SAMARITAN NERVE

NEVER FAILS.

"You claim too much for SAMARITAN NERVE," says a skeptic. "How can one medicine be a specific for Epilepsy, Dyspepsia, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Rheumatism, Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, and fifty other complaints?" We claim it simply, because the virus of all diseases arises from the blood. Its Nervine, Resolvent, and Laxative properties meet all the common ailments referred to. It's known world wide.

THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

It cures and composes the patient—not by the introduction of opiates and drastic cathartics, but by the restoration of activity to the stomach and nervous system, whereby the brain is relieved of blood fancies, which are created by the causes above referred to.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose avocations require employment, causes nervous prostration, irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, SAMARITAN NERVE is invaluable. Thousands of people, the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system. $1.50. Sold by all Druggists. The D. S. A. RICHMOND MED. CO., Prop'r, 851-853, Wash. St., Mo.

Out on the Prairie.

Concerning Something Better than Mrs. Toodles' Wheelbarrow—And the Reason Why.

When a certain Commissary General complained to the Duke of Wellington that Sir Thomas Pleton had declared he would hang him if the rations for that General's division were not forthcoming at a certain hour, the Duke replied:

"Ah! did he indeed go so far as that? Did he say he'd hang you?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Well, General Pleton is just the man to keep his word. You'd better get the rations up in time."

But to get the rations or anything else up in time one must know what to lay his hand on. As Mr. Toodles said about the coffin which he had bought at auction and brought home to his wife:

"If anything should happen, my dear, it will be so handy to have in the house."

Belie in the great wholesale drug house of William Hart, in Elgin, Ill., one day, Mr. G. H. Sherman, the photographer of that place, remarked, concerning PARKER'S TONIC "I have used it in my family for two years, and I unhesitatingly pronounce it the best medicine we have ever used. It is handy to have in the house, and we are never without it."

Called from the mass of reasons why Mr. Sherman was right, he is good enough to consider these: PARKER'S TONIC is delicious to the palate; second, it invigorates, but does not promote a love for strong drink; third, it cures Coughs and Colds by irritating the torpid organs into healthy action, and opening all the pores of the skin; fourth, it purifies the Blood, thus curing Kidney, Liver and Lung diseases and Rheumatism; fifth—

But take it into your house, and it will speak for itself. Once used, you will change it for nothing else. Physicians commend it. Prices, 50 cents and $1. Hiscox & Co., Chemists, New York. mch 11-14w 1m nrm

EVENING SCENE.

I stood at eve by the river side, Watching the flow of the falling tide, Out of the West came a gleam of gold, Far in the East the thunder rolled, Over the fields for miles away Came stealing night in his robe of gray.

Out of the harbor into the bay, Over the waters far away, Into the West, where the glorious sun Sinks to rest when the day is done, One by one the good ships sail, With wings outspread to the evening gale.

Over the hills a sudden gleam Lit up the breast of the peaceful stream; The glorious light but a moment stayed, Then faded away in the gathering shade. (The far-off ships slow sank from sight Into a sea of dreary night.

MRS. BLAINE.

A Statesman's Wife who is Not at all Popular with Women.

A new Congressman's wife—and they bear more gossip in their first year than in all the rest of the time they stay here—was telling me of the discussion she had heard during a week of afternoon calls. At every other place Mrs. Blaine was the topic of talk, and except for the sectional and lukewarm defenses by the New England people, there were no champions for the cause of Mrs. Blaine. The majority decided that they never wanted to see her in the White House, and would prevent it if they could. The most of these women are really afraid of Mrs. Blaine, and she has a frigidity of demeanor that impresses some men with a nervous desire to get away from her. While her husband occupied public positions here and her house was open to callers in the customary afternoon of each week, many who went there to pay their respects owed up to a regular stage fright as they entered the parlor. They all stood in awe of Miss Dodge, (Gail Hamilton), who is a cousin of Mrs. Blaine's and spends the Winters with her, and when they learned that Miss Dodge had small opinion of the average woman's mind, reasoning and conversational powers, they felt more uncomfortable still. Mrs. Blaine is a magnificent-looking woman; tall and of majestic carriage, with a prominent aquiline nose, strong features and a crown of gray hair. She is an ideal duchess of the old regime when arrayed in evening dress, with her diamonds sparkling about her; and once this winter, when she wore a black lace dress, relieved with knots of orange velvet ribbons, and the low ball corsage revealing her plump shoulders and arms, she was a picture to be remembered. Her sons are fine looking men, but neither of her daughters equal their mother in appearance. All six of her children have the strongly-marked features of both father and mother, and their eyes and noses would decide their parentage anywhere without other knowledge. Going through the city market one morning with a sight-seeing friend, we spied Mrs. Blaine at a butcher's stall buying mutton chops. All the swell housekeepers here go to market in person, and from the time Daniel Webster used to stroll off to market at 6 o'clock in the morning, with his servants and baskets, there has never been a question as to its being the most natural thing in the world. People who come here from some other cities think it wonderfully strange to meet in the market the same women who astonished them with the lustre of their high position and the richness of their dressing at a reception the night before. When my Western friend, therefore, became convinced the matron standing so near us in the market was really Mrs. Blaine and the wife of a possible President, she watched her intently for a few minutes. Everything about Mrs. Blaine is strongly individual and characteristic, and she has the same majestic, austere manner in the market-house as in the parlor. She stood with stately and unconscious pose before the man of cuts and chops, and her calm, direct gaze, and the way in which she dropped the change into her purse and snapped it shut, was as characteristic as any studied moved in a drawing-room. When she walked away my friend drew a long breath and said: "Well, I'd like to see the butcher, the politician, the man, woman or child who would try to cheat or deceive her! She could freeze me solid with one such look."—Wash. Letter to St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Rescued From Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF LUNGS followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lungs as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

Another Physician's Testimony.

