A young man who had been at work in this city for some time, as a painter succeeded in perpetrating several successful swindles upon some of our merchants and business men before he left the city. He had been at work painting the steamer Louise, and he would ask his victims to cash Capt. Weeks' check upon one of the banks, generally taking a part of the amount in goods and the balance in money. This was done in several instances, but when the checks were presented for payment they were declared forgeries. The man gave his name as McGinniss, and hailed from New York, whither he went on one of the steamers recently leaving this tery where the orator of the occasion,

George H. Pendleton, the REVIEW will show:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 21st, 1884 .-In the hand contest to-day the Cornet Concert Club won the prize of one hundred dollars. E. B. B.

We are glad of this and when we reflect that quite a number of the Club have had but short experience and practice upon their instruments, we are being made to order at one dollar at the that the Club was composed of excellent material, that the members, and especially the new ones, had been under direction of a competent, thorough and faithful teacher and that all were enthusiastic for success, but in this instance they have rather exceeded our expectations, and we are glad of it. We congratulate them and hope that they may "live long and prosper."

Wilmington Light Infantry.

The target practice of the Wilming. ton Light Infantry was a contest for the company's medal, which was secared by private W. A. Willson, Jr., who made a score of 12-the highest. He was closely followed by Dr. W. E. Storm, who made a score of 11. The other scores ranged from from 8 downward. The judges were Messrs, Geo. D. Parsley, W. A. Willson, Sr., and D S. Walsh.

The reception at the Armory at night was a pleasant affair, notwithstanding Something, for instance, like throwing the extreme heat of the weather. Dr. the first shovel of dirt on the new W. E. letter, written by one of our citizene who went to Charlotte to attend the celebration :

CHARLOTTE, N. C , May 20th, 1884, EDITOR REVIEW :- We arrived in this city, with the Wilmington boys, this morning, without any accident to mar the pleasure of the trip, and all were in excellent spirits, although somewhat tired from the effects of their carriages containing some of the dist nquished gentlemen of the country, Thence it marched to Elmwood Ceme-Hon. R T. Bennett, was introduced and made a neat little speech, after which the firemen's statue was unveiled amid loud cheers from the assembled multitude. The procession then marched to a beautiful grove near the Graded School, as per programme, Every house on the line of march was decorated with national flags, with here and there a flag of the red, white and red. The music was fine, but it seemed to methat the Cornet Concert Club excelled them all, and that was the general opinion expressed on the streets.

U. S. Senator, of Ohio, was introduced to the audience by Senator Vance. Senator Pendleton spoke of North Carolina and of the active part she had taken in the Revolutionary struggle in 1776, in the highest terms. His grandfather, from Virginia, was in the battle of the Cowpens and King's Mountain. The distinguished speaker loved North Carolina and felt a deep interest in her prosperity and welfare. Her sons were liberty-loving people who were ever ready to stand for the Constitution and laws of the country. The Chocolate, Ginger, Vanilla, Rose, Butter Senator had never been in the State | Scotch, Cherry and Strawberry Tablets, at before, but he had been amply rewarded for this visit by the enthusiastic welcome he had received, and expressed the hope that it might be again his pleasure to come to North Carolina. During his speech, Senator Pendleton was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause.

Senators Jones, of Florida, and Davis, of West Virginia, also made brief speeches complimentary of North Carolina.

After dinner there was a competitive drill of the military companies present. and although the judges had not pubished the result, it was the general impression that the company from Winnsboro would be awarded the first prize and the company from Durham would secure the second prize. E. G. B. Respectfully,
