"What a monstrous woman!" said the young

The Norfolk Landmark of Wednesday says: The negroes almost had possession of Norfolk yesterday. At an early hour the different military companies began to assemble at their respective armories, and about 11 o'clock marched down Church street to Main, thence to the Norfolk & Western depot, where they were shortly joined by two companies from Petersburg and one from Richmond. Coming up Main street to offer this testimony for the benefit of other they were met by the colored military from Portsmouth, and the whole line paraded the city. After the parade the military marched to the Masonic Hall ful lagredients, it also masters all diseases of on Queen street and partook of a banquet. Everything up to this time had passed off quietly, although there were hundreds of negroes following the soldiers. A number of policemen were detailed to go with the military to pre-

"Carolina."

There has been quite an interesting Charleston News and Courier as to the origin of the name Carolina. The last communication on the subject declares the matter to be incapable of solution, To and from Boston, Providence, Philade and says that as it was a mooted ques tion in Charleston as far back as 1680, when Ashe visited that city and when the first settlers were still alive, it cannot now be freed from doubt. We suspect that much of the doubt sprang ertain mortgage from Eroch Reynolds to D from what Ashe wrote. Charleston ANDREWS, & CO., Agts., L. Gore, bearing date the 19th day of October. was originally located on the Cape leed, and duly recorded in the Records of the Castom House, in the city of Wilmington, N. above the site of the present city and , in Book J, folio i, the undersigned will sell above the site of the present city and at public auction, at the wharf at the foot of subsequently definitely established Market street, in the city of Wilmington, on Saturday, the 31st day of May, 1881, at 12 o'clock, M, for cash, a certain schooner or vessel called the "SARAH", of the burden of cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the province to his seven cloves and 50 100 May 1881, at 12 of the cloves and 50 May 1881, at 12 of the cloves and 50 May 1881, at 12 of the cloves are cloves and the cloves are cloves are cloves and the cloves are courtiers. from that of our most gracious sovereign Charles II or Charles the IX, of France &c " One sees at a glance that he was inclined to the last opinion or he would not have mentioned at all the possibility of the derivation being from the French king. Besides, he log-ically puts the better opinion last. The fact is there was no basis for the sug gestion that the name was derived from Charles II. 'Our most greious sovereign" came to the throne in 1660, while the country South of Virginia was called Carolina anterior to that date. In 1652, in Cromwell's time. Cash Well Spent.

Money expended on personal adornment is often foolishly wasted upon articles of no intrinsic value. A bottle of SOZODONT, however, is worth its weight in gold to any one troubled with poor teeth, and its price is cash well spent by the purchaser. Though it will not make the teeth regular, they who use it are astonished at the rapid improvement it effects in the dental row. Moreover, they breathe sweetness, and have healthy gums and ruddy lips.
