The Gardens.

It used to be a prevailing idea with the farmers' wives in the country that, if they did not plant their gardens by the 14th of February, they would have no garden truck for their dinner tables. If the idea is correct then they stand a poor chance this year, for we imagine that there are very few planted thus far this season, and it is now considerably past the conventional time. The cold, during the month, has been severe, and this, with the great amount of wet weather, has made it next to impossible to plough or sow.

The Last of Earth

All that is mortal of Edward Kidder was to-day conveyed to its last resting place in Oakdale Cemetery that beautiful city of the dead of which the deceased was one of the earliest projectors. The remains were conveyed from the house to the First Presbyterian Church where the beautiful services were pronounced by Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Wilson, after which they were followed to Oakdale by an immense concourse of surviving relatives and friends. The floral decorations were profuse and superb and joyous hands had arranged them in their most attractive guise. The pall bearers were Dr. A. J. DeRosset, Dr. E. A. Anderson, Mr. Geo. R. French, Hon. A. H. Van Bokkelen, Mr. Alfred Martin, Mr. Jas. H. Chadbourne, Mr. Donald McRae and Mr. B. G. Worth.

Mr. E. A. Buck, editor and publisher of "The Spirit of the Times," New York, N. Y., states: "I have used St. Jacobs Oil, the great conqueror of pain, repeatedly, with satisfactory results."

Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

A called meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, to which ex-members of the organization and merchants generally were invited, was held at the rooms of the Produce Exchange at noon to-day. There was a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by Hon. A. H. Van Bokkelen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who stated that the object of the meeting was to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of their late member, Mr. Edward Kidder. Mr. Van Bokkelen spoke in eulogy of the deceased, of his strict attention to business and consideration of the interests of those in the same line of business, and sympathy for those in distress, and stated that Mr. Kidder was a man firm in his convictions and would be missed as a counsellor and aider of all public matters, independent of personal profit or consideration of personal advancement.

On motion of Dr. A. J. DeRosset, seconded by Mr. Donald McRae, a committee of five was appointed to draft suitable resolutions upon the death of the deceased, and Messrs A. J. DeRosset, B. F. Mitchell, Alfred Martin, B. G. Worth and George Harris were named as that committee.

The committee, through Dr. A. J. DeRosset, reported as follows:
Testimonial in Memory of Edward Kidder. Adopted by the Chamber of Commerce, Feb. 27th 1885:

Our whole community, after more than a week of painful anxiety and suspense, occasioned by the announcement of the dangerous illness of Mr. Edward Kidder, has been thrilled in every member with grief and sorrow by its fatal termination on the night of Wednesday, 25th inst.

Born in New Hampshire, A. D. 1805, he removed to this city in 1826, and for nearly three score years has been always among the foremost in planning and promoting every enterprise which has been undertaken for the advancement of the material progress of our city, and of the educational, moral and religious good of our people.

His sound judgment and wonderful energy in the management of his business have secured to him a degree of success to which few have attained; and his unquestioned integrity, large-hearted charity and unostentatious benevolence have won for him the respect and admiration of all.

High as was his position as a business man and a citizen, those who were most intimately connected with him can testify to the loveliness of character which adorned him in his private life.

It is, therefore, eminently fit and proper that this assemblage of friends and members of the Chamber of Commerce, with whom he has so long been associated, have been called together to give expression to their sense of the great loss which has been sustained in the death of such a man, and it is unanimously

Resolved, That this testimonial shall be recorded in the books of the Chamber, and that a blank page of the same shall be appropriated for the record of the name of Mr. Kidder and the dates of his birth and death.

Resolved, further, That a copy of these proceedings, with the signatures of the President and Secretary, be transmitted to the family of the deceased, with the assurance of our sympathy and sorrow in their bereavement, and of our high estimate of the precious legacy he has left them in the memory of his life and character.

The report on motion was accepted by a standing vote. In seconding the motion to accept the report Mr. W. Calder said:

MR. CHAIRMAN: In seconding the resolutions presented by your committee, I can add but little to their truthful estimate of the life and character of our deceased friend. His contemporaries for many years, their testimony is the highest evidence we can have of the great public and private virtues that made him so estimable a citizen.

For the younger portion of our community, I am sure I but echo their sentiments when I say that to us he has always appeared a tower of strength, and a living example of what great energy, untiring industry and unassailable integrity may accomplish. He won his means and position by no meretricious methods, and without resorting to those hazardous ventures by which men in these modern days attempt to get rich fast—leaping before they walk.

The means he used was hard work, directed by an intelligent will, and the ends he attained redounded not only to his own good, but also to the advancement and happiness of the community at large. While many know how to make money, few know how to spend it well, but he possessed the rare combination of knowing how to make, to save and to spend, and in all of these to benefit those among whom he lived, as well as to advance his own fortunes.

The business and manufacturing he conducted and aided, the public works he founded, the hospitalities he dispensed, have all added to the health, the comfort or the happiness of those among whom he lived.

For his active industry, his correct business methods, his open-handed hospitality, his wise and unostentatious charity, he will long be remembered as a worthy example to the rising generation, and long regretted by the community his citizenship has benefited.

On motion of Dr. A. J. DeRosset it was voted that a copy of the proceedings of the meeting be furnished the newspapers of the city for publication.

