By the Light of Day. PAST IMPOSSIBILITIES THE FACTS OF THE PRESENT-HELP IN THE NEW ERA.

"I remember when they were putting up the poles for the first telegraph line in the State of New York, and now look there !" exclaimed a citizen of the metropolis to his friend as the two stood on the summit of the tall Equitable Building in Broadway. "The city is strung with wires like a harp, and elec tric communication is the daily miracle of the world. People no longer wonder and laugh at it as they did at Morse when he first suggested its possibility."

The age marches on and prejudice must give way. Nobody has a monopoly of truth. Even the conservative guild of physicians admit that the secrets of medicine are shared by all men. 'I dressed his wound and God healed him," said old Galen Once that terrible dis ease, Rheumatism, was supposed to be a shifting, local ailment, now attacking the joints and now the muscles. To day it is demonstrated to be a disease of the BLOOD

THIS LIFE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT.

Let's oftener talk of noble deeds, And rarer of the bad ones, And sing about our happy days, And none about the sad ones. We were not made to fret and sigh, And when grief sleeps to wake it; Bright happiness is standing by-This life is what we make it.

Let's find the sunny side of men, Or be believers in it; A light there is in every soul That takes the pains to win it. Oh! there's a slumbering good in all, And we perchance may wake it; Our hands contain the magic wand-This life is what we make it.

Then here's to those whose loving hearts

Shed light and joy about them! Thanks be to them for countless gems We ne'er had known without them. Oh! this should be a happy world To all who may partake it; The fault's our own if it is not-This life is what we make it.

A-Lightwood Knot of North Carolina.

The following bit of wit upon the part fa North Carolina girl comes to us from Greenbrier . White Sulphur Springs, the fashionable Virginia summer resortand watering place:

"Among the regular habitues is Col. B---, a well preserved, handsome old beau of uncertain age His society record is brilliant and though he has raised many hopes, yet season, after season has ended and the colonel has yielded his liberty to none. His special strength is pride of family, boasting, as he does, in season and out of season, not only the bluest South Carolina blood

During the past Summer there appeared flitting about the broad piazza kindred troubles. and through the long drawing room a bright dashing girl from the "Land of the Sky." The Colonel, as usual, began the scheme of monopoly, and the ambitious young beile seemed nothing a woman can grow seven crops of loth to accord to him the coveted posi- hair. tion as chief of staff. It began to be whispered about that the Colonel was really in earnest for once in his life .de was made a part of the present State Those who knew him best watched him closest and were sure that he was soft corns, warts, bunions, on the eve of a victory. His gait was more martial, his manner more lofty than ever before, and the poor ancestral Huguenots were dragged to the front without mercy.

Unfortunately a bit of eavesdropping in the dim starlighted seclusion of what the colonel thought to be a deserted corner of the piazza told the story of such woful discomfiture that he fled the place within twenty-four hours afterward. He had evidently proposed in his most pompous and condescending manner, and heard with amazement a quiet negative from the young lady's

"But, I think-I am sure," said the colonel, hardly able to control his indignant pride, "you do not appreciate, Miss, the honor that has been conferred upon you, that you so lightly decline. I am a Huguenot of South Caro

"Ah, Colonel, it is you who forget." said Miss-with her most roguish smile. "You do not appreciate the honor to which you aspire. I am a Lightwood Knot of North Carolina!"— Harper's Magazine.

Battle-field of Waterloo.

The battle-field of Waterloo as it lies to-day is an uninspiring spectacle—a good place to sit down and muse on life and men and the vanity of human things; but we had a vivacious little guide who spared no time for musing, but engaged us with a very dramatic recital in broken, though quite in telligible English, of the stirring things that happened on the bloody Sunday in 1815, when Bonaparte's brief candle went out and the European kaleidescope rattled itself into a fresh combination. I can't help sympathing with the bot-tom dog. The dramatic symmetry of Napolean's career wins us against our

He opened his sorl to us, and he suited the action to the word. He gesticulated, he attitudinized, in short, he tought the battle over again for us His English was doubly English. He was especially happy in his "hup, guards, hand hat hem!" He disabled from Rheumatism and pain in the hack and limbs. She was advised to take the Toxic for Kidney disease. The Mound of the Lion is an artificial elevation which has been reared (very illadvisediy, I think) in the midst of the field and of its earth, thereby modifying the configuration of the landscape, so that one cannot now gain so accurate an idea of the battle-ground as might otherwise have been obtained—unless, indeed, the loss is compensated WILL CURE NERVOUS, PHYSICAL unless, indeed, the loss is compensated by and Genital Weakness caused by indis- by the fact that the summit of the
