The Daily Review has the largest tona file circulation, of any newspaper cublished, in the city of Wilmington.

Mr. Clemens, Mark Twain, is speaking in Connecticut for Cleveland.

Mr. McDonald, once the rival of Mr. Hendricks of Indiana, has put down all heart-burnings and is at work from morn till after dewy eve. He is said to be a popoular and effective campaigner.

It is not exactly encouraging to the Blaine cause in New England to read the standing proclamation kept at the head of its organ: "The Boston Mornin Journal is the only daily moraing paper in Boston which is supporting the nominees of the Republican National Convention."

The Rev. Dr. Sankey, of Rochester' N. Y. who has just returned from the Presbyterian Council at Beltast, is reported to have said a few days ago: "] believe the Presbyterian churches of England, Scotland and Ireland are tending toward ritualism very rapidly. This is especially so in the Scottish churches, surprising as it may seem.'

There is a great deal of twaddle in Republican papers about the protective tariff in the South, and the breaking up of the Democratic party on that account. In Louisiana, however, Mr. Gay, the leading sugar planter, is running for Congress on the Democratic tariff platform, and the chances are he will be triumphantly elected in a dis-

Senator Bayard declined an invitation to speak at a Democratic demonstration in Richmond, Va., October 24. In doing so, Mr. Bayard said that New York is the battleground. and that a demand is made for his presence there which he cannot refuse. For a similar reason Hon. Samuel J. Randall could not be in Richmond on the day named, though he hopes to speak there later in

New York World: Belva Lockwood sppears to be quietly skirting along the edge of the political field, making very little bustle in the campaign. Her canvass evidently has some mysterious pull-back attachment. From present appearances it will be necessary to secure the talented liars of the Associated Press to pad the figures if she expects to make any showing in the returns. But Belva will at least secure by her candidacy that notoriety for which she pants.

Between Damascus and Jerusalem is said to be a tribe of about three thousand Israelites, who have probably been there since the beginning of the Christian era. They have neither cily nor town, but live in tents, and speak the Hebrew language among themselves, but use the Arabian with strugers. They have remained, like the primitive races, exclusively tillers the soil and warriors. They go armed from head to foot. They earn meagre subsistence from the soil and are content with it.

Orme Wilson, who is to take Miss Caroline Astor as his bride, is the son of R. T. Wilson, banker. The senior Wilson began life down in Georgia. He lives in superb style in New York and is said to command more money than any man in the city except Gould and Vanderbilt. It is notable that his daughter married Mr. Goelet and his ion is to marry Miss Astor. The brelets and Astors are the richest real estate owners in America. It is the lossip of the papers that young Wilson's 11 income of $100,000 s year.

Communications with Toul, Verdun and Mezieres will be made from Paris, while the Southeastern group of fort lesses, Belfort, Dijon, Besancon and Lyons, will be connected by the aerial besiengers with Langres. Constant tommuication will be had between the two main stations. The greatest distance between any two places in ditet communication will not exceed kilometres, or 154 miles, and as the average swiftness of a carrier pigton is about 800 metres, or, one-half a wile a minute, the longest of these bilitary journeys can be accomplished a shout five hours.

NO. 256

Here is the official returns from Ohio for the principal State officers voted for at the recent election, which shows that the boasted Republican majority lacks considerable of being even a tie: For Secretary of State.

Democratic.... 380,275 Prohibition 9,857 Greenback 3,580..... Republican Less than a majority..... 2,113 For Superior Court Judge. Republican.... Democratic. . . . 378,963 Prohibition.... 9.857 Greenback 3,780... ... 392.600 Republican majority.....

When Edison, genius and inventor that he is, had given two weeks of his valuable time to going up and down on the New York Elevated Railroad trying to discover what caused its noise and a cure for it, he gave up the job. Then a little woman tried it. She rode on the cars three days, was denied a place to stand on the rear platform, laughed at for her curiosity and politely snubbed by conductors and passengers. But she discovered what caused the noise, invented a remedy which was patented. and she was paid the sum of $10,000 and a royalty forever. Her name is Mrs. Mary Walton, and she lives in New York City.

There was not a large number at the organ recital on Saturday afternoon, but those who did attend were delighted with the music. It took place at an hour when nearly every one was busy: the ladies with their household cares and duties and the gentlemen with the demands of business.

The Montefiore Centenary. The previous announcement that the Israelites of this city would celebrate the centennial anniversary of the "old man benevolent," Sir Moses Montefiore, on Sunday, 26th inst., filled their beautiful Temple with our best citizens of both sexes and all creeds, all bent on uniting in this manifestation of their appreciation of the life and labors of the gray-headed Baronet. The services opened after 5 o'clock, when the Rev. Dr. Mendelsohn ascended the pulpit and the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. D. Kahnweiler, and Mrs. M. P. Taylor presiding at the organ, beautifully rendered an appropriate hymn. Mr. J. I. Macks then came to the platform and read a copy of the congratulatory address forwarded to Sir Moses by our Jewish fellow-citizens, which was followed by the reading of well known selections from the Psalms and a tervent prayer, thanking God for His great gifts bestowed upon the venerable Baronet and imploring His continued blessings for the great philanthropist. After the singing of another hymn the Rabbi delivered an oration on the "Life and Labors of the Modern Moses."

Taking the closing verses of the pentateuch (Dent. 24, 10-13) as his text. Rabbi Mendelsolin earnestly and eloquently compared the lives of the ancient great deliverer of Israel from Egyptian bondage and of the modern apostle of liberty and equality and demonstrated, by copious references to the virtues of the latter, that his name truly ries of all men and to be transmitted to posterity as the brightest in the history of our century, embodying as it does the most heroic deeds of self-abnegation and humanitanism, and a constant and insatiable craving to benefit his fellow-man inespective of race or creed. Inglowing terms he described Sir Moses, several journeys to Syria, Damascus, Russia and Morocco, and the seven visits he paid to the Holy Land, the last one in 1875, when he was in his ninety-second year, always in the interest of his oppressed coreligionists and his down trodden fellow-beings of other creeds. Dr. Mendelsohn was very enthusiastic throughout the whole address, but became especially so towards the close, when he exclaimed: "Our Moses exemplifies that the MAN is truly the noblest creature of God. noble than the Jew and the Christian who are but creatures of theology." He exhorted his attentive hearers to imitale, as far as possible, the great exemplar of everything that is truly great and noble in man's noble nature, and con-That century of life, of faith, of love, Can never die, ne'er pass in gloom away;

Will make it His-a pure though earth-Fixed in the circlet of His diadem."

A collection was then taken up, the proceeds of which, agreeably to the recommendation of Rabbi Mendelsohn, will form the nucleus for a "Sir Moses Montefiore Sunday School Prize of the Major Stedman and Judge Faircloth | Congregation of the Temple of Israel," which will annually be awarded to the most meritorious scholar in the religious school attached to the congregation .-We understand that quite a considerable amount was realized.

After the singing of a third hymn, the Rabbi dismissed the congregation with the benediction.

Our Views.

In what we have written within the last few days regarding the outrageous conduct of some of the colored people towards the whites, we would not be understood to convey the idea that we consider all of that race as being guilty A white man may vote just as he or of endorsing such conduct. We are glad to think that it is only from the worst elements of the colored people we may expect such things. There are colored people in the city-men and womenwho are far above being guilty of such who bitterly and justly denounce it They condemn it, not only because they know it to be vile and wrong, but because it brings odium and reproach upon those who would be respected and respectable.
