introduced the festivities of the Purim Ball by a series of literary exercises, followed by dancing and a supper which had been expressly prepared for them. The supper being finished and the juveniles having had a season of innocent amusement they were conveyed to their homes. At about 8 o'clock p. m., the ladies and gentlemen of that race came into the hall and enjoyed the fleeting hours, until morning, in the merry dance. The Italian harpers furnished the music for the occasion. It was a season of pleasure which all the participants enjoyed to the utmost. There was nothing to mar the happiness of the throng and, taken altogether, it was one of the most delightful and successful entertainments imaginable.

Public Meeting.
In accordance with previous announcement there was a meeting held in the Mayor's office at the City Hall last night, to listen to a speech from Col. B. L. Pardee, staff correspondent of the New Haven Palladium, who has been in the State since the first of January, during which time he has devoted his time mainly to the resources, possibilities and advantages of Eastern North Carolina. There was a fair attendance composed of our best business men and prominent citizens. Col. Pardee occupied about three quarters of hour in giving his views, which he did in an interesting, practical, conversational manner, without any effort or attempt at oratory. The speaker had studied his subject thoroughly and was able to present his ideas in such a way as to win the attention and interest of his auditors who were instructed by what he said and much pleased with his method of impressing his views upon his listeners. He spoke of the enthusiasm in regard to the South, and this State in particular, which had been awakened in the North in consequence of the displays at the Atlanta, Ga., and Boston, Mass., expositions and dwelt with much pride upon the contributions made by our own State to the latter. He also spoke of the importance of the coming State Exposition at Raleigh, and urged the necessity of having every county and township represented then by its products, so that those from the North who should attend would be able to form an adequate idea of the resources of the different sections.

At the close of Col. Pardee's remarks the following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That because the State Exposition, to be held at Raleigh next October, gives promise of being an instrumentality of great value to the future of North Carolina, it is the manifest duty of the people of every city and county of our Commonwealth to lend it a helping hand.

Resolved, That the civic authorities of Wilmington and the commissioners of New Hanover county are hereby requested to take such early action as shall make certain a complete display of the natural resources and industrial advantages of the territory within their respective jurisdictions.

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be and are hereby returned to Col. Pardee for his excellent and instructive address.

Many Years Ago.

The finding of a number of old wharf logs at the foot of Dock street yesterday afternoon, by the workmen engaged at work there, evidences that many years ago the line of the wharf was not what it is now. This is a fact neither of a startling nor of a very interesting nature as one may go farther back than that and think of the time when there were no docks and no wharves anywhere about this burg. But it is interesting to note some facts which are still within the memory of a few—a very few, alas!—now living. A gentleman resident here, who can remember as far back as 1810, tells us that in that year the old Bank of Cape Fear building stood on the Northwest corner of Dock and Front streets. He remembers the aspect of the building perfectly well and also the President of the Bank at that time, Mr. Richard Bradley, father of the gentleman of that name now resident on Wrightsville Sound.—At the same time the town guard house, a small brick building, stood in the middle of Dock street, half way between Front and Water. In 1810 Dock street was lined with houses between Front and Water and the dock at the foot of the street occupied about the same location as it does now.

The same gentleman tells us that many years ago Dr. A. J. DeRosset, the senior, a few years before his death told him that when he was a boy, which was about the period of the close of the Revolution, he remembers Dock street as a canal or creek. At that time there were no buildings on Dock street and boats used to paddle up the creek as far as the site on West Third street between Market and Princess, now occupied by Miss Hart's schoolhouse. The creek had its beginning about the corner of Fourth and Princess streets, say on the ground now occupied by the Little Giant engine house. Its course can readily be traced at the present day by the course of the sewer which begins near the corner of Fourth and Princess and empties into the river at the foot of Dock street. At that time the market house, which was of brick, a small building, stood in the middle of Market street, between Front and Water, but much nearer to the dock than to Front street. This was the old revolutionary market house, from which James Houston in 1765 was made to swear that he would not execute the stamp act. It was destroyed by fire in 1846. During its existence, however, another market house was built, probably about the year 1800, at the intersection of the corner of Market and Second streets and it was then that boats used to paddle up the creek to "Mud Market". Some years later and during the administration of the late Dr. Thomas H. Wright, as Intendant of the town, (probably about the year 1815) the new market was deserted and the old one was reoccupied. A wing was added to the former and it was used and occupied as a town hall. This building, if our informant remembers correctly, was afterwards found insecure and was pulled down.

Cause of Skin Diseases.

It is claimed by some physicians that the great prevalence of skin diseases is due to the extensive use of aniline dyes in the manufacture of under clothing. In many instances annoying cases of skin disease have been traced directly to the poisonous influence of the aniline dyed scarlet woolen under clothing worn by the sufferers. It is said that in the course of a few days after putting on the aniline dyed flannels an annoying itching results, with fiery pimples, and minute whitish scales. When the use of the garments in question is discontinued recovery usually follows in a short time. The ready removal by soap and water of the color of any bright garment shows the dye to be of very low grade, and being freely soluble it is all the more pernicious. When a bit of any suspected scarlet garment is washed in water of ammonia the color will be dissolved if it be cochineal, but if it be aniline it will not be dissolved. In the former case the garment may be safely worn, in the latter it should be avoided like any other poison.

Supreme Court.

The following discussions were rendered in the Supreme Court on Monday:

Elisha Porter vs. Durham T. Durham, from Pender; error; judgment reversed and proceedings quashed.

M. A. McEachern vs. F. W. Kercher, administrator, from Richmond; error; judgment of the Superior Court reversed and judgment of the Superior Court clerk affirmed.
