Gen. Lewal, who succeeds Gen, Cam. penon as the minister of war for France. is one of the most distinguisued mili, tary authorities in Europe. His published works, forming several volumes, have attracted great attention. Gen Lewal was chief of staff of the army called the Rhine army in the French German war, and had endeavored in vain to persoade Marshal Bazaine to march from Metz to the relief of Marshal MacMahon before the battle of Sedan. His name was in every one's mouth at the time of Marshal Bazaine's trial, as his testimony threw much new light on the affair and was most damaging to he cause of that stubborn old imperialist. Gen. Lewal had also much to do with the reorganization of the army under Marshal Niel after the close of the war of 1871, but the measures advocated by him were of too sweeping a character to find immediate accept-
