VOL. IX.

WILMINGTON, N. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1885.

NO. 20.

The colored people of Philadelphia have purchased ground on which to erect an industrial school for colored children at a cost of $100,000.

Mr. Lincoln's manner while signing the emancipation proclamation on New Year's night, 1863, is thus described in a current item: "As he took up the pen he said to Secretary Stanton: 'My arm is numb to the shoulder from so much handshaking. If my hand trembles they will say it was because I was afraid.' Then he threw out his under lip in a peculiar manner and wrote the unflinching signature, 'A. Lincoln,' that gave freedom to over three millions of blacks."

The San Franciscans are very proud of what they term their Golden Gate Park of over a thousand acres. Of all the great parks of the world they assert that there is none so picturesque and none having so many resources for variety of arboriculture. Nearly all semi-tropical trees will thrive in it. For ten years the work of tree planting has been going on, and the Park is rapidly becoming a most attractive spot. One of the best features of the place is the ocean view, the Park being located on the shore of the bay, with a driveway along the beach.

It is sad to think that Nebuchadnezzar after his gay life had got to so many, but sadder the thought that so many men of promise and ability find early graves by carelessness in not checking a cold in its early stages by the use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Prince Bismarck makes his foreign office cost only $1,400,000 a year, while those of England and France cost $3,000,000 each. His own private fortune is said not to exceed $500,000.

Mrs. Black, the wife of William Black, novelist, has preserved the original manuscripts of "Madcap Violet" and "McLeod of Daré" to hand down as heirlooms to her children and children's children.

The bridegroom of the Princess Beatrice has not received the congratulations of the Prince of Wales, nor of the Duke of Edinburgh, and the resentment of the young lady at this snub to her beloved is indicated by her absence from the rejoicing over the coming of age of the Prince's son.

Alpheus Felch, who in his span has served the people of Michigan as legislator, auditor general, judge of the Supreme Court, Governor and United States Senator, enjoys the sunset of life at Ann Arbor where until lately he held the Tapan professorship of law. Mr Felch is now four-score and looks like Horace Greeley once looked.

While the surviving members of the Earl of Aylesford's family are unavoidably grateful over the insurance policies the Earl has left behind him, it is said that his runaway and much-eloping wife and the notorious Duke of Marlborough are exchanging a few meaning winks between their tears and wondering what prudish England will do when the Buckinghamshire lady becomes the Duchess of Marlborough.

The fact that rats will desert a sinking political craft is proved by the scamper out of Tammany Hall last week. When the primaries of the County Democracy were over the names of several leading Tammany men were found in the standing committees of the rival organization, while a number of other active politicians who had never before taken any active part were also enrolled in the ranks of the victorious faction.

A writer in Science, discussing the subject of rainfall in Kansas, finds that, while this has increased twenty per cent. in the eastern half of the State since its occupation by the white settlers, western Kansas has little increase of rainfall to boast of, and little to hope for. He greatly doubts, indeed, whether this half of the State, lying outside the immediate track of vapor-laden winds, can ever have a rainfall adequate to maintain successful agriculture.

Two of Mr. Gladstone's particular friends and associates in the Peers are Scotch Earls, Roseberry and Aberdeen, who are of the standing of his own eldest son. Lord Aberdeen has a clever managing wife, who has had a large share in pushing him into prominence. His father was a shy, timid person, dreadfully snubbed by his father, the Prime Minister, and his own elder brother preferred sailing as mate on an American vessel to assuming the earldom.

Mr. Jas. C. Deyos, of Jackson, Mich., had a valuable trotting horse named in the shoulders and loins. After a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, the wonderful pain-cure, he says, he trotted him in a race, which he won in three straight heats in 2,263, 2,228 and 2,243, beating all his former records.

For the South Atlantic States warmer weather and rain, northeast winds shifting to easterly, and falling barometer.

