THE NEW-BORN KING.

My baby lies within my arms, and, rocking to and fro. My thoughts are dwelling on that time when, long and long ago.

A mother opened wide her arms, and on her tender breast. With mether-love and reverence, laid her holy babe to rest. even now I feel the thrill which coursed thro' every vein Of that sweet mother's heart, whose Son o'er heaven and earth would I know just how she bent to lay her cheek against His own. And how she sang her lullables in loving, reverent tone, And how the baby-eyes met hers and lingered on her smile,

E'en as she kissed and loved her babe. and blessed her Christ the while. The royal little head was crowned with heaven'- hallowed light.

The feeble Lttle baby-hands were vested with the right

To guide, to bless, to heal, and lead, as older they should grow. And heaven's majesty was o'er that babe of long ago; But yet He was a helpless child, and needed mother's care-

Realty a baby to be loved like my own baby fair. And, oh, that thought to every mother's heart must be so near! And bring the Gracions Saviour's blessed love forever near!

And as I sit this Christmas Eve, and rock my babe to rest. And feel the helpless weight of his dear head upon my breast.

I breathe a prayer of thankfulness that the Great King above Knows, blesses, guards, and sacred makes the power of mother-love.

-MARY D. BRINE.
