The Daily Review.

FADED LEAVES.

The hills are bright with maples yet:
But down the level land
The beech leaves rustle in the wind
As dry and brown as sand.

The clouds in bars of rusty red
Along the hill-tops glow,
As in the still sharp air the frost
Is like a dream of snow.

The berries of the brier-rose
Have lost their rounded pride,
The bitter sweet chrysanthemums
Are drooping, heavy-eyed.

The cricket grows more friendly now,
The drowsy sly and wise,
Hiding away in the disgrace
Of nature from men's eyes.

The pigeons in back warring lines
Are swinging toward the sun;
And all the wide and withered fields
Proclaim the Summer done.

His store of nuts and acorns now
The squirrel hastes to gain,
And sets his house in order for
The Winter's dreary reign.

'Tis time to light the evening fire,
To read good books, to sing
The low and lovely songs that breathe
Of the eternal spring.

—ALICE CAREY.

How He Lost His Farm.

"I'm no tramp, mum," said the individual, who looked like the breaking-up-of-a-hard-winter, as he solicited something to eat, not having eaten a morsel of food for the past fourteen days. "No, mum, don't class me with them shiftless vagabonds. I've met with great misfortunes, I hev."

"What were their nature?" sympathetically asked the good housewife, as she gathered together all the cold victuals within reach.

"I but a short time ago, mum, owned one of the finest farms in Minnesota."

"What became of it?"

"One of them dreadful cyclones of which you have no doubt read mum, blew that beautiful farm in five minutes entirely upon the land of another man and left me penniless."

"But had you not still the land left?" asked the lady.

"No, mum, the cyclone carried it all on to a 'jining' farm and the man that owned it refused to give it up."

"But the land your farm was located on—surely it was still left?"

"Oh, yes, it was there; but you see it belonged to a man who owned it afore my land was blown on top of it, and when mine blown off he come and claimed the property. Them cyclones is terrible. Thankee, mum. No cold potatoes—I don't relish them when I git to thinking on my misfortunes."

Courts and Courtiers.

When Louis XIV honored Due d'Antin with his presence at Petit-Bourg he happened to remark that part of the estate might be greatly improved by cutting down a wood which intercepted the view over the surrounding country. D'Antin immediately gave secret orders that every tree should be sawed almost entirely asunder near the root, so that it might fall as soon as a rope attached to it was pulled, and directed that upward of 1,200 men should be ready to do this at a certain signal from him. Having settled beforehand the conversation up to the desired topic, and on the king once more repeating his observation relative to the removal of the wood, simply replied that it could be done whenever his majesty pleased. "In that case," said Louis, "I should like to see it done now." He had hardly uttered the words, when d'Antin gave a loud whistle, and down fell all the trees. "Oh, ladies," whispered the young Duchess de Bourgogne, the spoiled child of the court, to those around her, "depend upon it, if the king had chosen to ask M. d'Antin for our heads, there would not have been one left upon our shoulders."

Where Women Work.

As Bavaria joins Switzerland I give the essence of a little talk which I had with a Bavarian and his wife, between Geneva and Munich. They were both in the field reaping wheat with a sickle. A bare-footed woman was picking up straw in the next field.

"What do you get a month for such work?" I asked.

"We get, both of us together, thirty-two marks," ($8) said the man.

"And your board, too?"

"Yes, our food, too."

"What do you eat every day?" I asked.

"We have flour soup for breakfast, potatoes, bread noodles for dinner, and soup and noodles for supper. Twice a week we have salt pork." (Noodles are made of black flour, scalded and dried.)

"Do you have coffee and sugar?"

"None!" they both said, shaking their heads.

The bread they eat is made of rye. In the villages the same bread is fed to horses. It is a common thing to see a man and horse eating from the same loaf. Girls, working as servants in cities, get about $5 a month; and so it is with all the laboring people on farms in Switzerland, France, Germany and Russia. The market-gardener near Munich and Dresden uses barefooted women to draw his vegetables to market in wagons over the stones. Women become beasts of burden; still, they do not grumble, they do not smie, either—they simply exist. The only liberty they have is the liberty to work; the only rest they have is sleep. The ex-

For the Campaign.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN UPON which the people of North Carolina are just preparing to enter all questions, be one of great excitement as well as one of vital importance to them. It will be no child's play.

All that is needed to insure Democratic success and continued prosperity to the State is a plain, truthful statement of what are now the facts of history, or are daily becoming so. The reasons for Democratic victory, and the even stronger reasons for Republican defeat, are abundant, and it is the purpose of the REGISTER to do its full part in laying them before the people.

As the best means in its power to this end, and in answer to appeals, the REGISTER will be furnished as such low rates as to put it in the reach of every one during the present State and Presidential campaigns.

If we all do our full duty, victory will surely be with us; but that duty will leave us no time to loaf. We will start you, late work, work all the time. If good government and a people's prosperity are worth working for, let us all go to work, and at once.

CAMPAIGN RATES.

THE REGISTER will be furnished to Clubs, until November 15, at the following rates:

One copy, 50c; five copies, $2, ten copies, $3.75; twenty copies, $7; fifty copies, $15; one hundred copies, $25.

In every case the paper will be sent until the returns of the election shall be received and published, and we invite the attention of Executive Committees of Counties and Townships, and of all others interested, to the Campaign REGISTER as a sure and cheap means of furnishing information to the people.

DEMOCRACY vs. REPUBLICANISM.

HANDBOOK OF NORTH CAROLINA POLITICS FOR 1884.

The Platforms, The Parties, and The Issues Thoroughly Discussed.

The influence of "Document No. 1," issued by the Democratic State Executive Committee in 1882, was generally recognized as decisive in that year's campaign.

A similar book will be prepared for this year's use, and will be issued immediately after the session of the Chicago Democratic Convention.

Document No. 1 will be a well printed pamphlet of about 150 pages, 8vo., and will contain the fullest information on matters involved in this year's elections.

Document No. 1 will be supplied at the actual cash cost of type-setting, paper and press work.

In order that the size of the edition may be determined, prompt orders are requested.