We were pleased to meet yesterday with Mr. Julius Samson, of New York, proprietor of the dry goods house in this city which bears his name. Mr. Samson's home is in New York but he occasionally visits this city, where so many years of his youth and manhood's prime were passed. He is looking well and bears his years most gracefully.

At about 3:30 o'clock this morning fire was discovered on the roof of the small one-story frame dwelling on North Second street, next North of the Northeast intersection of that street with Hanover street. The building was occupied by a colored family. The alarm was promptly given, but owing to the unseasonable hour and the intensity of the cold the flames had gotten such headway before the arrival of the fire department, that the building was totally destroyed. The two-story frame store house and dwelling on the corner of Hanover and North Second streets, which was also occupied by colored families, caught fire and the roof was burned off. This latter building was in imminent peril of total destruction and was saved by the best efforts of the firemen. The property belonged to Mr. Martin Rathjen, and was insured in the Wilmington Mutual to the amount of $400 on the smaller building and $800 on the larger. The dwelling next North of the building destroyed, belonging to Mrs. Strauss, was somewhat scorched, but sustained no serious damage.

Major Charles Manly Stedman, of Wilmington, who yesterday took the place as second in command of the ship of State, had not up to the opening of the last campaign taken any prominent part in the politics of the State, though he had from early youth, in an unobtrusive manner, done much and faithful service in the cause of sound Democracy and had been made prominent by the deserved admiration of his friends in the politics of his city and Congressional district. But on accepting the nomination for the office he holds he proved the wisdom of the convention's choice, for he canvassed the State with such zeal and eloquence that his fame spread like wild-fire from the mountains to the seaboard. He established for himself a reputation for logical, forcible and eloquent appeals from the stump, equalled only by the reputation he already enjoyed as a brilliant advocate at the bar. His opponent was rarely, if ever, heard of, and though perhaps the most respectable candidate on the Republican ticket, seemed only in the contest to accept as evident, even to himself, his position of a leader of a forlorn hope. Major Stedman is of that class of our people who have taken into their own hands the work of carving out their personal fortunes and the fortunes of the State. He represents the lately awakened spirit of material progress which has already produced most valuable results, and nothing that he can do to advance the best interests of the people will be left undone. Successful himself he will be able to impart the elements of success to whatever is intended for the State's good that shall come under his control. He is a man of strong convictions and earnest speech, liberal and patriotic, able, honest and eloquent. He is of singularly fine personal presence and of the most pleasing address. In him the State has an officer of whom it may in every way be proud. He will preside over the deliberations of the Senate in a manner to lend dignity to its proceedings, dispatch the public business and fully satisfy the senators.

Major Stedman was born in Chatham county in 1841, but removed with his family at an early age to Fayetteville. In 1857 he entered the State University and graduated with first distinction. When the war broke out he went to the front in the ranks of the Fayetteville Light Infantry, and his career as a soldier was in the highest degree honorable to himself and to the State he served. He emerged from the struggle Major of the forty-fourth regiment, North Carolina volunteers, and returned to a home desolated by the enemy. With the pluck and energy which have always characterized him, he yielded not a moment to despair, but went at once to work, opening a school at Pittsboro and renewing the study of the law which he had four years before begun. In 1866 he obtained license to practice in the courts of the State, and in 1867 removed to Wilmington, where his great success at the bar and as a man of affairs attests his ability as a lawyer, his honesty as a man and his patriotism as a citizen.

There was no City Court this morning. The storm signal was flying again to-day. The weather has moderated very much since sunrise. The receipts of cotton at this port to-day foot up 343 bales. Two white tramps were accommodated with lodgings at the guard house last night. The reports from all along the lines of the different railroads are that there is plenty of cold weather and to spare. It was much colder at Weldon yesterday than it was here.

There were a very few flakes of snow fell this morning but getting up a respectable snow storm in this latitude is such up-hill work, that the job was given up and a rain was substituted. The firemen had a rough time of it at this morning's fire. Water froze upon everything it touched, except the fire, and those who got wet had their clothing frozen unless they happened to be quite near the flames.

