ton have been taken and are now being distributed throughout Maine and the New England States. The object is to show how the high toned members of Congress can accumulate money and build for themselves palatial mansions on a splary of $5,000 a year. Mr. Blaine has rented his house, which is said to be one of the most elaborately furnished in the country, to Mr. Leiter, of Chicago, for the trifling sum of $13. 000 per annum. One of the most effective arguments, whether true or false, which operated to the defeat of Senator Windom two years ago was a similar distribution of photographic copies of his imposing mansion just east of the Scott circle.

When Mr. Blaine was nominated it was confidently asserted by his friends and freely conceded by his opponen's that the Western States would give him their electoral votes in an altogether enthusiastic and unanimous manner. Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas were placed without question in the column of sure Blaine States. Indiana alone was admitted to be in the least doubtful. In the first two months of the campaign all this has been most surprisingly changed. > The existing condition of monetary affairs, says the World, is altogether phenomenal for the season of the year, and the weekly statements of the associated city banks are now watched with more than ordinary interest. The exhibit published on Saturday last showed a continued-falling off in the specie and legal-tender averages, and moreover the aggregate loss of cash for the week was nearly three times as much as was reported for the previous week. This decrease is partly due to the absorption of money by the Treasury, and partly to the efflux of currency to the interior. The banks, however, hold over $30,000,000 surplus reserve, which is amply sufficient to meet all probable demands upon them dueing the fall and winter months, even it as now supposed the drain of corrency to the interior consequent upon the movement of the crops should continue for some time.

Wheat and other small grains have this year yielded finely, and if the esti mates of the corn crop prove correct the crop will be unprecedented. The fact that the country promises to be blessed in these respects should impress itself upon the minds of the farmers, who will, if they are wise, market their products as rapidly as they can, at least just so long as a reasonable compensation for their labor is obtainable. It is useless to look for a "boom" in grain, in view of the statistical position of the world's supply, and there ought to be cheap bread under the circumstances for a long time to come. The old saying, "either a feast or a famine," is recalled by the crops of this country this year, as we shall have a larger surplus for export than for many years. It will, indeed, be surprising it the success attending the agricultural interests should fail to could be navigated in any direction at the will of the aeronaut, two French officers attached to the military balloon workshops at Meudon have succeeded in solving the difficult problem. By permission of the French minister of BALSAM has cured, and my mother is war, M. Herye Mangon has been allowed to lay before the French Acade- years. my of Science an account of the remarkable experiments that were made at Meuden, on the 9th of August last. At four o'clock in the afternoon of that day a balloon containing Captains Renard and Krebs rose slowly from the park at Choisy, near Meudon, and took at first a northerly direction over the plateau, through which runs the road from Choisy to Versailles. To avoid ascending above the trees, the direction of the direction of the control of the

of the balloon was clanged towards Versailles. The air was calm, and at first the movement of the balloon was carcely perceptible, but as soon as its motive power was brought into action its pace was accelerated. When it was was above Villacoub'ay, some two miles from Meudon, the spectators saw it suddenly tack about, make a half circle of three hundred yards radius, Large-sized photographs of James return! to its point of departure, and G. Blains's $100,600'palace in Washing- slowly descend, with a dipping motion, until it alighted on the lawn from which it had started. The distance covered on going and returning was about four miles and three-quarters, and the time occupied in the trip twenty-seven minutes. During the entire trip the balloon is said to have obeyed faithfully the least movement of its helm. The total weight of the balloon, with all its appliances including the two officers who controlled and directed its movements, was 4, 250 pounds, or two tons and an eighth. The motive power was supplied by an electrict accumulator operating a motor. This motor was of four-horse power, and the duration of the force employed in working the screw propeller was estimated at four hours when the power of the battery was applied. Only a little more than the power of three horses was used on the occasion referred to. So far, then, as relates to the ability to guide a balloon to any given point, to reverse its course and return to the point of departure on a calm day, the Meudon experiment is said to be conclusive. It is, said that by using the full power of the motor the balloon can be directed at the will of its navigator in the face of strong winds, and even in great storms, if the motive power were increased to that Cincinnati dispatch to the New York of ten horses. A Methodist minister once started a church in a young Western town, but for want of pecuniary support was soon obliged to abandon it. He ended thus: "At the last day the Lord will say to St. Peter, 'Where is your flock?' and St. Peter will ans wer Here, Lord.' He will say to Calvin: 'And where are your sheep?' and Cal-, vin will reply, 'Here Lord;' and so all the shepherds can answer.
