THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

It quiets and composes the patient—not by the introduction of opiates and drastic cathartics, but by the restoration of activity to the stomach and nervous system, whereby the brain is relieved of morbid fancies, which are created by the causes above referred to.

Concerning Something Better than Mrs. Toodles' Wheelbarrow—And the Reason Why.

When a certain Commissary General complained to the Duke of Wellington that Sir Thomas Picton had declared he would hang him if the rations for that General's division were not forthcoming at a certain hour, the Duke replied:

"Ah! did he indeed go so far as that? Did he say he'd hang you?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Well, General Picton is just the man to keep his word. You'd better get the rations up in time."

"But to get the rations or anything else up in time one must know when to lay his hand on them. As Mr. Toodles says, the coffee which he had bought at auction and brought home to his wife:

"If anything should happen, my dear, it will be so handy to have in the house."

Being in the great wholesale drug house of William Hart, in Elgin, Ill., one day, Mr. G. H. Sherman, the photographer of that place, remarked, concerning PARKER'S TONIC, "I have used it in my family by inciting the torpid, unobtainable, and I unobtainably pronounce it the best medicine we have ever used. It is handy to have in the house, and we are never without it."

Called from the house of reasons why Mr. Sherman was right, he would be good enough to consider these. First, PARKER'S TONIC is delicious to the palate; second, it invigorates, but does not produce a loss of strength; third, it cures Coughs and Colds by inciting the torpid organs into healthy action, and opening all the tubes of the skin; fourth, it purifies the blood, thus curing Kidney, Liver and Lung diseases, and Rheumatism.

But take it into your house, and it will speak for itself. Once used, you will change it for nothing else. Physicians commend it. Prices, 30 cents, and $1. Hiscox & Co., Chemists, New York. mech 11-daw 1884

The Daily Review.

THE BABY'S PRAYER.

She knelt with her sweet hands folded; Her fair little head bowed low; While dead vines tapped at the window And the air was thick with snow. Without, earth dumb with winter; Within, hearts dumb with care; And up through the leaden silence Rose softly the baby's prayer.

"Bless all whom I love, dear Father, And help me be good," she said, Then, stirred by a sudden fancy, She lifted the shining head. Did she catch on the frozen maple Some hint of the April green, Or the breath of the woodland blossoms, The drifts of the snow between?

"The beautiful trees," she whispered, "Where the orioles used to sing; They are tired of the cold, white winter, Oh, help them to grow in spring; And the flowers that I loved to gather, Lord, bring them again in May; The dear little violets, sleeping Down deep in the ground to day."

Ah; earth may be chill with snowflakes, And hearts may be cold with care, But wastes of a frozen silence Are crossed by the baby's prayer; And lips that were dumb with sorrow In jubilant hope may sing; For when earth is wrapped in winter, In the heart of the Lord 'tis spring.

—Alice M. Eddy.

What Ruined Him.

One remarked that he had been ruined in Wall street—another was busted in oil—a third was cleaned out on wheat, and so it went around to the old man, who slowly observed:

"Gentlemen, the Quarter-Master General of the Army in 1863 busted me."

"How?" asked half-a-dozen voices.

"Well, I wanted to introduce cheese as a ration, and I brought such influences to bear that the Quarter-Master finally agreed to make a contract with me. I went to buying cheese, of course and I didn't stop until I had invested every dollar I could raise, and bought to the limit of my credit. It was all nice, new cheese."

"Well?"

"Well, he wouldn't take a pound of it."

"Why?"

"Because he wanted old cheese, you see; he wanted something which could be driven right along with the army, and thus save the cost of transportation!"

The Home Doctor.

Salt is recommended as a relief for a dry, hacking cough. Dissolve a teaspoonful of pure salt in a wineglassful of water. Use this as a gargle just before meal time.

Dr. George R. Shepherd, of Hartford, says in respect to the use of hot water as a remedial agent in the treatment of inflammation of the mucous membrane: "I have used hot water as a gargle for the past six or eight years. In acute pharyngitis and tonsillitis, and in coryza, or cold in the head, if properly used in the commencement of the attack it constitutes one of our most effective remedies, being frequently promptly curative. To be of service it should be used in considerable quantity (a half-pint or a pint at a time), and just as hot as the throat will tolerate. I have seen many cases of acute disease thus aborted, and can commend the method with great confidence."

Sawdust, after being saturated with a weak solution of carbolic acid, can be usefully employed for absorbing the discharge from wounds, says Chambers Journal. The sawdust, which should be coarse, must be allowed to dry, and then should be inclosed in a bag made of several layers of gauze or very fine, soft muslin. Pending the arrival of a medical man, a pad of the sawdust, carefully arranged to prevent any of the graius working through to the injured part, may be safely applied over the dressing of a wound that has commenced to discharge, or if bleeding has recommenced from a cut, through the strapping, the pad of sawdust should be bound over the part requiring to be protected.

Some of the foreign papers relate a novel method of administering nourishment to invalids, and persons with weak digestion which, it is alleged, has been practiced in Paris with great success. Diseased and enfeebled health commonly owe their origin to the imperfect assimilation of food. When the digestive functions are impaired the body is insufficiently nourished and is unable to resist the encroachments of disease. For the maintenance of health and for restoration in sickness it is of the first importance that the food be not only of the most nourishing kind, but that it be administered in a form of easy digestion and assimilation. In a paper recently communicated to the Medical Hospital association of Paris by Dr. Debove, he describes a form of alimentation which has attracted much attention. His system is to apply nourishment in form of powder instead of in bulk. Uncooked meat, from which the fat has been removed, is minced finely and allowed to dry in an oven at about ninety degrees centigrade until it becomes perfectly hard without being burned. It is then reduced to an impalpable powder by pounding in a mortar and passing through a fine sieve. The fiber and the large per centage of water contained in flesh are thus removed, and the essential properties of the meat retained and presented in a form the least difficult to digest. Other alimentary substances, such as lentils, beans, peas, etc., can be prepared in the same way. In cases of consumption the treatment is said to have proved marvelously successful, and in general debility and nervous disorders arising from weakness, restoration is rapid and permanent. A few spoonfuls of the powder are equal to the meal of a person with a healthy appetite. The powder, when bottled, will keep for an indefinite period, and may be taken with a little milk, gravy, water or other liquid.

Two months ago I suffered with a very bad cough, which kept me awake all night. I was recommended to put on my chest two Alcock's Porous Plasters. THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment during the past twelve months.

If you were to paste out to end all the columns of all the SUNS printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit, long enough to reach from Printing House square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the space then back to Printing House square, and then three quarters of the way back to the moon again.

But THE SUN is written for the inhabitants of the earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of THE SUN during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or his grandfather has spent another hour, this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

THE SUN is, and will continue to be, a news paper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go, and must go in this coming year of our Lord.

If you know THE SUN, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not know THE SUN, it is high time to go into the sunshine.