REMINISCENCES OF ROCHESTER.

The Falls of the Genesee and Sam Patch's Fatal Leap—One of its Business Houses and its great Magnitude.

The present floods, which are either devastating or threatening the country in every direction, are justly cause for apprehension. No matter whether they come suddenly or by slow degrees, they are, in either case, a great evil and much to be dreaded, and yet America will always be troubled by these spring overflows. Probably one of the most disastrous that was ever known, occurred in Rochester, N. Y., about twenty years ago. The Genesee river, just above the falls, where Sam Patch made his final and fatal leap, became completely blocked by ice, forming an impassable dam, and the water coming down the Genesee river overflowed the principal portion of the city of Rochester. This catastrophe would have been repeated the present year had not the energy and foresight of the city authorities prevented it. The writer happened to be in Rochester at that time and was greatly interested in the manner in which this great catastrophe was averted. Every few moments a roar like the peals of thunder or the booming of cannon would be heard, and in order to see this ice blasting process, the writer went to the top of the new Warner building, which overlooks the Genesee river. From here he was not only enabled to see the process uninterrupted, but also the magnificent building, which has just been completed. This is unquestionably the finest building devoted to business and manufacturing purposes in America, being entirely fireproof, eight stories high, and containing over four and a quarter acres of flooring. Mr. Warner treated your correspondent very courteously, and in the course of the conversation said:

"We are doing a tremendous business and are far behind in our orders. This is the season of the year when people, no matter how strong their constitution may be, feel, more or less, the pain and indisposition, the headaches, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, dull pain, sore throats, coughs—all the 1,001 ills that flesh is heir to—come this time of the year, if at all. It is natural, therefore, that we should be very busy. This is especially true of our Safe Rheumatic Cure, and it is crowding us very sharply for a new remedy."

"Singular, but I had forgotten that you do not advertise to cure all diseases from one bottle, as is done generally by many other medicine men, but I supposed Warner's Safe Cure was for the cure of rheumatism."

And so it has been until our remedy which was especially for rheumatism and neuralgia, was introduced. We have been three years perfecting this new remedy. Study first taught us there were certain powerful elements in Warner's Safe Cure, better known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, that made wonderful cures in chronic and acute rheumatism, but during our investigation, we learned of a remarkable cure at a celebrated springs, and put our experts to investigate and found that the springs did not contain any valuable properties, but the course of treatment that was being given there was performing all the benefit. By carefully combining the active principles of this remedy with our Safe Cure, we have produced our Safe Rheumatic Cure, and the cures it is effecting are simply wonderful, and I do not doubt it will become as popular as our Safe Cure."

"You seem to talk freely in regard to your remedies and appear to have no secrets, Mr. Warner."

"None whatever. The physician with his hundred calls and one hundred diseases, is necessarily compelled to guess at a great deal. We are enabled to follow up and perfect, while physicians can only experiment with their hundred patients and hundred diseases. With the ordinary physician, the code binds him down, so that if he makes a discovery, he is bound to give it to the other physicians, which, of course, discourages investigation, to a great extent. This is why the great discoveries in medical science of late years have been made by chemists and scientists and not by physicians, and it is a measure accounts for the great value of our remedies, also for the remarkable success of all those doctors who make a specialty of one or two diseases."

"And you find that you are curing a great number of people as ever before?"

"Yes, a far greater number. We never sold so much of our medicine as now and never knew of so many remarkable cures."

The writer departed after the above interview, but was greatly impressed, not only by the superiority of Mr. Warner, but by the vastness of all he saw. Mr. Warner's medicines are used throughout the entire length and breadth of the land, and we doubt not the result they are effecting are really as wonderful as they are related to be.

"It has become so common to write the beginning of an article, in an elegant, interesting manner, 'Then run it into some advertisement that we avoid all such.' 'And simply call attention to the merits of Hop Bitters in as plain, honest terms as possible, 'To induce people 'To give them one trial, which so proves their value that they will never use anything else'— 'THE REMEDY so favorably noticed in all the papers, 'Religious and secular, is 'Having a large sale, and is supplanting all other medicines. 'There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of Hop Bitters have shown great shrewdness 'And ability 'In compounding a medicine whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation."

Did She Die?

"No! 'She lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years.' 'The doctors doing her no good.' 'And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about.' 'Indeed! Indeed!' 'How thankful we should be for that medicine.' 'A Daughter's Misery. 'Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery. 'From a complication of kidney, liver, rheumatic trouble and Nervous debility. 'Under the care of the best physicians, 'Who gave her disease various names, 'But no relief. 'And now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we have shunned for years before using it.—THE PARENTS."