Br. Schooner Hattie Darling, Pearse, cleared to day for Harbor Island, W. I., with 17,000 feet lumber, 40,000 shingles, 40 barrels flour and 1 barrel tar oil, valued at $612, shipped by Messrs. Cronly & Morris.

The weather last night was decidedly wintry, but it was warm here as compared with the 100-miles-an-hour hurricane they had at Mt. Washington, N. H., yesterday, with the thermometer at 50 degrees below zero.

Mr. George B. Hawes, of No. 505 Baldwin street, Elmira, N. Y., writes us that he desires to find some place in the South where there is a plenty of hard wood to be used for manufacturing purposes in an industry which he desires to start in this section. The kinds of wood wanted are not specified, but those interested and having hard woods would do well to correspond with Mr. Hawes, at the above address.

At the residence of the bride's mother, in this city, last evening, Dr. Wm. P. O'Neill, of Charleston, S. C., was married to Miss Lottie Daniel, daughter of the late N. G. Daniel, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Northrop, and was witnessed by numerous friends of the bride and groom. A reception was held after the wedding and the house was thronged until the bride and groom took their departure on the last mail train for the South.

Dr. O'Neill is a prominent physician of the city of Charleston and has won for his wife one of the most beautiful and accomplished of the many beautiful and charming young ladies of which our "City by the Sea" can boast.

Indications For the South Atlantic States warmer weather and rain, northeast winds shifting to easterly, and falling barometer.

Lieut.-Governor Stedman. Hon. Chas. M. Stedman, Lieutenant-Governor of North Carolina, assumed the duties of his office on Wednesday, and is now the presiding officer of the Senate. The following handsome allusion to this distinguished gentleman is taken from the editorial columns of the News and Observer:

Major Charles Manly Stedman, of Wilmington, who yesterday took the place as second in command of the ship of State, had not up to the opening of the last campaign taken any prominent part in the politics of the State, though he had from early youth, in an unobtrusive manner, done much and faithful service in the cause of sound Democracy and had been made prominent by the deserved admiration of his friends in the politics of his city and Congressional district. From the Antipodes. We are in receipt of a copy of the Japan Weekly Mail, which was published at Tokohama on the 13th of November last. It contains a large amount of reading matter, evidently selected from its daily edition, and is a newsway as well as a live'y paper. It announces the probable election of Mr. Cleveland to the Presidency of the United States, but thinks that, with the news at hand, the result is left in uncertainty. The Mail is printed in English, and is gotten up in good style.

The List. Mr. Cicero Harris, in a recent letter to the Charlotte Observer from Washington, has had something more to say relative to the applicants from this city for positions under the Federal government. He adds one or two more to the list of candidates for both the Custom House and Postoffice, and it now stands, according to him: Hon. A. H. VanBokkelen, Mr. C. H. Robinson, Dr. A. J. DeRosset, O. G. Parsley, Esq., Jr., Maj. C. W. McClammy and Mr. W. H. Bernard, for the former, and Col. F. W. Kerchner, Col. James G. Burr and Capt. C. D. Myers for the latter. We print the names in the order in which Mr. Harris gives them. He further says that Capt. Swift Galloway is "locks horns" with Messrs. Busbee and Strange for the position of District Attorney of North Carolina.

Through to Richmond. It is understood that not only the trains but the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen on the passenger route between this city and Richmond will, on and after the first of next month, all run through from city to city, as has been heretofore intimated by us. Referring to this fact, yesterday's Petersburg Index-Appeal says that Capt. A. H. Cutts, conductor on the Wilmington and Weldon road, and Mr. John Bullock, baggage master on the same road, arrived there Wednesday night en route for Richmond. These gentlemen have gone on for the purpose of informing themselves as to the various stopping places on the Petersburg & Weldon and the Richmond & Petersburg roads, and to obtain such other information as might be thought proper prior to entering upon their new duties. The locomotives of the different roads composing this line have all been renumbered.