On motion of Mr. J. H. Currie it was voted that business be suspended this afternoon and that the members of this Chamber will attend the funeral and that all merchants be invited to join in attendance upon the obsequies.

The Chamber of Commerce and merchants were notified to meet in St. James' Churchyard at half past 2 o'clock this afternoon and Col. J. L. Cantwell was designated to act as marshal for the occasion. Adjourned.

Purim Ball.

Our Hebrew fellow citizens are making preparations to celebrate what is known in the Jewish Calendar as the Feast of Purim, which will occur on Tuesday next, by a pleasant dance for the little ones on the evening of that day. The dances will be given at Germania Hall, and several prominent ladies of the Hebrew faith, as a committee of arrangements, are making well directed efforts to ensure the complete success of the occasion and to give the young people a season of pleasant enjoyment. It is expected that the ball will be continued by the "boys and girls of larger growth" after the little ones have gone home, but the matter is not yet definitely determined upon.

Ice Works and Cold Storage.

We learn from Messrs. W. E. Worth & Co. that they propose erecting an ice machine and cold storage buildings at the intersection of Second and Campbell streets. The ice machine will be of the latest and most approved pattern and of sufficient capacity to supply the demand for the city of Wilmington. The cold storage building will be large enough to meet all requirements and so constructed as to be easily enlarged if necessary.

The ice machine makes ice directly from steam; the steam being condensed and the condensed water frozen into blocks of ice 14 inches thick, 22 inches wide, and 37 inches long and weighing 200 pounds, clear and pure.

The cold storage rooms will be kept at a temperature of from 32½ to 35 degrees, at which temperature butter, meats of all kinds, fruits, etc., can be kept for months.

If these cold storage facilities are taken advantage of the citizens of Wilmington can have as good butter and as sweet and tender meats as the citizens of any city in the United States. The rates for cold storage will be such that every grocer and butcher can well afford to take advantage of them.

Death of Capt. Jack Griffith.

Capt. John Griffith, one of the oldest citizens of the place and one of the best known, died at his residence in this city at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, at the advanced age of 80 years.

"Capt. Jack Grit," as he was familiarly known of all, was one of the landmarks of Wilmington and his life has been in its way an eventful one. He was born in Pittsburg, Penn., and the cause of his locating in Wilmington was an accidental one. He was on a vessel bound for some port to the South of us, when quite a young man, and was wrecked on this coast. He came on to Wilmington with the survivors of the vessel, and was so much pleased with the place and the people that he established himself here in his business, that of a sail-maker, and has remained here ever since. He was a noted and a noble fireman, and was for a long term of years foreman of Wilmington Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1. On the 22d day of February, 1865, he was commissioned by the late Hon. John Dawson, the Mayor of the city, to surrender the place to the Federal troops, and this he did. He met Gen. Terry on his entrance into Wilmington and formally surrendered the town into his hands. He was afterwards, directly after the close of the war, a captain of the police, in which position he served with his usual zeal and fidelity.

Capt. Griffith had been sick but for a very short time, he having taken to his bed last Monday. His last act previous to this was to pay a visit to his friend and partner, Mr. James F. Anderson, who died on that day.

A Simple Question.

Is it lawful for some citizens or business men to block up the sidewalk with plows, barrels, &c., &c., so that but one person at the time can pass, and if two should meet one has to take the gutter? If so, please inform the public so that they may take the middle of the street at once.

City Court.

Lewis Holland was brought before the Mayor this morning charged with disorderly conduct and was fined $5 for the offense.

Arthur Laten was charged with the same offense, but was discharged.

Two butchers were charged with buying cattle to slaughter without having them weighed in accordance with the city ordinance in such cases made and provided, but the evidence was insufficient to convict and they were discharged.

Supreme Court.

In this Court, on Wednesday, the consideration of appeals from the third judicial district was resumed and causes were disposed of as follows:

B. H. Tyson vs. S. H. Tyson, from Wilson; argued by Connor & Woodard for the plaintiff, and George V. Strong for the defendant.

Matthew Moore vs. Stafford Grant, from Duplin; argued by Farcloth & Allen for the plaintiff, and H. R. Kornegay and G. V. Strong for the defendant.

A Hard Case.

Joe Goodman, colored, whose name might appropriately be called "Badman," figured quite prominently a couple of years ago as one of a gang of thieves which infested a portion of Brunswick county. He, with several others of the gang, were arrested and brought to trial, when Goodman turned State's evidence and materially assisted in the conviction of three of the gang, and they were sent to the penitentiary. In his case judgment was suspended during good behavior and he was discharged. Recently he has been engaged in his old tricks of stealing and his acts had become so notorious that Sheriff Taylor, a few days since, organized a posse to go in search of, and arrest him, if found. He was found, arrested and taken to the Sheriff's house, where he was put in irons to insure his safe conveyance to the jail at Smithville. He managed, however, to escape when a force was sent in quest of him with orders to arrest him at all hazards. He was soon found as, with the chains upon his legs, he could not travel very fast, but he would not surrender until he was pretty well riddled with bird shot when he gave up and soon found himself inside the county jail. When Sheriff Taylor reached Smithville with Goodman a physician was called who extracted nine shot from the prisoner. The wounds are painful, but are not considered dangerous.
