But one year the political party against which the students had ful." usually voted secured control, and appointed two or three of their adherents guardians of the ballot-box. As one dollar in New York city. Nobody student after another presented his vote seems to have a cent." one of these officials, a pompous, strutting man, challenged him. Several students had yielded rather than enter into a contest with the "loud" man. But at last there came up a homely, awkward student, gifted with a large stock of mother wit.

"Stop!" cried the pompous man, imperatively, as the student was about to vote. "Are you a voter, sir?"

"Yes, sir," drawled the student. "Where do you live?" demanded the man, thinking to make short work of this green youth.

"Why, at the college, sir."

"You are a student there?" "Yes, sir."
