"Mr. Cleveland as Governor," says promises made by his earlier career. persistence which the 'Wigwam' bas equipment, furnished by the city reform bills, of which the Christian Union has given account from time to time, and which Nast admirably repreented as cutting the claws of the tiger, never could have been passed. It is no derogation to Mr. Roosevelt to say that he, the reformer in the Republican camp, could not have accomplished these reforms without the effective, thorough, quiet aid of Governor Cleveand in the Democratic camp."

The first ascent of Mont Blanc for his summer has just been accomplished by an Englishman named Seiler, and is example will be followed by many more, for English tourists on the Continent have a tendency to get high. The Alpen mania is a comparatively modern madness, in which the perils and pleasures are so nearly balanced as to exercise a singular fascination for numbers of women as well as men. It has become a profitable business, not only to the local guides and porters, but to Alpine outfitters, a prosperous class of tradesmen in London and in many Continental cities which also have Alpine clubs composed of the nomadic noodles, who consider a Continental tour incomplete without at least attempting an ascent of the Alps, and who pay good prices for all the paraphernalia of an outfit, including guide-books, maps, suitable clothing and innumerable bottles of British beer. Most sensible travellers are content with a partial ascent, which will show them the sun rise from Righi and the surrounding snowclad peaks from a comparatively low but safe elevation.

We are evidently on the verge of another agitation in favor of the purchase of Cuba. It is now, if we ESSAYS AND LEAVES FROM A may judge from a Madrid letter in the New York Times, likely to assume the shape of a plan for taking the island for a bad debt. This is the way the scheme of all denominations to employ their is to be worked: There is to be a 'claims treaty," that is, a treaty providing for the adjudication of claims of Government. These claims, we need hardly say, are to be very large-millions on millions, and mostly good. Then Spain, being poor, is to be unable to pay them, and after much hesitation she is to avoid war by offering Cuba appear to divide on the question. Some in full satisfaction. Our Government is to accept the offer, and to assume responsibility for the payment of the French Window Glass, claims, and the transaction will be for the purposes of the promoters complete. It would not be really complete by any means, however. Congress would never vote money to pay the claims, and there | himself will be the severest sufferer as the island could not be governed as a State, it would have to be treated as a military post until ready for American institutions, and the band of political educators who would go down there to beer gardens. There are others still get the negroes and Spaniards ready to vote, and discuss and run conventions. would make Clayton and Dorsey and Scott and Niles pale with envy.

It is only in very recent times that the cigarette has attained popularity here. Prior to 1876, the Centennial lar conflict of opinion, so to speak, we year, it was very little affected by the American smoker, though since then its sion during the remainder of the Sumconsumption has increased wonderfully. In 1876 the number of cigarettee manufactured in the United States was 8,000,000-an increase of 300 per cent. over the amount manufactured in any previous year. Last year the number manufactured exceeded '750.000.000. Of this number 40,000,000 were exported, and the remainder consumed in this been using a Cough Balsam, called DR. country. > A New York letter says: 'The trouble among the wholesale dry goods trade, it is believed by those who are or ought to be well informed, is about over. There would have been no trouble at all probably, if there had been less single name paper, seeking a market. It is difficult to reason people ont of the conviction that single-name paper means kiting, or facilities for kiting, and, as is already known, none of the banks are in a mood just now to encourage business on that plan. The leading note broker who used to do the largest trade in single-name paper went down in the panic about six weeks ago, owing to outside speculations, and left all that class of needy as he reaches for his pocketbook. The banks adhere to their policy of letting all such houses work out of their difficulties in their own way, but it is denied that they are withholding accommodation from any merchant, or any class of merchants, who can provide reasonably good

A New York letter says: "The Sabbath Observance Association are renewing their petitions to the Park commissioner to stop the free concerts in the Park on Sundays, and are likewise addressing tresh appeals to the clergy influence in the same direction. The commissioners are not disposed to fall in with the views of the committee, and point to the vast number of working people who attended the performance given yesterday, for instance, as a satisfactory evidence that the change from Saturday to Sunday has met with public approval. As to the clergy they oppose the proceeding on the assumption that it is but another step towards the total secularization of the day, and that the final result of it all will be that there will be no day of rest for any body during the week, and that when we reach that point the workingman would be a powerful lobby constantly The advocates of temperance on the in existence to push them. Moreover, other hand hold that if 500,000 or 50, 000 people can be drawn to the park to listen to a brass band on Sunday it will be just so much subtracted from the patronage of the dram shops and the who take the exclusive taxpayers' view, and contend that the best way to stop all this bickering is to abolish the whole thing, and let the people provide themselves with their own entertainment in their own way and at their own expense.
