QUEER PEOPLE.

There is a class of people who may be aptly denominated queer. Away back in the sleeping centuries were to be found these same peculiar individuals asking: "Who will show us any good?"

When the Saviour of men was per forming great and mighty works they cribed it to Satanic agency. Sinister themselves they cannot conceive how impulses.

Seeing, as they do, everything through the blurred lenses of their distempered ing that others may be benefited in a imaginations, they are ever ready to similar manner. impugn the motives of others.

This fatal penchant, not infrequently. serves to deter many good words and works because they shrink from haying improper motives ascribed to them.

ty seem to wax fat in their congenial you must take a cold bath every mornbut dirty work.

the very unkind and unjust motives attributed to Gen. Grant and the Northero people for the sympathy manifested in building the Coplederate Home. We trequency inveigh against the North to claiming a monopoly of all the virtues, and asking of the South 'Can any good come out of Nazareth?" However we may differ from General Grant politically, no one can deny that his demeanor towards Gen. Lee and his brave boys was delicate and magnani mous.

He was a hard fighter, as those who felt the lusty blows of his powerful arm in battle can attest. As a brave, victorious soldier he knows how to feel for the brave, but unfortunate men who fought against him.

"The bravest are the tenderest-The loving are the daring.'

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war," and we do trust that the sword has been turned into a pruning-hook and that, as sections, we shall learn war no more. It is mean to even insinuate that Gen. Grant never outraged the better instincts of human ity by speculating in human misery and necessity for political ends. Gen. Gordon's name is a sufficient contradiction that there is any trade, but what we wish to do is to inveigh against gratuitous sectional or political insults, especially in an enterprise so laudable and where the action of the Northern people is so spontaneous and generons and their words so cordia! and magnanimous. The Home is not months I had exhausted many other yet built and let us not throw any hindrance in the way of its accomplishnient by reflecting upon the motives actuating those engaged in the good

The business depression does not seem to have operated untaverably on the business prospects of the ocean steamers that ply between this country and the var ous European ports. Indeed it is not at all improbable it may be helping it, as the men will be likely ment. to go abroad this year who a busy year would remain at home. The pa-senger agents of the v rious lines of seamers report that they have more passengers booked for the voyage across the Atlantic than usual at this season of the year. The accommodations are increased, it is true, but the number of passengers promises to be increased in proportion.

Emily Faithfull, who sailed for Ecrope last week, said to a reporter concorning her observations of Mormonism: "Occasionally women have been found brave enough to take their tamilies and go out into the world from the homes where new favorites had supplanted them in the husband's favor. but no pen can describe the deprivations and sufferings they encountered. No one has greater respect than I for the free and un'ettered practice of religious. but polygamy as practiced in Utah is such a crime against civilization and have at heart the interests of human morality, not to speak of womanhood, should not rest until they have destroy ed this worst system that the heart of man ever instituted on religious or any other grounds."

England has been visited by earthquakes several times, of which the following have been recorded: One felt lowing have been recorded: One felt throughout England in 1089; another throughout the country in 1274, by which Glastonbury was destroyed; the commend it to all, and especially to the commend it to all the commend it to al greatest known in that country up to that time, on November 14, 1318; a slight shock in London February 3, 1749. and a severer one on March 8; and the latest recorded, a very slight one, in the northwestern part of England on November 9, 1852. England, as will be seen from the above instance, has had little practical experience of earth- address Dr. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St. Now quakes, and they loom, therefore, large with all the terrors of the unknown. added to those of the truly terrible The mere word of a madman that an earthquake was to be expected on a given day was sufficient to send thousands of persons of wealth and fashion to spend the night of April 6, 1750, in Hyde Park in tents and carriages. April 7 passed, however, and the trembling bivouackers returned home disappointed of their earthquake. In a country where such disturbances are frequent few people would think it worth while to be rob bed of a night's rest for such a trifle.

A Quick Recovery.

We have spent over $100,000.00 in defending our right to the Durham Bull as our trade-mark. Undoubtedly he is to day the most valuable Bull in the world. Now it stands to reason that we couldn't afford to protect him so thoroughly if BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM To-bacco, of which he is the representative, wasn't the BEST Smoking Tobacco ever made.

The sales of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco far exceed those of any other brand in the world, simply because it has been, is, and will be, the best that can be made. All dealers have it. Look for trade-mark of the Bull on every package.
