The receipts of cotton at this port today foot up 21 bales.

There were no tramps applied for lodgings at police headquarters last night.

Steamboatmen report good fair boat- ing water in the Cape Fear, although it is gradually falling.

Strawberries were quite plentiful in market this morning, and 25 cents per quart was the price at which they were sold.

There was one case of drunk and down for the Mayor's consideration this morning, which was settled by a fine of $5.

The meetings at the First Baptist Church continue to be largely attended, and considerable spiritual interest is being manifested.

Aus. barque Leda, Ershen, cleared today for Fiume, with 4,069 barrels rosin, valued at $6,103.50, shipped by Messrs. Alex. Sprunt & Son.

Col. Robinson, Maj Winder and Col. Jones have been on a tour of inspection over the line of the Carolina Central. They were in Shelby on Wednesday.

All the planets are evening stars during this month, a thing quite unusual, and it is not probable that this generation will ever again witness such an astronomical phenomenon.

Mr. George F. Tilley is in receipt of a fine lot of beaves, raised by Mr. T. L. Rackley, of Sampson county, which will be on sale at his stall in the New Market for the next thirty days.

We invite the attention of our citizens to the fact that first quality shirts are being made to order at one dollar at the Wilmington Shirt Factory.

Nearly all of the clergy who were in attendance upon the Ceremonies of Consecration yesterday have left for their homes, although a good many others remain in the city visiting friends and relatives.

Yes, young man, the world certainly owes you a living, but you owe it to the world to work earnestly and industriously to earn that living. Do not imagine that the claim is entirely on your side, for if you do you will be sadly mistaken!

Personal.
Rev. E. N. Joyner, of the Church Messenger, published at Charlotte, N. C., gave us the pleasure of a call this morning. He has been here in attendance upon the consecration services, which took place yesterday.

The Crops.
This was another beautiful morning, and we hear that the farmers in the country are as busy as bees in their farm work and feel hopeful of a good crop to reward their labor. The full moon of April, which is generally a time of heavy frosts, has passed by without any serious damage having been done. There were frosts at that time, but they were comparatively light and unimportant.

Recovered.
The locomotive belonging to the W. C. & A. Railroad, which ran into the Cape Fear at the draw bridge a short time ago, has been raised by the assistance of two flats and brought down as far as Point Peter, where it unfortunately ran aground yesterday afternoon. It was on its way to the Dry Dock, where it would be taken and repaired by the shops for overhauling and necessary repairs. A steam tug went up to her assistance this afternoon, but had not succeeded in getting her off when our report closed.

Interesting to Fishermen: The celebrated "Fish" Brand Gilling thread is sold only at JACOBI'S. He is the Importer's Agent.

Improvements.
The wooden gates heretofore at the entrance to Oakdale Cemetery have been removed and their places supplied with substantial, neat and tasty gates of iron, which are very chaste and appropriate in design. They are supported by columns of granite, to which they are fastened, and add much to the beauty of that "city of the dead."

The Episcopal Residence.
The Goldsboro Messenger hears it stated that Bishop Watson has the matter of making the episcopal residence at Goldsboro under advisement. Wilmington, it seems to us, is the place for this. The building is here, owned by churches of this city, and there are four churches here, aggregating more members, in all probability, than will be found in any three counties elsewhere in the diocese.

The Passport.
This favorite boat of the Cape Fear, having been put in complete Summer trim, began her regular trips to Smithville this morning. She has been completely overhauled, repaired and refitted so that she has the appearance of an entirely new craft. Pleasure seekers and those who would like to enjoy a day near the ocean can now have an opportunity to leave the city in the morning and return the same night in season for supper.

The Concert.
The box sheets for the sale of tickets for the Concert which is to be given by the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, of Boston, at the Opera House next Monday night, was opened this morning. There was quite a rush for seats, and the indications are that there will be a crowded house. In speaking of the Club, the St. Louis Globe says:

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club gave their first concert last evening to a large audience in Mercantile Library Hall. It would indeed be hard to say much for the musical taste of any city where this company should fail to draw a crowded house. Whatever people may say of Boston—and people will say hard things of Boston—she has given us the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, and that covers a multitude of her shortcomings.

Let it be borne in mind that the Concert will be given under the auspices of the Library Association, and will be an entertainment of very superior excellence. The Library Association has done much to give our people a rich treat, and we hope that those having the matter in charge will meet with the encouragement which the undertaking richly deserves, so that they may not become weary of well-doing. The price of admission to the gallery is 25 cents.

Devastation in Pender.
The clouds which looked so portentous of storm and wind in this city on Tuesday last, created havoc in some parts of Pender county, and especially in that portion situated near Point Caswell. Trees were uprooted, fences torn down and everything in the track of the storm was destroyed. The duration of the wind, in its severity, was only about 10 minutes, but in that brief time it carried ruin and desolation in its path. It blew with such severity that great sheets of water were taken from the surface of Black river and carried bodily hundreds of yards, drenching everything with which they came in contact. The force of the wind was confined within a space of about 100 yards in width, in which it swept everything before it, the forests through which it passed being completely prostrated, and leaving a path that looked as though a road had been cut through it. Fortunately, its force did not strike any dwellings, and the only loss to buildings was occasioned by the blowing over of a few outhouses. A citizen of Point Caswell, who has visited the scene, tells us that he saw large numbers of doves and other birds which had been killed by the force of the wind, and in almost every instance nearly all the feathers were stripped from them as completely as though prepared for cooking.

In Bladen county, on the Cape Fear, about 40 miles from this city, the cyclone did much damage. The principal force of the storm seems to have been at the farm of Messrs. A. McFadyen & Son and in their immediate vicinity. The wind tore the roof from Mr. McFadyen's gin house, tore down every tree in the yard and demolished the windows in the dwelling house. His son, Mr. A. W. McFadyen, received a letter this morning which contained many of the particulars of the storm. The hands were all in the fields at work at the time of its occurrence, and it blew so violently that they could not leave and go to their homes.

Big Eggs.
Mr. F. M. James brought into our office today two mammoth eggs which were laid by one of his hens. The hens are a cross of the Cochon China and Plymouth breeds and the eggs are among the very largest we have ever seen. Mr. James informs us that those we saw are but a fair sample of all that that breed of hens lay. One of the peculiarities of the eggs was that the ends were alike in size and appearance, which is not usually the case with hen's eggs.

At St. John's.
The services at St. John's Church last night were very interesting. Bishop Randolph, of Virginia, was expected to preach the sermon of the occasion, but circumstances were such that he was unable to officiate. Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Virginia, however, supplied the place of the Bishop and preached a sermon of much eloquence and power. The church was thronged to its utmost capacity with a delighted audience, who listened with interested attention to the words of the eminent divine. The music for the occasion—mainly instrumental—was very fine and added much to the delight of the hearers.

Lippincott's Magazine.
LIPPINCOTT'S for May opens with an illustrated article on "The Hill-Suburbs of Cincinnati." The illustrations have great merit. Another timely article is an account of a journey from Berber to Suakin, extracted from the diary of an English officer who was the last European to traverse this route, closed shortly after by the revolt of the Arabs under El Mahdi. "Shakespeare's Tragedies on the Stage" is the first of two papers. Professor Wm. F. Allen concludes his excellent account of "How the Roman Spent His Year." James A. Harrison gives a picturesque description of a trip "Along the Columbia River and Puget's Sound," and Horace Lunt writes in the spirit of a true lover and close student of nature on "A Day in Early Spring."

Among the stories in the number, is "The Perfect Treasure," a short serial. "At Last," is another short serial, but romantic rather than realistic. "Retaliation," is an interesting and well-written love-story; and "The Rev. Nabum" is an amusing episode of American Missionary Life on the African Coast. The other departments are well filled, and the number is more than usually attractive.

If you need a real good first class cooking stove, don't fail to see the Excelsior Penn., Zeb. Vance and New Emerald, besides others. They are to be found at factory prices at JACOBI'S, who is the manufacturers' agent.

DIED.
REED—In this city, April 17th, 1884, at 8.15 P. M., after a short illness, JAMES REED, son of Samuel and Henrietta Reed, in the 17th year of his age, 11 months and 13 days.

An exemplary young man, kind and courteous to all who knew him; a warm friend and genial companion; a most dutiful and obedient son, taken away on the threshold of manhood, when the golden chalice of life's sweetest blessings had been barely tasted; to be taken at such a period the thread of existence snaps like the string of the harp which breaks in the tide of song and the music is forever hushed. It is hard, but, Father, we know that he is at rest, secure from pain and sickness, care and sorrow; he sleeps in peace.

The funeral services were held at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Rev. C. O. Brady officiating, from thence to Pine Forest Cemetery for interment.
